BOATMEN AT TAMPICO OUT

General Strike Called of All Marine Workers on River Craft; Oil Companies Affected

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TAMPICO, July 10.—A general strike of all marine workers employed on river craft operating out of this port is in progress here today. The strike was called last night and more than 1500 men have left their jobs, seriously affecting every oil company operating in this vicinity.

The strike came as a result of a disagreement between the union and the Texas Company of Mexico. The company had discharged a crew on one of its tugs operating on the Panuco River and had hired men from a rival union to man it.

Demands were immediately made on the company by both unions, one asking that the discharged men be taken back and the other asking for a large increase in wages for the men who had been hired to replace those discharged. The unions also demanded that more men also be hired on all vessels in order to make the work easier. These demands were flatly refused and the strike call followed.

A request to the union officials from the municipal authorities and the port inspector that the strike call be postponed for five days so that the question could be mediated was ignored.

The unions have petitioned all workmen in the city and State to aid in spreading propaganda for the strikers and have circulated manifestos. It is feared that the strike may spread to all ports, including those on the Pacific, as a result of these activities by the unions.

Officials of the various oil companies affected by the walkout have indicated that they will fight the strikers and hire nonunion workmen to man the boats deserted by the radicals. Trouble is expected to follow between the loyal workers and the strikers and precautions are being taken by the authorities to prevent this.

SUSPENSION OF SHOPPING PUBLICATION

Oakland Merchants Vote Against Continuance; Say Daily Paper is Best

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—The Oakland (Cal.) Shopping News, put out by fifteen merchants has suspended publication after ten months' existence. At a recent meeting of the principals a majority voted against the continuance.

C. G. Monroe, acting president of Taft & Pennoyer and chairman of the Shopping News executive committee, said:

"While some of those interested stated that they got good results, still a majority vote caused the decision to suspend. In all fairness I wish to state that no medium of advertising can take the place of the daily newspaper."

H. C. Capwell, head of the H. C. Capwell Company department store, said:

"I wish to state that all advertising done in a dignified way is good advertising, but there isn't any method comparable with newspaper advertising for satisfactory results.

MacMILLAN ENCOUNTERS HEAVY WIND

Explorer Will Remain at Strait of Belle Isle for Better Weather

BY DONALD B. MacMILLAN
[FROM NORTH AMERICAN NEWSPAPER ALLIANCE—RELAYED BY WIRELESS.]

ON BOARD THE BOWDOIN OFF COAST OF NEWFOUNDLAND, July 10.—We have just arrived at Battle Harbor after a stormy and hazardous voyage. As we neared the Strait of Belle Isle the weather became gradually worse and we were bucking a strong northeast wind accompanied by thick fogs which made navigation difficult. Added to this was the ever-present danger of collision with the hundreds of icebergs which are floating south from the North Atlantic. I have never encountered so many before at this season of the year.

Reports here indicate that the ice conditions are extremely bad farther north; especially along the coast of Labrador. We probably shall remain here three or four days to await the change in wind and weather that will drive the ice off the coast.

LEVIATHAN DRY BOAT

Liner Docks at Southampton

Passengers Sip Lemonade in Luxurious Salons of Giant Vessel

American Merchant Marine Will Never Die, Lasker Tells Britishers

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SOUTHAMPTON, July 10.—The liner Leviathan docked at 9:30 this evening with a bone-dry passenger list. Her red, white and blue funnels hove into sight before 8 o'clock. Airplanes hovered about her taking photographs.

"How is the beer?" was the shout to the press.

The crowd and passengers alike, who have gloomily sipped lemonade in the magnificent saloons, were doomed to disappointment for when they landed in Southampton the bars were closed. Inquiries aboard revealed that whatever drinking was done was in private staterooms. The first night many tried to bring liquor into the dining saloon, but they were stopped by Albert Lasker and other officials.

MODEL OF ORDERLINESS

All agreed that the trip was a a model of orderliness, baring some cabin parties. The officials declared that none were even seasick.

The Leviathan does not need repairs at Southampton, asking only for fresh water and oil.

"We are not trying to make a record this trip but only are seeking to run with the greatest economy," said Lasker. "Each day we made better speed on the same amount of fuel."

English reporters tried deliberately to heckle Mr. Lasker who said:

"We have a saying back home. 'It is all right if you smile when you say it,' we are delighted to see your flag enter our ports, for we have learned much from you. We expected you to feel the same."

The English attempted to make Lasker say this was an effort to push England off the seas.

He replied: "I know competitors who are my best friends."

"Is there more joy in a dry than a wet ship?" he was asked.

"My job has made me so sick I do not expect any joy."

Lasker speaking as one who knew President Harding's thoughts said:

WON'T GIVE UP

"We will never let the merchant marine die. Government ownership is poison ivy, but we had better have it than no merchant marine at all."

Mr. Gibbs, who supervised the reconditioning of the Leviathan, said the avearage speed had been 23.9 knots.

Replying to accusations of English deserters being aboard, Gibbs said the Leviathan accepted only men with first papers. Gibbs said:

"Every line must continue the size of their liners, the only limit being port facilities. There is always a place for medium sized ships, but the demand is for fast ones of great size."

Heckled like Lasker, Gibbs refused to issue a challenge to the Mauretania. Gibbs said the first voyage was satisfactory from a financial standpoint.

Senator Smoot differed from Gibbs, saying the Leviathan was big enough for the next twenty years and then "we will fly."

A large force of police came on the scene. It is said they will summon men accused of deserting.

BRITISH POSITION SET OUT

London Stand in Franco-German Row Likely to Bring Charges From Paris

BY JOHN STEELE
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, July 10.—Drafting experts worked until 5 o'clock this morning preparing the text of a statement on Great Britain's position on the Franco-German situation, which will be read Thursday by Prime Minister Baldwin and Lord Curzon. The finished draft is being studied today by the ministers and will be considered and put into its final form at a Cabinet meeting tomorrow.

The document in its present form will take about an hour to read. Mr. Baldwin will read it in reply to a prearranged question by Ramsey MacDonald, leader of the Labor party.

It will be a calm statement of Great Britain's position on the whole international situation, and an announcement of her intention to accept the German offer to submit her affairs to an international commission, which will determine her ability to pay and the method of payment.

All interested nations will be invited to join in this reply. Throughout the document is couched in friendly terms toward France.

France will be given every opportunity to act in concert with Great Britain, and if she decides to do so the entente will continue. There is little hope or expression in British circles, however, that France will abandon her present attitude of insisting on entire submission and payment of the last cent by Germany.

The document also will state plainly the effect on European trade by the French policy in the Ruhr, and will point out that in the British opinion the only result which can follow a persistence in this policy is the ruin of all Europe.

PREDICTIONS HAZARDOUS

What will follow this breach in the Anglo-French relations is hard now to predict. British spokesmen are insistent that it need not increase the friction, pointing out that neighbors can agree or differ without becoming enemies.

In the present state of both French and German opinion, however, it is most likely that the French will resent the British action, accusing Great Britain of desertion and pro-Germanism, while the Germans are already hailing England as their only true friend in Europe.

Comte de St. Aulaire, French Ambassador to London, called on Lord Curzon today for a final conference.

WHAT LOS ANGELES THINKS OF SAN FRANCISCO AND SAN FRANCISCO THINKS OF LOS ANGELES

In an effort to, once for all, let 'em get it out of their systems and thereby clear the atmosphere, the Los Angeles Times and the San Francisco Chronicle have undertaken to print what has long been supposed to be the unprintable—what San Francisco thinks of Los Angeles and what Los Angeles thinks of San Francisco. Each paper has sent one of its best writers to the other city and each writer is preparing a daily article, stating frankly what he thinks of the other man's town. These articles are exchanged nightly on the direct wire between the Times and Chronicle offices and each paper runs each article in parallel columns every morning for six mornings. This is the third exchange of compliments:

LOS ANGELES, July 10.—Putting a neighbor city under the microscope is not a task which needs coaxing.

In fact, observation of a neighbor city would be totally lacking in an essential detail, if an observer failed to kick in with a few comments on the inhabitants thereof, referring, of course, more particularly to their habits, habiliments and how they get that way.

Los Angeles, I may say, is the land of the overcoatless.

If a haberdasher tried to meet expenses by selling overcoats he would die of starvation.

I have even heard it said that there once lived a haberdasher in Los Angeles who (rash creature that he was) dared to place sample overcoats in his show windows.

The maddened populace chased the rash creature from his place of business clear down to Los Angeles Harbor, and that's no slouch of a chase when you remember that Los Angeles is a good twenty miles from the old postoffice.

Anyway, since that stirring event, no haberdasher has had the hardihood to offer overcoats for sale in Los Angeles. If you would learn the true reason for this universal lack of overcoats, just ask any inhabitant of Los Angeles.

HERE COMES THE CLIMATE

On second thought, you'd better not ask him, unless, of course, you care to listen to a three-hour treatise on "Our Glorious Climate."

No, gentle reader, Los Angeles has no use for the overcoat but she bulls the sport-clothes market from January 1 to January 1.

Any member of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce can prove that the male and female population of Los Angeles wear more sport clothes than any other city south of Saturn.

Since I've been in Los Angeles, the weather has been rather hot, but you'd never guess it if you quizzed a loyal inhabitant of Los Angeles.

Just this morning I razzed the elevator man about this town's heat.

On behalf of the entire population this humble elevator chauffeur, standing erect in the starboard lift in the Hotel Alexandria, took violent exception to my accusation that the weather was hot.

"It is not hot," the elevator chauffeur orated with more heat than I deemed necessary, "it is only comfortably warm. Anyway, if it is hot, it's high time we had it."

I ask you, is there any hope for such?

But to return to the prevalence of sport clothes in Los Angeles: The weather, having been "comfortably warm" during the last few days, has had the effect of flushing out some of the thinnest sport models I ever looked at.

Not the models in them, but over them, what I mean.

Sport clothes, Los Angeles style, are distinctly original, if you are willing to take the judgment of an amateur.

For instance, it is nothing to see a cute young thing ooze along Broadway in a filmy costume which could be shoved into the eye of a gnat without causing him the slightest discomfort. As nearly as I can judge, the average sport costume down here could be hung in a thimble and still leave plenty of room for the silk stockings and the whatnots.

I make these observations solely to impress you with the facts.

GIRLS RATHER CLOSE

Offhand, I should say, the girls, in a manner of speaking, are rather close with their clothes.

As for the men, young or old or both, they affect the motion-picture shoe.

Once upon a time a he-vamp of the silver sheet — one of those handsome devils who bandoline the bangs and paint the north lip so as to achieve the Cupid's-bow effect, did a summer scene, in which he wore motion-picture shoes.

Such shoes are built of a pale green elkskin, across the instep of which is a bold strap of brown leather.

Ever since that day the gay young blades, as well as the older ones, have affected the motion-picture shoe.

In fact, it is difficult to tell a motion-picture actor from an oil-selling hellion, if you don't look above the ankles.

If you look at their heads, well, that's different.

To resume: It is the girls who put on the Chihuahua down this way.

Your out-and-out Los Angeles girl, done in sport clothes, is keen for red slippers, or, depending upon her love of color, sometimes she goes in for green. In any event, she wants color and plenty of it.

But it is not the slippers nor again is it the sport clothes which catch the eye.

As a matter of cold fact, the Janes of Los Angeles paint their piazzas with such vividness that one is impelled to the belief that they use a trowel to put it on.

Here again we encounter the phenomenon which makes it difficult to differentiate between a

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—When we take the cosmic measurements of San Francisco and Los Angeles, this is what we find:

San Francisco has charm.

Los Angeles has power.

San Francisco has sentiment and feeling.

Los Angeles has naive enthusiasm.

San Francisco has delicacy and flavor.

Los Angeles has unmeasured energy.

San Francisco has imagination.

Los Angeles has zest.

San Francisco sips at strange and alluring liquors.

Los Angeles gulps down sherry with an egg in it.

San Francisco is wise and subtle old age.

Los Angeles is roaring youth.

However strongly one may be imbued with the Los Angeles spirit, no one can deny that San Francisco has a charm unequaled among American cities.

It has quaint and fascinating mysteries; you walk down queer little alleys; you turn into strange and unexpected corners there to find little book shops and old world nooks of romance and charm.

On the streets you meet pert little Chinese flappers with their pantaloons hitched up to show their little delicate legs, and in their wake you see pattering Mandarin women with bound feet and the air of high and ancient lineage.

No other city in the United States has such delightful municipal art. Taking it all in all, our nation's capital at Washington has the most horrible and frightful atrocities in the way of public monuments and San Francisco the best.

OUR "STATUARY"

Los Angeles is too young and too much excited about life to think about monuments to the glorious departed.

A fountain in Pershing Square, which consists of four dreadful little marble infants afflicted with dropsy, and a perfectly amazing statue of a soldier at the entrance of the park is about all thus far.

I feel a great curiosity to know just what will happen when the artistic fever hits Los Angeles one of these days.

I don't know just what it will be like, but I can vividly imagine a parade of the boosters marching down Broadway with Mr. Harry Haldeman at the head, bearing a huge banner with this device:

"Who the hell says we aren't artistic!"

And marching behind him a great company of famous sculptors and painters and decorators and monument builders triumphantly signed up in a body by Col. William May Garland in Paris for the occasion.

I can see the day when every new real estate tract will have a real masterpiece of art squatted out in the middle of the place before the triumphal opening.

Take it from me: there will come a day when they will put in the works of art before they do the street curbing and the flags to mark the lots.

They will get around to it one of these days in Los Angeles.

Well, well, in this and in diverse other ways, San Francisco is the

PRINCESS IS PRISONER

Beauty Accused of Murder

Storm Plays Part in Killing of Noble Egyptian in London Hotel

Found Dead in Room; Wife's Actions Are Mystery to Police

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, July 10.—Crashes of thunder late last night drowned the sounds of angry quarreling, two revolver shots and the cries of a dying Egyptian Prince, killed, the police believe, by his beautiful French wife in their suite at the fashionable Savoy Hotel.

Today the Princess, dressed with almost royal splendor, appeared in court for a formal hearing on a charge of willful murder and was remanded to jail.

Although the murder was committed sometime before, it was not until 2:30 that a servant saw the body of Prince Ali Kemal Fahmy lying half in and half out of the door to his suite. His blood-soaked silk dressing gown was pierced by two bullet holes.

BLOOD-STAINED GOWN

In the Princess's bedroom was found a white evening gown stained with blood and on the floor of the drawing-room several crushed beads had adorned the Princess. Some of these also bore blood stains, so the police promptly arrested the woman.

From the clews they have so far found and in the absence of any statement from the Princess, detectives have erected this hypothesis: There was a violent dispute between Prince Ali and his bride, who is eight years his senior, probably jealousy started the quarrel. When his wife picked up the revolver, the Prince tried to escape, but was shot down as he reached the door. Few of the hotel guests heard the shots and none heard the Prince cry out because of the heavy crashes of thunder that kept the city awake all night. Neither did anyone hear anything of a dispute.

The servant who found the body heard nothing, but had been summoned to the room of a nervous guest.

KNOWN IN SOCIETY

Both of them were well known in the hotel and had been prominent figures in society. The Prince was a handsome, sport-loving young man. Only 23, he received a large income from his father, described as one of the wealthiest real estate owners in Cairo. The Prince spent huge sums in travel, on his hobbies and recently for jewels for his bride.

The elegant slim, violet-eyed young French woman was in bad health and was to have gone to a nursing home for an operation today.

The crime, if it was here, could hardly have been premeditated. The couple were in England for a pleasure trip and would have gone back to France soon. As a French woman, the princess must have known that murderesses moved to killing by passion are much more leniently dealt with in her native country than here. At the inspector's office, where she was taken from the hotel, the young woman was in a half-fainting condition and was under the care of a woman attendant. When brought to court she was little stronger and had to be helped to the dock.

POLICE COURT CROWDED

The Bow Street Police Court was crowded with fashionably-gowned women and well-groomed men when the Princess was brought in. Her pale, strikingly beautiful face was framed in brown hair and there was a frightened look in the large violet eyes. She wore a long black coat trimmed with monkey fur, a small black hat, pearl earrings and several rings.

The courtroom was absolutely quiet except for the voice of a

Weather Fails to Halt Immense Crowd Which Greets Presidential Party at Juneau, Alaska

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

JUNEAU (Alaska) July 10.—Greeted by the Presidential salute of twenty-one guns from Chilkoot Barracks President Harding, Mrs. Harding and members of their party landed here today to spend the entire day as guests of Gov. Scott C. Bone, and territorial and city officials. The ideal weather which had attended the Alaskan trip gave way to rain and fog here, but the townspeople, paying no attention, gathered on the wharf in the business section to give the party a hearty welcome.

After landing, the party was driven through the town to the Governor's mansion, escorted by troops from Chilkoot Barracks, a company of marines from the Henderson and veterans of the American Legion. A large crowd had gathered about the mansion and, despite the rain, cheered loudly when the President and Gov. Bone appeared on the portico.

SIGN OF BAPTISTS

Gov. Bone introduced the President, who began his address by declaring that "there must be a lot of Baptists in Juneau, at any rate, people who turn out so generously on a rainy day like this ought to have some measure of return."

He continued:

"We have been greatly impressed by the scenery of Alaska during this first part of our trip. Sturdy, majestic, stalwart and immovable are truly the only words which de-

CURB SKIPPERS' POLICE POWER

Shipping Board Would Limit Liquor Ruling

Passengers Permitted to Mix Own Cocktails

Believe Nothing Can Prevent Dry-Act Violation

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Reports of consumption of private liquor stocks by passengers on board government-owned ships have brought before the Shipping Board the question of its jurisdiction in the matter with the resulting decision that its authority, as exercised through the ship's captain, does not run to the extent which would permit any interference with the passengers' actions.

It was indicated, however, that this decision might only be temporary and that steps would be taken to obtain a positive ruling on the question probably from the Department of Justice.

PRODUCE LIQUOR

As the situation now stands, the board is convinced that a passenger of the Leviathan, for instance, is entirely within his rights when he produces the makings of a cocktail at his table in the dining-salon and acts as bartender to his companions. The wide police powers given the commander of a ship under common law and international customs, it was declared by officials of the Board, were materially curtailed by the LaFollette Act, as they affected the crew, and almost obliterated, so far as they concerned passengers beyond the point where the safety of ship and cargo is involved.

Regulations, promulgated by Chairman Lasker last October, requiring "dry operation" of government passenger and cargo ships, will be enforced as heretofore, it was announced officially, but spokesman for the board were emphatic in their opinion that at present nothing could be done to curb the passengers defying the Volstead Act.

NOT UNANIMOUS

Inquiry among experts in maritime law did not bring unanimous support of the board's position. Long-established recognition of a captain's special responsibilities, according to some authorities, has given him practically limitless authority in suppression of what he may consider illegal acts by any persons on board his ship. In the Navy Department, the common-law rule of a skipper's authority has always held and the only modifications made since the beginning of the Navy have been in the form of restriction of punishments which he may inflict.

The decision of the board was not called forth by any recent incident, it was declared today, attention being called to the action which had been taken on the Leviathan's trial ship. Cards were posted in each stateroom requesting the voluntary co-operation of passengers to prevent violation of the liquor statutes.

FORFEIT STOCKS

It was understood that a similar request was carried in each stateroom on the eastward trip which the Leviathan has just completed.

Under another decision dealing with ship liquor, announced today, Commissioner Blair of the Internal Revenue Bureau, forfeiture proceedings will be undertaken by the Department of Justice against contraband liquor. Such suits, however, would not be directed at ships of commanders bringing liquors into American territorial waters.

South Dakota. In his speech of acceptance, Mr. McFarland denounced Bolshevism, I.W.W.ism and other ill-grounded isms of the present day, declaring the Elks order was a law-abiding, law-supporting, law-enforcing fraternity.

GAIN IN MEMBERS

The annual report of Grand Secretary Fred Robinson showed that the order has a membership of 826,835, an increase of 14,168 since the last meeting. Fifteen new lodges were chartered during the year, making the last numbered lodge 1470.

Total income for the year ended May 31, last, was given as $413,-303.75, a net gain over expenses of $107,428 and the total assets of the grand lodge were placed at $1,099,-912.25.

The California delegates to the convention, headed by Harry Ticknor and Frank Cryderman, were present when the gavel was sounded at 10 a.m. by retiring Grand Exalted Ruler Masters, and participated in all the deliberations of that body.

WOMEN ENTERTAINED

While the men were conducting the business of the convention, the women made a tour to points of interest in and around Atlanta. Places visited today included the Stone Mountain, the Federal penitentiary, Grant Park, the National Cemetery at Marietta and others. Several of the women spent the day listening to deliberations of the General Assembly of Georgia; which is in session here, while those whose inclinations led toward golf spent their time chasing the elusive sphere around the grass spots.

The afternoon and evening hours were spent watching the various Elk bands and attending a ballet dance entertainment at the City Auditorium participated in by some of Atlanta's most beautiful girls. The entertainment was entitled "A Night in Old Georgia."

A pathetic incident was related this morning by Mrs. E. A. Elmore of Pasadena. In company with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cryderman of San Pedro and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Candee of Huntington Park, Mrs. Elmore says she was strolling window shopping, when the party was approached by a ragged newsboy. Papers were bought and the Californians were about to pass on when the newsie saw the California ribbons.

"Say, mister, are you from California?" asked the urchin of Mr. Cryderman.

Receiving an affirmative reply, the youth then asked:

"Well, mister, if you are from California you ought to know Sam Bloomenstein. He lives out there."

SEEKS RUNAWAY BROTHER

Further questioning elicited the information that Sam Bloomenstein is a brother, who ran away from home several years ago. After informing some of his friends that his mother, who is in very feeble health, had been calling for her lost boy, the urchin, like a drowning man, grasped at the slender hope that some person who hails from California may know his brother and aid in restoring him to his mother's arms.

Members of the party made notations of the mother's address and efforts will be made through Elks lodges in the State of California to locate Sam Bloomenstein, send him back to Atlanta and thus make the last few days of his mother's life happy. Truly, said several Atlantans, who are not Elks, after being informed of this little incident and the plans of the Californians, the Elks have earned their title of being the best people on earth.

detective describing the finding of the body. The Princess could not understand a word of his testimony, but as it was translated for her into French by an interpreter, she showed marked agitation.

At the hotel and while she was being taken to the police station, the Princess was calm, the detective declared. He told of finding the bloody gown and crushed beads and then described the discovery of a bullet hole in the wall at right angles to the suite about three feet from the floor. He expressed the opinion that was caused by a glancing bullet. He found another bullet mark in the banisters at the top of the stairs a few yards away.

At the conclusion of the hearing the Princess was remanded to jail for eight days, when she will be given a second hearing. She was assisted to a taxicab and driven off to prison.

O'Ryan, special counsel for the committee, who presented the complaints and conditions which had reached him from the territory the Senator will visit. It is the present plan of the committee to begin public hearings in Washington about the middle of October.

ASK INJUNCTION TO HALT LAND DECISION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The Northern Pacific Railroad Company filed suit in the District Supreme Court today for an injunction against the Secretary of the Interior to prevent the threatened cancellation of a grant for eighteen sections of land in Wyoming. The contention is made that even if the sections are mineral, the government failed to make the discovery in time and may not now take them from the railroad company.

ALL EYES TURN TO MINNESOTA

Nationwide Interest Grows in Election

Issue Between Radicals and Conservatives

Preus Victory is Predicted Despite Uproar

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) July 10.—Whether the La Follette radical group in the United States Senate is to be reinforced by another Farmer-Labor Senator from Minnesota is to be determined at the election next Monday of a successor to the late Senator Knute Nelson, Republican.

Gov. Preus, brilliant young political protege and long heralded political heir of Nelson, is striving as the Republican candidate, to cope successfully with the forces of discontent and return Minnesota to that time-honored Republican allegiance from which it has strayed of late, notably when Woodrow Wilson carried the State in 1916 and when Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, defeated Senator Frank Kellogg, Republican in 1922.

The chief opponent of Preus in this contest is the Farmer-Labor party's candidate, Magnus Johnson, a character who glories in his picturesque uncouthness and the possession of the loudest voice in Minnesota and promises to support La Follette, (Republican, Wisconsin) and Brookhart, (Republican, Iowa) in endeavoring to repeal the Cummins-Esch Transportation Act, fix the price of wheat and otherwise promote adoption of the panaceas favored by the dissatisfied farmers and workingmen. The Republicans, or conservatives, and the Farmer Labor folk, or radicals, now constitute the major parties in this State and thousands of conservative Democrats are supporting the Republican ticket just as the radical erstwhile Republicans and Democrats are joining hands in the Farmer-Labor party.

ALL EYES ON STATE

The eyes of the country are focused on this by-election, there being a prevalent belief that its outcome is going to show which way the wind is blowing with respect to the Presidential election next year. The Republican managers are prepared to interpret the election of Preus as a proof of confidence in the administration and a sure indication of the re-election of Mr. Harding.

Arriving on the scene I find that Minnesota is far less excited over its election than in the country. There is a noticeable apathy on the part of the electorate and a complete heedlessness of the role of harbinger of political events. The political managers in both camps are having a hard time drumming up interest and a comparatively light vote is the prospect.

Crops are looking better right now than they have at this time in years and the farmers are busy getting in their hay and harvesting rye and oats. They can't be inveigled to the political rallies.

There has been practically no stumping save by the candidates themselves.

Senator George Moses (New Hampshire, Republican,) chairman of the Republican Senatorial Election Committee, is here aiding the Republican organization to impress Republican voters with the importance of preventing the capture of another normally Republican seat in the Senate by the radicals. Senator La Follete, ill at Battle Creek Sanatorium, was unable to stump for Johnson but has sent his son Phil, while other outside talent enlisted for the radical ticket now includes Senator Frazier (Republican, North Dakota,) Senator Wheeler (Democrat Montana) and Congressman Voight (Republican, Wisconsin.)

FARMERS DISCONTENTED

Despite the evidence of apathy it is not denied that Minnesota is shot through with discontent and lending a ready ear to proposals of panaceas and to indictments of the existing order.

The farmers are complaining of bankruptcy and poverty. They have not had so much as a whiff of the prosperity in which the industrial centers are rolling. Prices of farm products are still down and prices of shoes and clothing and farms supplies are still up. Farm labor is scarce and wages high. The farmer is feeling desperate and clamoring for a government-fixed price on wheat, reduction of freight rates and anything that sounds like a means of turning losses into profits.

Johnson is booming forth assurances that the La Follette program of radical legislation aimed at the "interests" and various schemes of subsidizing agriculture will restore prosperity on the farms. Preus is addressing himself to the discontented farmers along more conservative lines, advocating a continuation of the legislation to promote the interest of agriculture initiated by the Republican majority in the last Congress.

Bryan Opposes Instruction in Darwin Theory

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ATLANTA (Ga.) July 10.—William Jennings Bryan today addressed the Georgia House of Representatives, making a plea for the retention of the State prohibition law and for the prohibiting of the teaching as a fact to Darwinism. The Georgia House has before it a bill to repeal the State Prohibition Act.

"I believe in State rights," said Mr. Bryan, "and they must be preserved, but they cannot be preserved by making them a sham or a pretense for covering the liquor traffic. Your State has the right to assist in the enforcement of the prohibtion law and if it does not do so, it invites the national authorities to come in and do it."

screen demon and a mere girl who is trying to get along.

Anyway, the rouge market gets an awful going over every day of the year, not to forget the black stuff which is used on the feminine eyebrows.

And, of course, when it is "comfortably warm" in Los Angeles, not "hot," powdering of the nose is notably present.

It is estimated that when it is "comfortably warm" in Los Angeles, not "hot," there is used daily a sufficient quantity of face powder to cover the lengthy stretch of territory which connects the city of Los Angeles with its harbor twenty miles away.

I trust I make it plain that the girls of Los Angeles use plenty in the course of a day.

Of course, there are a few girls, but not many, who spurn sport clothes and such.

But that is to be expected.

You can't transplant a corn-fed Iowa girl to Southern Cafeteria and make her over all at once.

It takes time.

But if she stays here one season, she's in danger.

Speaking of costumery, it is a notable fact that straw hats are taboo until May 13.

No matter how much a true Los Angelan suffers under a felt or woolen skypiece, he must wait until May 13 before he takes on a straw kelly.

It is winter in Los Angeles till then, according to straw-hat standards, and no true lover of Los Angeles will wear a straw hat until "summer" arrives.

But why indulge in carping comment?

If the true Los Angelan believes that it is a winter day when the mercury registers 85 degrees, far be it from me to wake him up.

SAN FRANCISCO

most sophisticated city in this country. From prize fights to grand opera it is nearly always in good taste—yes, and has delicacy.

A San Francisco audience is the test of a good play. As a matter of fact, a New York audience is no test at all. New York is the champion boob town of the world; just as San Francisco is the most astute.

In no other city in the world can they put on an exposition with such finesse and dramatic instinct. So wonderful were the effects of the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisco that its memory is changing the architecture of the United States—especially in regard to color schemes.

In what other city could they have a New Year's Eve with a grand opera diva singing to the crowds standing bareheaded in the streets as the old year dies and the new day slips over the sad old world.

But, dearly beloved brethren—But—

These things come with years. Too much finesse is a bad sign.

VIGOR AND DECAY

I can see power and vigor in the artistic blunders of Los Angeles. Decay in the charm of San Francisco.

For an instance:

After we are 40 I dare say most of us have a secret dream of a home that is something like this:

A long cool room with brown tiles on the floor—a room looking out upon a white balcony which in turn looks out upon a blue Mediterranean sea coast.

There never would be any food served in a dining-room in this house.

But unseen hands would leave strange exotic fruits and delicate concoctions and queer liquids in long fantastic glasses on a long refectory table.

We would sometimes hear the distant patter of sandals on the tiling and we would wonder whether they belonged to a fat Chinese woman with goiter or to a mad man serving us in secret to get money to dynamite a throne. In the long cool room with the blue water beyond, we would sit and wonder dreamily about these things, but we would never find out.

But at 20 our secret dream of a home would have been the back end of a circus calliope or the annex to a jazz dance emporium.

San Francisco has shades and subtleties and delicacies lacking in Los Angeles.

But these qualities you get as you leave the splash and roar of youth behind you.

know of Alaska, and it is our purpose to know you better and have you know your government better."

The President then referred to the children who had played a prominent part in the greeting extended him, and said:

"Although children cannot choose where they are born, yet if they could choose, I think they would select the West."

He was greeted with great applause when he declared that he knew the government would "help those who are now children more than it has helped their parents."

PUBLIC RECEPTION

At the conclusion of the President's address, Secretaries Hoover, Wallace, and Work and Speaker Gillett, of the House, spoke briefly, and then the President and Mrs. Harding held a public reception, shaking hands with the hundreds who gathered about them. Children, miners and Indians formed a considerable part of them.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The last leg of President Harding's long Alaskan tour—from San Diego, Cal., to New York—may be made aboard the transport Henderson instead of a shipping board vessel as originally planned.

The Navy department has been informed that the President is considering such a proposal and Secretary Denby has decided that the Henderson will be available for the trip if her use is finally decided upon.

as twenty-four hours whenever it is possible by doing so to ship them on American vessels. Sea postships, or those carrying American postal clerks, are entitled to an additional twenty-four hours' preference, making forty-eight hours in all. The time is reckoned according to arrival at the destination.

When the Leviathan sailed from New York last Wednesday, she carried 749 sacks of mail consigned to foreign countries. The Aquetania of the Cunard Line, which sailed a day ahead of the Leviathan, carried only 107 sacks, all of which was specifically routed via that vessel. Much of the mail sent on the Leviathan had been held over from the Sunday previous. In fact, the last shipment of mail prior to July 4, when the Leviathan sailed, was sent on the America of the U. S. Lines, which left New York on June 30. She carried 5094 sacks.

John Keilly, assistant postmaster here, said today:

"What we are doing is no more than what any other government is doing for its own ships. We have to give the flag some consideration."

TAX DODGERS GET PRISON SENTENCES

FEDERAL COURT JOLTS BROTHERS WHO FAILED TO MAKE FULL RETURNS

Each was fined $11,000. Joseph Levin was sentenced to two years and two days in the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, and thirteen months in the San Francisco County Jail, the sentences to run consecutively. M. C. Levin was sentenced to a year and a day in Leavenworth and thirteen months in the County Jail, the terms also to run consecutively. S. A. Levin was sentenced to a year and a day in Leavenworth and seven months in the County Jail.

Motion for a new trial was denied. Counsel for the convicted men was given five days to file a petition for a writ of error preliminary to an appeal.

Neighbors See in Missive Hoax to Find Wife

Woman in Hiding Refuses to Reveal Address

Correspondent Requested "Times" to Act

A mystery letter, the signature to which is denied, and an apartment house on South Westlake avenue, which for the present to the uninitiated is a house of mystery, enshroud the recent disappearance of Mrs. Edith Maude Dunlap, 33 years of age, and her little boy Billie, 6, who are supposed to have left Los Angeles for San Francisco, June 28, last.

Neighbors near the apartment at 433 South Westlake avenue last night said Mrs. Dunlap is separated from her husband and that the mystery letter may be a unique effort on the part of Dunlap or his friends to locate his wife who apparently does not care to be found.

MYSTERY LETTER

Yesterday The Times received the letter from 171 Fell street, San Francisco. It was signed H. D. McCafferty.

In part it read:

"I want you to locate friends who have disappeared while on their way from Los Angeles to San Francisco. We fear they have been kidnaped and harm has come to them. They are Mrs. Edith Maude Dunlap and her boy, Billie. They left about June 28.

"About a year ago Mrs. Dunlap became acquainted with a Spanish woman in the General Postoffice lobby who tried to entice her to go to San Diego. Private detectives have tried to locate clews of Mrs. Dunlap and boy and have tried to find who removed the trunks from the address at South Westlake avenue."

After a long description of the mother and child, winding up with statements that Mrs. Dunlap affected a King Tut blouse with short sleeves, carried a vanity case and wore several large diamonds, the letter stated the young woman also carried a large sum of money on her person.

DENIES AUTHORSHIP

The Times immediately wired its San Francisco correspondent to locate McCafferty. He denied writing the letter and said he could explain no part of it except that an enemy, by using his name, might be making an effort to damage his business reputation. McCafferty is a bond salesman, is married, but has no children.

Later a Times reporter visited the South Westlake-avenue apartment. He was admitted under sufferance until he identified himself.

Neighbors finally stated that the letter received might be an attempt at trying to locate Mrs. Dunlap by her husband, Harry D. Dunlap. These neighbors further said that the friends of Mrs. Dunlap are refusing her address to her husband, Mrs. Dunlap having asked them not to let her husband know where she is.

Several Killed, Many Injured in Illinois Cartridge Plant

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ALTON (Ill.) July 10.—Eight persons are known to have been killed and twenty-six injured in an explosion which occurred this afternoon in the metallic shell department of the Western Cartridge Company plant at East Alton.

Three of the dead are women. They are: Mrs. Mittie Warren of Alton, mother of ten children; Miss Anna Gorman of Alton, and an unidentified woman employee. The men employees killed: William Brummer of East Alton, Frank Bennes of Alton; Russell Reyburn of Brownstown, Ill.; Charles Hawkins of Alton and Howard Hunter of Alton.

Three of those injured, probably will die. In addition to sixteen reported seriously hurt, ten other employees were said to have suffered superficial injuries, and were able to go to their homes.

The plant is about five miles out of this city. When word of the explosion was sent here, the detonation of which had been felt in this city, all available physicians and nurses were despatched to the plant in ambulances and automobiles.

The cause of the explosion could not be ascertained. It occurred in a fireproof structure in which about fifty employees, mostly women, were engaged in extracting powder from the 30-30 infantry cartridges which had been manufactured for the Army during the war, but had been repurchased by the company for the purpose of salvaging the copper and brass contained in the shells.

Fire followed the explosion, but was soon extinguished by the company fire department.

Corn, oats and hogs as well as wheat, all finished at losses today as compared with yesterday.

WOMAN FAINTS AT VERDICT

Halting Words of Interpreter Paint Gallows Scene in Eyes of Unsuspecting Husband-Slayer

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, July 10.—Mrs. Sabella Nitti-Crudelle [illegible] this morning on the floor of the County Jail, her [illegible] relaxed and pale. She had been told what it was the clerk of the court had read yesterday in strange English she did not understand—that a jury had condemned her to be hanged by the neck until dead.

It was not, however, the breaking of the news itself upon her stolid consciousness that knocked the Italian woman over, an awkward mass on the concrete jail floor. It was a terrible moment when she turned, through the iron grating, to her 16-year-old son Charles, and pleaded, with a sob in her voice: "Oh, my baby! Come here and help me!" Charles, who had testified against her in her trial for the murder of her first husband, remained motionless.

PRISONER STUNNED

"Pat" Mike Desant was the only Italian interpreter who could be found, after hours of search, who could steel himself to break the news of the sentence to Mrs. Crudelle. He told her through the iron grating, translating word for word the sentences as Eugene Moran, her attorney, framed them.

"Ask her if she understood what the jury said," requested Moran.

Mrs. Crudelle, clad in a pink gingham dress, against which she occasionally rubbed her hands, shook her head.

"Tell her she has been committed to hang by the neck until dead," said the attorney, with a shudder.

The interpreter, his voice choking, put the words into the soft Sicilian dialect. He explained that unless Judge Davis grants a new trial or an appeal is made to the Supreme Court or Gov. Small grants a pardon, her fate was sealed.

Mrs. Crudelle looked like a caged animal behind the bars.

"God help me," she screamed, falling upon her knees.

"Did you know that the same verdict had been passed upon Peter?" went on the interpreter, determined to have it over. Peter Crudelle is the woman's second husband, convicted with her of [illegible] killing Nitti, her [illegible] with a hammer, while she [illegible] victim's head.

RATE INQUIRY ON HARD COAL

Commerce Body to Look Into Freight Charges

Reduction Sought as Relief to Public

Gompers Assails Points in Commission's Report

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 10.—An investigation of the reasonableness of anthracite freight rates was ordeped by the Interstate Commerce Commission today at the request of the United States Coal Commission. A reduction in freight rates, the Commission indicated in its report made public Sunday, offered a possible way to cut the cost of coal, inasmuch as from sixteen to thirty cents out of every dollar paid by the consumer goes for freight charges.

That organized labor is not satisfied with the recommendations of the Coal Commission is made plain in a statement issued by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. The Commission's proposal that in the event of a suspension of work at the anthracite mines the President be authorized to take over their operation and fix wages, meets with severe condemnation by Mr. Gompers who declares that the miners will not give up the right to strike.

COMMENDS TWO POINTS

Various other features of the report also are the subject of criticism although he commends the declaration of the commission that coal is a public utility and its recommendation that operators shall make cost reports to a government agency.

The Interstate Commerce Commission indicated it intends to lose no time in carrying out the request for an investigation of freight rates. Rates on anthracite are from 65 to 85 per cent higher than prevailed in 1915 and are on a higher level than rates on bituminous coal.

"Real penalties for the miners, phantom penalties for the operators, seem to be the outstanding feature in the program favored by the Federal Coal Commission for dealing with a suspension of production in the anthracite coal industry," said Mr. Gompers in his statement.

CRITICIZES PENALTY

"The commission, by its recommendation would invoke the penalty of compulsory labor upon the miners. But for the monopolistic owners of the coal mines, the commission would provide a slap on the wrist—a severe dose of publicity.

"The very fact that the Commission found that anthracite operators are receiving three times as large a profit as before the war is a strong argument against any attempt to force the miners to remain at work, year in and year out, regardless of the attitude of the mine workers. The operators have been reaping enormous profits, yet we are told that the miners must be content with their present wages, and must not under any conditions think of ceasing their grinding toil."

WOMEN BEAT GUARDS DURING PRISON RIOT

PRISONERS GET DRUNK ON EXTRACTS AND PUT UP BATTLE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

McALESTER (Okla.) July 10.—One guard was stabbed with a pair of scissors, several were beaten and furniture was destroyed by women inmates of the Oklahoma State penitentiary, who turned on guards trying to end a quarrel between several of the women yesterday, and caused a general riot in the women's ward.

Al Jedlicka, deputy warden, said that several women gained access to the prison larder and drank extracts, becoming intoxicated. A quarrel between them led to the riot, he explained, which developed when guards separated the combatants.

A number of sewing machines were demolished and every window in the building was shattered. Under prison rules guards are not armed. The guards, attacked by women, many of whom brandished scissors, fought the prisoners off with their fists until a riot call brought reinforcements.

No official German protest over the incident had been received by the Belgian government today.

EDITOR MAGEE GOES ON TRIAL

Loses First Round in His Libel Suit

Motion to Consolidate Four Cases Denied

His Move to Quash is Then Overruled

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LAS VEGAS (N. M.) July 10.—Brought to trial today to answer charges against him in four indictments charging contempt of court, Carl C. Magee, editor of the New Mexico State Tribune, filed a motion to consolidate the four cases for a single hearing.

This motion being denied, a second motion was filed to quash the indictment in the first four cases presented for hearing, in which Magee is said to have made contemptuous reference to the court by an editorial statement, that the "secret of Sec Romereo's copper riveted machine in San Miguel county is his influence over the District Court and his ability to influence its conduct."

The motion to quash was overruled and the trial proceeded. The defense called Magee to the stand at the opening of the afternoon session.

Mage was questioned by counsel for the defense as to the intent of the editorial and to whom the remarks referred. The editor replied that various county officials, including the District Court officials and also Sec Romero, asserted political boss of the county, were criticized.

SUPPORTS ASSERTION

Cross-examined by O. O. Askren, assistant prosecutor, Magee enumerated several instances in support of his contention that political influence was exerted in directing the action of the court. He declared Judge Leahy, who presided at Magee's trial on a charge of criminally libelling Judge Frank W. Parker, of the New Mexico Supreme Court and who is presiding in the present contempt proceedings, had been a member of the 1920 San Miguel county delegation to the nominating committee of the Republican party; that libel cases brought before Judge Leahy's court in other instances were found against defendants; that lands owned by Senator A. A. Jones, resident of Las Vegas, and his opponent during the last United Sta'es Senatorial campaign, Stephen B. Davis, Jr., now solicitor for the Department of Commerce, had been unequally assessed under the jurisdiction of the court. The lands are situated in Guadalupe county which is a part of the Eighth Judicial District.

ISSUES STATEMENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EAST LAS VEGAS (N. M.) July 10.—Carl C. Magee, publisher of the Albuquerque Tribune, who is on trial here on charges of contempt, today issued the following statement to the Associated Press:

"Your local correspondent yesterday sent out the following: 'Opinion here is at variance in support and condemnation of the publisher. The race issue bringing forward controversy between the Spanish-American and Anglo-American electorate is finding rapid rise as a result of the trial, in which aspersions were openly made against the former.'

"This is untrue and highly prejudicial. Both Spanish and Anglo-Saxons are trying their best to live together in harmony in New Mexico and are succeeding except when things like this are said.

"I have no objection ordinarily to Spanish-speaking jurors, but this libel case involved the meaning of an English sentence, and I did my best, quite rightfully, I think, to get at least one juror who could read English. I failed. This involved no prejudice against the Spanish people and it is pure political propaganda against me to say such a thing."

TRAVELERS PROTEST PULLMAN SURCHARGE

RAILROADS FIGHT EFFORT TO KILL IMPOSED WAR-TIME TAX

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10. — Protests against the 50 per cent surcharge levied on all Pullman-car rates were presented today before Examiner J. B. Keeler of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Representatives of the California Railroad Commission and of the California Hotel Association submitted evidence tending to show decreases in Pullman-car travel since the addition of the surcharge which goes to the railroad companies. The surcharge, they held, was imosed as a war-time measure to meet a deficit in the operating expenses of railroads.

Other State bodies and organizations represented were the Arizona Corporation Commission, the Oregon Public Service Commission, the Department of Public Works of Washington, the United Commercial Travelers, the Travelers' Protective Association, the National Shoe Travelers' Association and the Fresno Traffic League.

An array of counsel appeared for the railroads, which included the Chicago & Northwestern, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Western Pacific and Santa Fe. Pullmar Company lawyers were present but offered no testimony.

The first hearing on the surcharge was held in Chicago June 20-21, the second ended here late today and the third will be held at Portland, Me., on the 21st inst.

NOTAS LOCALES

Personajes de Cine ante el Tribunal

Gaston Glass, estrella de cine, y Louis Gasnier, director de cintas, aparecerán hoy en la barra de los testigos ante el tribunal de policía, para dar sus versiones de lo ocurrido en la "alegre reunión" que tuvo por desenlace la detención de los citados como personas disolutas, el 2 de junio último. Tal comunicó ayer Ray Chesebro, defensor de los reos.

El juicio de Glass se inició ayer en el Juzgado de Policía del Juez Frederickson. Aunque la vista de la causa de Gasnier está anunciada para fecha posterior, va a ser llamado como testigo por la defensa. También figurará como testigo de descargo la Sra. Helen McClaskey, una de las dos mujeres con quienes fueron aprehendidos los encartados. La causa comenzó a verse ante un jurado de nueve mujeres y tres hombres. Después de que se consagró medio día a seleccionar jurado que oyera el deshonesto testimonio, dos de los testigos de la acusación completaron sus declaraciones antes de que se suspendiera la audiencia de anoche.

El testimonio es de naturaleza tal, que no puede publicarse, lo cual no fué óbice para que lo oyera el numeroso público que se apiñaba en la sala, compuesto en su mayoría de señoras jóvenes, elegantemente vestidas, y de señoras mayores, muchas de las cuales ocultaban el rostro bajo el ala gacha del sombrero; pero no hubo una sola que saliera de la sala en toda la audiencia. De pie en los pasillos centrales, y metidos como cuñas en la periferie del salón, había varias docenas de hombres, viejos y jóvenes, que de cuando en cuando interrumpían los procedimientos con risotadas.

Licor Clandestino y Lágrimas Corren por las Alcantarillas del Barrio Chino

Hubo ayer muchos corazones y músculos adoloridos en el barrio chino. Se trata nada menos que de una catástrofe en esa comunidad, pues corrieron por la alcantarilla de la calle de Apablasa, lágrimas y licor clandestino, y hubo de mezclarse con el polvo buena cantidad de esa substancia con que se fabrican los sueños y las borracheras.

En la soñolienta y flemática "Chinatown", la casa de Kuong, Yee y Cía. es sinónima de la Casa Mágica. Allí, rodeados de polvoso amontonamiento de arroz en sacos y hierbas en botes, los dos Ngs—Ng Sung y Ng Gin—fabricaban su famosísimo y buscadísimo "Linisento Mágico." Y fué allí donde la mano del destino condujo a la policía para que practicase un raid ayer mañana. Hoy, se encuentran en la cárcel los dos Ngs; centenares de galones de "linisento" que, según la policía, significa linimento, pasean su espirituoso ser por las alcantarillas del barrio chino, y muchísimos músculos adoloridos de celestiales, y quizá también de hombres de raza blanca, tienen que buscar otros recursos para aliviarse.

DEPORTES

Golf

Joe Kirkwood, de Nueva York, presentó ayer la mejor anotación del juego de campeonatos nacionales de golf libre, en el Club Campestre de Inwood, Long Island. El marcador de Kirkwood mostraba 144, mejorando en cuatro tiros la anotación del día anterior de Sarazen. Abe Espinosa, de Oakland, California, ocupa el tercer lugar en la lista de los calificados, habiendo hecho 151 el primer día de juego.

Wright y Neville, miembros del equipo americano que invadió hace poco a Inglaterra, derrotaron a Hunter y Seaver, dos de los mejores jugadores de golf de Sudcalifornia, por 3 arriba y dos por jugar, en match que se efectuó ayer en la pista del Club Campestre de Los Angeles.

Baseball

Sacramento derrotó ayer a Los Angeles por 4 a 3, en rápida y lucida contienda en Sacramento. Lyons, que tiraba por Los Angeles, lanzó mucho mejor que Penner, tirador de Sacramento, pero los errores de su equipo en los momentos importantes le costaron el partido.

Vernon llegará por acá hoy, y peleará con Seattle en el parque Washington, en serie de siete partidos.

Boxeo

Ayer dieron fin a su entrenamiento Jess Willard y Luis Firpo, y están ya aparejados para su gran pelea, que se efectuará mañana en Jersey City. El corpulento argentino es favorito en la proporción de 3 a 2. El que gane el combate de mañana se encontrará sin duda muy pronto con Jack Dempsey, para disputarle a éste el campeonato mundial.

Yates

Las regatas de Santa Bárbara comenzarán el próximo domingo y durarán una semana en la población del mismo nombre. Muchos de los más hermosos yates de Sudcalifornia tomarán parte en ellas, y va a ser sin duda el más grande acontecimiento de la temporada entre la gente de yate.

MINIMUM WAGE LAW DISCUSSED

Both Sides Heard at Club Convention

Business Women Meeting at Portland, Or.

Resolution to be Reported Out Today

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) July 10.—Spirited debate on the question of a minimum wage for women workers marked the session this afternoon of the national convention here of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Speakers representing Oregon and Washington, where minimum wage laws are in effect, spoke in favor of the laws of their States, while delegates from Iowa, Illinois and Indiana opposed the minimum wage idea in principle.

The western delegates told of benefits derived from the laws and the middle western women voiced opposition on the ground that equal opportunities should be given in industry to both sexes.

The legislative committee took the arguments into consideration at an executive session and is to report resolutions tomorrow for action of the convention. Mary Stewart of Washington, D. C., indicated the resolutions would deal with the question on the general ground of special legislation.

LAW IS EXPLAINED

W. L. Brewster of Portland, chairman of the Oregon Industrial Welfare Commission, told of the practical working of the State minimum wage law, and said it had been so successful in the Pacific Coast States that employers, following the rendering of the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court holding the minimum wage law of the District of Columbia unconstitutional, had passed resolutions informing the welfare commissions of the State that they desired the laws enforced in spite of the high court's action. He made a plea for the law especially as benefiting the health of women workers, saying they were not fitted physically to work as long hours as men.

Miss Emma Hagenstein of Marshalltown, Iowa, opposed the minimum wage idea as contrary to business principles, declaring that if employers pay more for labor than it is worth, it results either in loss or charity.

Delphine Johnson, secretary of the Washington State Welfare Commission, and Mrs. Millie Trumbull, secretary of the Oregon Welfare Commission, sharply challenged some of the statements made by Miss Hagenstein.

Merica E. Hoegland of Indianapolis took a stand against the minimum wage, asking "why should women permit themselves to be placed on a lower plane than men? I do not see any reason why women should accept a minimum wage any more than men should."

TELLS OF ILLINOIS FIGHT

The fight in Illinois over legislation for women was reviewed by Velma Hickman of Rock Island, Ill. Telling of the eight-hour law controversy, she said she had information direct from trade union sources that the eight-hour law was sought in order that jobs might be made for more men in the industries of the State.

Carrie Jacobs Bond, composer, of Hollywood, Cal., arrived today as a delegate and tonight entertained delegates with a program of her songs.

One of the speakers today was Princess Santa Borghese of Rome, Italy. She explained the status of Italian women and explained they soon would be given the right of franchise in municipal elections.

Pretty Dancer Found Poisoned in Apartment

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 10.—A pretty blonde, 23 years of age, said to have appeared as a dancer in several Broadway productions, was found dying of lysol poisoning early today in the narrow hallway leading to an apartment where she lived on the third floor of the fashionable apartments. She died before the arrival of a physician.

The young woman, who had occupied the apartment for the last two months, used the names of Mrs. Doris McDonald and Mrs. Doris Clayton, but it is believed that she was the wife of Jack Kravits, a traveling salesman.

Frank G. Carlton, who discovered the woman, said she was clad only in her nightgown, lying face downward in the hallway. She evidently had attempted to reach the elevator from her rooms when she fell. No one at the apartments knew anything concerning the woman's past, except that most of her visitors were actors and she was believed to have been on the stage.

Shanghai's trade with America led the individual countries, with 161,000,000 taels, while England was second with 139,000,000 taels, and Japan was third with 109,000,000 taels. American shipping ranked fourth in tonnage entered and cleared, with the British first, Japan second and China third.

RIVERSIDE

"THE CITY BEAUTIFUL"

The Puritans of the Citrus Family

More than forty years ago, when the real productive qualities of the Southland were as yet undeveloped, two Navel Orange trees made the long journey from Bahia, Brazil, around the Horn, up the Pacific Coast and out to Riverside.

From this pair of trees has sprung an industry valued in the millions of dollars, together with an international reputation and fame.

One of these pioneer trees still lives and is enclosed with an iron fence to protect it from the hundreds who would do homage to it.

It is impossible to put a value upon the citrus groves of this community. They are worth appoximately $5,000,000.00 a year in production.

A grove will bear fruit in four years. Groves of all ages up to full bearing may be purchased at a less price than similar groves may be had anywhere in Southern California. Investigation will show that no such real bargains in citrus groves can be found outside the Riverside district.

A ten acre grove will provide a good income.

Any energetic man who applies himself can succeed in citriculture.

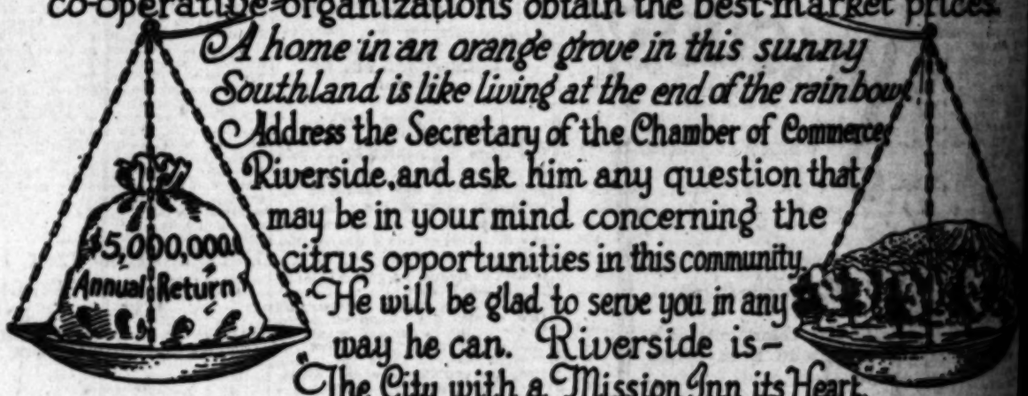
The industry requires the services of hundreds of people, from careful pickers and packers to technical experts in growing and marketing.

Fifteen packing houses take care of the product and co-operative organizations obtain the best market prices.

A home in an orange grove in this sunny Southland is like living at the end of the rainbow!

Address the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Riverside, and ask him any question that may be in your mind concerning the citrus opportunities in this community. He will be glad to serve you in any way he can. Riverside is—

The City with a Mission Inn its Heart.



Benes Seeking to Join Allies on Reparations

BY HENRY WALES

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, July 10.—Dr. Edwards Benes, Foreign Minister of Czecho-Slovakia left for London last night, in an attempt to mediate between France and Great Britain. The Tribune learns from a high authority that Dr. Benes will inform British statesmen that if it comes to an open break between the two countries over reparations, Poland, Jugo-Slavia, Czecho-Slovakia and Rumania will support France and the armies of these countries will be ready to march against Germany if necessary.

On the other hand, Dr. Benes, who saw Premier Poincare yesterday afternoon is working desperately to prevent separate British reparations negotiations because they would lead to France taking more drastic counter measures which would start all central Europe shaking.

Dr. Benes, who is the founder of the Little Entente, is considered the best mediator in Europe.

English Church Members Seek Rome Doctrine

BY JOHN STEELE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, July 10.—About 30,000 delegates, bishops, priests and laymen, representing, it is said, a third of the communicating membership of the Church of England, nominally Protestant, will gather in Albert Hall, London, for an Anglo-Catholic Congress.

The Bishop of London is president and leading bishops and laymen will preside over the sectional meetings. The avowed object of the Congress is to restore the Catholic doctrine to practice in the Church of England and an announcement is made that confessions will be heard in the various London churches throughout the Congress.

Both these practices are in direct defiance of the law of the English church. It is also announced that a box will be reserved in Albert Hall for Cardinal Bourne, who is the official head of the regular Roman Catholic Church in England.

KIRKWOOD PASSES SARAZEN BY BRILLIANT WORK ON INWOOD COURSE

GOLF GALLERY IS AMAZED BY TRICK-SHOT EXPERT

Thrills and Heart-breaks Mark Second Day's Qualifying Round in Open Tournament

BY WALTER HAGEN

American and British open champion and correspondent for The Times and the North American Newspaper Alliance.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1923, to the United States and Canada and South America, by the North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.]

INWOOD COUNTRY CLUB, July 10.—The second day's qualifying round at Inwood brought out another fine field of players and it remained for my partner, Joe Kirkwood, the Australian trick shot player, to turn in the lowest score of the day. He showed them a bagfull of tricks in the morning round when he went around in 70 and established a new record for the course. His total for the day was 144, which beat Gene Sarazen's mark of 33. This is good going for the last nine.

It was paired with Jesse Sweetser and they carried the big gallery of the day. Sweetser found it going much harder than his partner. He did a couple of seventy-eights, which put him in the discards.

The gallery was not so large today as it was on Monday. In dividing the field into four parts it takes away a good deal of interest from each foursome's play, as not enough stars play together. This undoubtedly accounted for the fact that the attendance in qualifying round was much smaller than expected. The course was ideal for golf. It was not overrun and there was practically no wind blowing. When the players found trouble it was usually due to some mistake for which they themselves were to blame.

BLACK QUALIFIES

Another fine pair qualified today, Jim Black and Francis Ouimet. Black, it will be remembered, was one of the sensations in the championship at Skokia a few years ago. He did not show the kind of golf this afternoon that he is capable of and he had a few anxious moments at the finish. His score of 153 for the double round was the last figure to qualify. On the nine given he missed a putt of scarcely more than eighteen inches and there was doubt for some time whether this figure would put him in the select circle. The veteran of the morning round in seventy-one and it looked as if he was in a good position, but nothing seemed to go right for him in the afternoon. He covered the first nine in forty after an unfortunate thing happened on the thirteenth hole. It was played an unlucky number for him as a badly hooked drive got him in trouble and he wound up by taking a nine on the hole. He managed to get around the course in 41 after one or two more mishaps. Black is surely not playing golf in his standard and I doubt whether he will cut much figure in the championship.

Ouimet's eighty in the morning round left him something to do this afternoon but the Boston star was equal to the task and turned in a fine seventy-five. Ouimet is hitting the ball very well. He has a good head, showed what he could do under pressure. His putting was the reverse of Black's, however, another amateur who has revised what chances he has of qualifying for an eighty-nine in the morning. There were other low scores enacted today when some of the well-known professionals failed to get in. I think it is always harder for a pro to fail to qualify for an open than it is for an amateur.

McCULLOUGH

Among some of the old standbys who will be with us on Friday and Saturday in the big event will be Freddy McLeod, who won the championship in 1908; Pat Doyle, Clarence Hackney, and Gil Nichols. In the past this four has always cut a big figure in championship play. McCloud has always figured well in the money in open championship in the last eighteen years. This is the first time he failed. I did not see much of the morning round as I went over to the Woodmere course nearby to get some practice. I played with the president of the club against Johnny Farrell and an amateur. Farrell broke the record with a fine 65. I did my round in 71 and was well satisfied. I play tomorrow in Inwood and looking over the field there are several who seem certain to get in. It looks as if this would be the hardest test of the four days, on account of the number of good players entered. I am paired with MacDonald Smith, the American who played so well at Troon.

The following qualified in the second day's play for the open golf championship of America:

Joe Kirkwood, New York, 70; 74; 144.
Dan Williams, Chattanooga, 75; 73; 148.
Tom Warren, Minneiska, 77; 72; 149.
Dave Ogilvie, Toronto, 75; 77; 152.
Francis Ouimet, Woodland, 80; 72; 152.
W. C. Reed, Woodbury, 69; 75; 144.
Jesse Sweetser, Ardsley, 75; 78; 153.
A. Boehm, Long Beach, 76; 75; 151.
A. H. Bell, Ardsley, 76; 81; 157.
J. Brywster, St. Albans, 77; 80; 157.
A. Gozo, Fox Chester, 80; 74; 157.
Emmet French, Youngstown, 72; 80; 152.
A. A. Ramsay, San Francisco, 78; 79; 157.
Harry Hampton, Brookford, Miss., 78; 80; 158.
A. A. Armour, West Baltimore, 79; 79; 158.
D. McKay, Pittsburg, 77; 82; 159.
W. Clent, Lynnwood, 86; 73; 159.
W. Forrester, Hollywood, 76; 83; 159.

The leading cards follow:

RESULT OF SAILING EVENT IS UNDECIDED

The Southland Sailing Club held its first race for the Potter Cup, given by ex-Commodore Potter, on Sunday, over the inside four-mile course at Newport Bay. Thirteen boats started and ten finished. Mariposa, sailed by the Farwell boys, covered the course in forty-five minutes and forty-five seconds; Jeane, (Capt. Ned Jarvis,) finished a close second; Trouble, (Mrs. Damon Runyon) sailed a very creditable race and finished third; Ray Sing (Paul Palmer,) fourth; Star Boat Pollux, fifth; Sandpiper, sixth, followed by Don D, Polly D, Saucy Lass and Dud in the order named. As this race was sailed under the handicap rule of the club the actual winners cannot be determined until the boat measurements are officially checked.

THOMSON TO COACH AT YALE

Earl J. Thomson, holder of the world's record of fourteen and two-fifths seconds for the 120-yard high hurdles, has been signed to a three-year contract to coach the Yale track squad, according to reports received here yesterday. The famous hurdler coached the University of West Virginia cinderpath aggregation the past year, but decided to instruct Bulldog tracksters when he was offered the three-year contract at a greatly increased salary.

Thomson will assume his duties at Old Eli in the fall, and expects to turn out some championship teams within the next few years.

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) July 10.—All the favorites advanced according to schedule in the national clay court championship at the Woodstock Country Club today. Wallace T. Johnson of Philadelphia arrived this morning and ran through two matches with Frank O'Connell and Art Hubbell, both of Chicago, by the score of 6-0, 6-4, and 6-1, 6-4, respectively. The terrific heat affected all the players today and the result was a series of rather listless matches. Johnson was always master of the situation and won easily.

Howard and Bob Kinsey of California arrived from Los Angeles this morning and immediately plunged into the tournament, Howard advancing, 6-0, 6-1, at the expense of Wallace Richards of Indianapolis, while Bob received a default from Ed Wilson of Chicago. Both Californians took the court again in the afternoon, Bob eliminating the former national boy champion, Juhas Sagalowski, 6-0, 6-1, while Howard Kinsey scored over Starbuck. Manuel Alonzo, the great Spanish star, flashed brilliant tennis in defeating Jack Harris, 6-2, 6-2. Alonzo was at his best, hitting sensationally. I nearly was the victim of the heat and Albrecht Kipp of Indianapolis. I got away to a good start, 5-0, when suddenly the heat got in its deadly work and I found myself in serious trouble. Before I could recover Kipp ran off seven games for the set and pushed me to 6-3, 6-4 in the next two.

J. C. Conrad of California had a close match with Jack Eaglesfield, 6-2, 10-2, but Phil Bettins, his teammate scored decisively over David O'Laughlin, the national boy champion, 6-1, 6-4.

Johnson, Alonzo and Bob Kinsey looked especially good to me, while Howard Kinsey seemed content to try shots so I could not judge much of his real game. I hear both the Kinseys have improved this year, so I am awaiting their first real matches with keen interest. I could see no marked change in any of their shots today, although I think Howard is hitting harder than last year. The tournament is now due to the last sixteen, and upsets may be looked for, starting tomorrow, unless I am better than I was today. The first will be by Bastian.

Tomorrow there are several feature men's single matches. Fritz Bastian plays me. Phil Bettins meets J. B. Adove of Texas. Hennessey plays Burdick while Alonzo meets Kuhler of Cincinnati.

HAVE YOU "FISTIC TWITCH?" MANY LOCAL BUGS STRICKEN

BY ED O'MALLEY

Mister Boxing-Bug! Have you the fistic twitch? If you haven't, you are out of fashion, as far as Fistiana is concerned. To be abreast of these storm and stress times, one must boast some phase of neuritis. The nerve-racking plague that has broken into the ranks of sportsdom is no respecter of race or sex. Having made the rounds of almost all other professions and amusements, the monster has at last poked its pernicious nose into our boxing game with the baleful result that many followers of the padded-mitt entertainment are already registered on the victim list.

We can best give you an idea of the interloper by comparing it to chorea, or, in layman's language, St. Vitus Dance. The cussed thing had just served its local novitiate when Roy Marshall came upon the scene. Roy is the golden-voiced Apollo Belvedere of Hollywood and grand panjandrum of the American Legion. It was he, suffering bugs, that gave the "twitch" a new and fruitful field of operation when he swung the big stadium on unsophisticated moviedom.

At Jack Doyle's we counted only about six of the stricken, but we kept our eyes in commission at the Hollywood ringside and after a scrutiny lasting over six months fell foul of about twenty more of the unfortunates.

Now get us right, Bo—the women folks are not immune from this face desecrater. No ordinary pleasure is pungent enough for the rank and file of fistic minions. The real pungency comes with slaughterous thoughts backed up by slaughterous actions.

In many cases, the boxing maniac immediately becomes mentally imprisoned the moment swishing gloves are accompanied by rills of crimson. Suddenly he takes on a mask that would put a damp on a gargoyle. A bliss deeper than all the raptures of imagination mills through his coco. Havoc, spoil and ruin claim him for their own. Dizzy-eyed fury holds court on his brow. In the welter of gloves and crimson, the first symptoms of the "fistic twitch" begin to manifest themselves. The universal hubbub of "stunning sounds and voices all confused," brings on an alphabet of faces.

The "twitch" bug, like most other bugs, sponsors one of the combatants, and his towering passion never cools while his man is in action. Setting his teeth rigidly together and spreading his lips with diabolical tenseness, he twitches his stark features sidewise, in unison with every blow struck by his favorite. A straight right is accompanied with a spasmodic jerk of the jaw and an uppercut, with a staccato grimace. The most aggravated cases bring their fists and elbows into commission, these members of the body co-ordinating with the epileptic contortions of the face—a denatured face forsooth!

All through the bout, especially if it is zippy and lashing, the horizontal jerkings are kept up, and as there are seven bouts each night, the fistic twitcher constrains himself to go through the seven deadly sins of St. Vitus Dance. When the storm has subsided, he usually wilts into a sagging mass in his chair.

Some of our most prominent boxing lovers are afflicted with the "fistic twitch." The performance must be seen to be appreciated. The worst case we ran up with, bobbed up a month or so ago at the Holly Stadium. He was seconding one of the fighters. Carter De Haven and Bill Duncan sat opposite this bird at the ringside. The jerking open of his lips, disclosing a set of teeth almost lockjawed, soon engaged their attention and they were frequently thrown into convulsions of laughter.

JACK DEMPSEY PAYS A VISIT

Champion Arrives Here for Two Weeks' Stay

Says Firpo Must Stop Jess Early to Win

Title-Holder Announces He Craves a Scrap

Feeling fit and looking so, Jack Dempsey, at present the king of the world's crop of heavyweights, dropped in on Los Angeles yesterday afternoon from Salt Lake and announced that he was going to stick around and enjoy life for a couple of weeks before going East to prepare for his next bout, scheduled for September 3, with whoever Tex Rickard decides can stand the strain. The champion hasn't any visible results, barring a slight cut over one eye, of his fistic argument with Tommy Gibbons, and declares he is ready to mix it with anybody Kearns will sign up with.

"Kearns does the managing and I do the fighting," said Dempsey. He added that anybody his manager picked, from Firpo to the Kaiser, would be welcome. The rumor of another bout with Gibbons, to be staged in Hollywood, he branded as bunk.

Jack said that he was sorry he would not be back East to see the Willard-Firpo fight tomorrow night but added that Kearns would be on the job getting a line on the winner.

When asked whom he thought would win the battle between the "Bull of the Pampas" and the Kansas Sunflower, Dempsey replied: "Unless Firpo knocks out Willard in the first five or six rounds I think Jess will win. Willard seems to get stronger as the bout progresses and should he withstand the rushes and wallops of Firpo for the first five rounds I believe big Jess will win out.

"Should Firpo win he would be a bigger attraction than Willard for a fight with me, because I stopped Willard once and most fans think I can do it again. Should Firpo trim Willard in short order the public will think that Luis is the man to knock me off my perch and the scrap should attract a flock of fans.

"However, I am not pulling for either fighter and hope that the best man wins."

Dempsey said that the Gibbons fight convinced him that he would have to fight regularly or he would lose his crown. The champion stated that if he had to take another two-year layoff that he would be easy pickings for the first man that met him.

"I have to fight at least once a year to be in my best form," said Jack, "and I hope from now on that I will be kept busy. I surely hope that Kearns lands a match for me Labor Day, for I'm all pepped up for a scrap."

Dempsey announced that he would stay in Los Angeles for about two weeks, then go to New York to prepare for his next fight.

NEVILLE AND WRIGHT STAR

Defeat Willie Hunter and Seaver 3 and 2

Sterling Golf is Feature of Exhibition

Johnson Leads Qualifiers in County Tourney

BY CHARLES WEST

Flirting with par all the way around, Jack Neville, amateur golf champion of California, and Fred Wright, Jr., both members of the American team this season, defeated Willie Hunter, Southern California title holder, and Everett Seaver in an exhibition foursome at the Los Angeles Country Club yesterday afternoon, 3 and 2. From the first hole, which Neville took with a well-played birdie, until the match ended on the sixteenth green, Wright and Neville were never down, but kept comfortably in the lead the entire route.

Although Willie Hunter was not up to his usual standard, it is doubtful whether he and Seaver could ever make the grade against the beautiful golf of Neville and Wright, who make an excellent pair in match play. Neville made some flashy shots, getting out of difficult lies with clever work, but Wright's playing was steady and accurate on almost every hole.

EARLY LEAD

The first nine ended with Hunter and Seaver 4 down and from the type of golf Neville and Wright were playing it was evident that it was only a question of time before they won out. Willie Hunter and Seaver made a brief rally on the last nine, cutting the advantage of Wright and Neville to three holes when Hunter sank a long putt on the twelfth green for a birdie three. But with the score dormie three on the sixteenth hole Neville lifted his ball out of a trap and halved the hole with Hunter, whose putt was an inch or so short, thus ending a match of excellent golf.

Both Neville and Wright have improved their game considerably while representing America in England, and will undoubtedly continue to move among the foremost golfers of the world.

Today is the last day in which prospective county champions may qualify for the county tournament, being held at the Western Avenue Golf Club. Something like four dozen players covered the first half of the thirty-six-hole qualifying round yesterday, A. E. Johnson of the Western-avenue club leading with a low net of 68 so far. William White, chairman of the greens committee, expects 100 to play the course today, with the purpose of trying for one of the many beautiful trophies which will be awarded the resulting champion and flight winners.

O'HAGEN CAPTURES TITLE

Jimmy O'Hagen, the scrapping New Yorker, won the title of Pacific Coast middleweight champion by winning a clear-cut decision over Bert Colima before a packed house in the main event of the Vernon fights last night.

After the first round, the Whittier flash lost his glitter and from then on Mr. O'Hagen piled up points and had the better of the going. O'Hagen outboxed Colima and showed to advantage in the infighting. It was simply a case of Colima meeting a better scrapper. Colima took the first round, but the next three went to O'Hagen. The decision was well received by the fans.

Young Datto had an easy time in trimming Billy Kennedy in the semi-wind-up. Kennedy tried hard, but Datto carried too many guns and had cinched the verdict before the third round was over.

Sailor Frankie Constantine and Teddy Seidman, a pair of featherweights, fought a fast draw that kept the fans amused. Seidman pulled off some of his jumping-jack tactics and made a great hit with the cash customers. Ted Levin trounced Johnny Martin in what promised to be a dismal failure as far as raising action was concerned. Levin did the best work, but that wasn't so much.

The third-spot scrap provided a kick and a knockout, Kid Louie slapping George Sirey to sleep with a right to the jaw. Bert Morgan defeated Jack Price in a fast slugging match, while the opening bout betwene Kid Metzler and Ed Morton resulted in the former running off with the verdict.

Charlie O'Connor made a speech, asking the fans to donate to the fund for Detective Sergeant Bethel, who was recently seriously wounded in a gun battle with two bandits. Ushers passed the hat through the crowd and a large sum was collected.

END RED SOX DEAL TODAY

BOSTON, July 7.—We'll finish this deal for the Red Sox, one way or the other tomorrow," said Bobby Quinn, recent business manager of the St. Louis Browns, tonight just after he had come from an all-day conference at which President Johnson, of the American League, President Harry Frazee of the Boston Red Sox and his associate E. K. Harriman of Chicago and Edward N. Schoenbern and Palmer K. Winslow were present.

"I am none too certain that we will buy the club," continued Quinn. "There is a hitch. It has nothing to do with the price of the franchise and property. It is something else, of which I am not at liberty to speak now but I can say that we will say yes or no after our conference tomorrow. I will not go back to the St. Louis club."

Huge Purse Raised for Dempsey-Gibbons Battle in Los Angeles

PROMOTER HAS HAPPY DREAM

Hollywood Man Proposes Ring Bout for City

Would Rematch Jack and Tom Thanksgiving Day

Impresario Fails to Consider State Law in Plans

BY OLIVER B. GARVER

A $500,000 purse was underwritten yesterday in Los Angeles by a group of local sportsmen and financiers for a return battle between Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, and Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul challenger, whom Dempsey defeated at Shelby, Mont., on July 4. According to A. E. Santwier, who heads the group of seven interested in the promotion of the bout, the plan is to stage the contest on Thanksgiving Day somewhere in Southern California.

This purse exceeds any former offer extended to any fighters for participation in a single heavyweight encounter by a good many thousand-dollar bills. With such a plum at stake it appears there will be but little trouble in signing both parties, and even foxy Jack Kearns will no doubt forget Wills, Firpo, Willard and all the rest of the possibilities in his anxiety to grab off so generous a compensation for Dempsey's appearance. All provided, of course, that real money is posted prior to the go. No doubt Eddie Kane, after coming out on the short end of the Shelby deal, will also be ready and eager to sign any articles that will assure Gibbons of a fat cut in this greatest of all purses. The promoters are easily conceded every chance in the world of obtaining the services of both mitt artists.

MANY HITCHES

The syndicate sponsoring the bout must remember, however, that the present law in this State prohibits boxing contests of over four rounds duration. Still another portion of the law states that no other form of the fistic art save boxing exhibitions may be staged within the boundaries of the State of California, and further, that the participants in such four-round exhibitions shall receive no money for their services. And still another hitch appears in the plan. Only amateurs may appear in the above-mentioned encounters, and it's no secret that the sole compensation received by such boxers takes the form of various medals, leather and otherwise. Neither Dempsey nor Gibbons are amateurs, having both accepted money for their services in a good many bouts already passed.

The syndicate, it seems, has hopes of bringing about a revision in the law, and according to Mr. Santwier plans for such a change have already been outlined to members of the State Legislature. Since this group of lawmakers has already departed for their homes and since they will not convene again until 1925, it hardly seems likely that this wild dream of staging a bout next Thanksgiving Day will ever come true.

MOVE TO ARIZONA

Should the syndicate be blocked in their plans to stage the fight here in Southern California, and it's almost a sure bet they will, arrangements will be made to hold the contest in Arizona, with either Phoenix or Tucson, the logical town to be considered. It is understood that both of these towns would welcome a championship bout, even in the face of Shelby's downfall. The Arizona law limits fistic encounters to ten rounds, and in case the bout should be taken to the neighboring State, the promoters may find it necessary to limit the affair to such duration.

The group is made up largely of Hollywood men, and although their names have been withheld from publication it is understood that all of them are prominent in local sporting circles. The money involved in the promotion of the battle is local in its entirety.

Jack Dempsey arrived in this city yesterday and when interviewed with regard to the bout only smiled.

FIGHTERS READY FOR TROUBLE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 10.—Completing their training programs and with light exercise needed during the next two days to keep them on edge, Jess Willard, former heavyweight champion, and Luis Angel Firpo, South American slugger, were declared tonight by their handlers to be ready for the battle at Boyle's Thirty Acres Thursday night.

The end of the conditioning grind brought with it a marked swing in sentiment among boxing experts toward Willard, the 40-year-old Kansan, who is attempting one of the most unusual comebacks in prize ring history. When the match first was made, after Willard had knocked out Floyd Johnson and Firpo eliminated Jack McAuliffe, II, at the milk fund show two months ago, critics established Firpo as an odds-on favorite.

Ticket sales, continued today to exceed all expectations, thousands obtaining the pasteboards at Madison Square Garden and sending the advance "gate" beyond $300,000.

RIVAL PROMOTERS IN NEW YORK CONFERENCE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 10. — Tex Rickard and Tom O'Rourke, rival boxing promoters, have buried the hatchet sufficiently deeply to meet for discussion of a bout between Champion Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills, negro boxer, it was disclosed today. O'Rourke, who claims to have Wills under contract for his next appearance, and Rickard, who lays claim to Dempsey's services in the East, indicated the match was probable provided Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, could be induced to see the light.

Both promoters professed to believe a Dempsey-Wills bout would prove a better drawing card than a match between Dempsey and either Luis Angel Firpo or Jess Willard.

TELLS OF ARSENIC IN SLAIN WOMAN'S BODY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEWWARK (N. J.) July 10.—Dr. A. E. Edel, toxicologist, who analyzed the intestines of Mrs. Annie Creighton, for whose murder the daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mary F. Creighton, is on trial, testified today that he found 23.286 miligrams of arsenic in the organs he examined. If a similar amount of the poison had been found in the other organs, analyzed by chemists employed by the defense, the total would not reach fifty miligrams, he said. The chemist estimated there had been 185.09 miligrams of the poison in the organs of Charles R. Avery, brother of the younger Mrs. Creighton, of whose murder she and her husband, John Creighton, were acquitted a month ago.

The monthly registered club shoot of the Los Angeles Trapshooting Association is scheduled for next Sunday, it was announced yesterday by Secretary Andy Martin. A good-sized crowd of local and visiting followers of the clay bird breaking game is planning to be in attendance.

Sundhy's registered shoot will call for 100 targets in four frames from 16 yards. Take-home trophies will be up for the high guns. A fifty targets distance handicap also is scheduled, which should bring out some lively competition.

PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—Ring and Donohue staged a fine pitchers' battle for nine innings today and then in the tenth Cincinnati pounded Ring all over the lot, winning from Philadelphia, 7 to 2.

Roush hit a home run in the tenth with Bohne on base and this blow not only won the game, but disheartened Ring so much that he went all to pieces.

Donohue struck out nine batsmen, being especially effective with men on the bases. The score:

RING WEAKENS

PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—Ring and Donohue staged a fine pitchers' battle for nine innings today and then in the tenth Cincinnati pounded Ring all over the lot, winning from Philadelphia, 7 to 2.

Roush hit a home run in the tenth with Bohne on base and this blow not only won the game, but disheartened Ring so much that he went all to pieces.

Donohue struck out nine batsmen, being especially effective with men on the bases. The score:

BROOKLYN, July 10. — Frank "Dutch" Henry, Brooklyn southpaw, shut out the Chicago Cubs with four widely scattered hits here today, 9 to 0. Keene started for the Cubs and with one out in the fifth was replaced by Lefty Fussell, who forced across two runs. A single by Olson produced another. Keen had allowed one run before he was taken out in the fifth. Cheeves pitched the eighth inning for Chicago and two hits and a base on balls gave Brooklyn their ninth run. Score:

SPORT SHRAPNEL

By HARRY A. WILLIAMS

Recently a woman of evident education and refinement accosted the writer. She seemed to be quite excited, sincerely excited.

Wasn't it awful?" she said. I admitted that it was, after which she gave me to understand that she was talking about Shelby.

"But why is it that they flock out to see these fights just the same, regardless of what they do and the prices they charge?" she continued.

"Tell me what is wrong with the human and I can answer your question." I countered with a partial interrogation.

As long as the public is willing to pay the tariff there will always be a champion or near-champion to collect it at top prices. Barnum not only was right, but spoke for succeeding generations.

But she couldn't tell me what was wrong with the human race. Rather she added to the puzzle by the fact that she had been interested in a prize fight, this woman of education and refinement. And I am not sure that she, herself, wouldn't pay $50 for a ringside seat if she felt reasonably certain that Dempsey would be whipped, for she seemed terribly disappointed that Gibbons lost.

Fighting was about the first thing that the human race knew, and for some thousands of years yet, perhaps millions, will continue to interest it. I never will forget how my own mother, one in 10,000,000, always reading her Bible when not sewing, darning and patching for us kids, could hardly wait for the returns of the Corbett - Fitzsimmons battle. Womanlike, she wanted Fitzsimmons to win because he was the smaller. So, I am sure, there is nothing much wrong with the human race after all.

That famous case so long on trial, Boxing versus Mauling, seems to have been decided in favor of the former at Shelby.

Although the boxer lost, his showing against superior physical odds was such as to vindicate those who have argued that true ring effectiveness deteriorated with the passing of science and skill in favor of sheer strength and ungainly clubbing.

There would appear no reason longer to doubt that straight punchers like Corbett, Fitzsimmons and Johnson, with their superlative cleverness, could have gone right through the present crop of heavyweights and emerged with hardly a mark. True, Fitz was not as clever as some of his contemporaries, but he was fast and crafty, and he needed to hit a man only once. Reaching Dempsey as Gibbons reached him, Fitz would have dropped him for keeps.

But, back to the advantages of skill over strength and the clubbing, freak styles of today, one need only to analyze the Shelby scrap in order to get the viewpoint. Gibbons achieved what probably 99 per cent of the competent critics declared to be impossible. And how? By skill and science. There was his only advantage. Without them he would have been whipped in the first round.

Gibbons was at an age when boxers presumably as past their prime physically. He was outweighed by at least twenty pounds. His strength probably was not more than half that of his younger, larger opponent. Yet he stood him off for fifteen rounds, outfought him in two rounds and held him even. Keenness of brain and cleverness of hand and foot enabled him to overcome what seemed insuperable physical handicaps. And had Gibbons had equal size and youth, plus this cleverness, he most certainly would have whipped the champion.

Dempsey, with every physical advantage, failed to get his man. That shows that the Dempsey system, never regarded as orthodox by boxing judges, lacks real efficiency. Had his strength and punching power been supplemented by real cleverness, he would have made short work of Gibbons.

Tommy completely baffled him when it came to reaching a vital spot. Wonder how far Dempsey would have got with that long left of Jack Johnson's continually on the end of his nose?

There must be a lot of wasted effort in Dempsey's style, or rather a lot of natural power which is not utilized under his system. Jack had a great reputation for accurate hitting which was not in evidence against Gibbons. This reputation was built up partly on his seven knockdowns of Willard. But the last six knockdowns were delivered against a man stunned and so nearly out on his feet that he was a stationary target.

Before this fight I heard it discussed by dozens of men, and some of them excellent judges of boxers. However, it remained for Bill Huddy, former fight manager, but now a street-car conductor, to give the most nearly correct line on what happened. Bill alone conceded Gibbons a chance to stay the fifteen rounds.

"It will look like a different Dempsey because Gibbons isn't going to be standing still," is the way Huddy handed it out.

HANK JOHNSON SURE PROUD OF HIS BEAK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WHITTIER, July 10.—Hank Johnson, foreman of a local garage, now points to his nose with pride.

The position of his nose, slightly to one side, is a momento from one of his sparring bouts with Tommy Gibbons. Johnson, who formerly lived in St. Paul, occasionally put on the gloves with Gibbons, and Tommy landed one on the nose which left that organ a bit out of plomb.

Johnson picked Gibbons to stay the fifteen rounds, and all the neighbors thought his conversation was queer. But he knew something.

CHICAGO, July 10.—New York got the breaks today and defeated Chicago, 3 to 2, in a pitching duel between Cvengros and Jones. (17th Century Conception of a Porto Rican Rain Storm)

The new Vintage Ricoro Cigars are in!

Try them!

WITH tobacco, as with wine, it happens that in certain years Nature outdoes herself.

This is what happened down in the Ricoro plantations in the La Plata district of Porto Rico. Just the proper condition of the soil—just the exact proportions of rain, sun and warm tropic breeze—produced a tobacco crop magnificent in richness, mildness and bouquet.

The Ricoros now in the United Cigar Stores are made of this vintage tobacco, and we honestly believe that Porto Rico has never produced such delightfully smooth, mild and fragrant cigars.

We urge every lover of truly fine tobacco to 'discover' them. There is no advance in Ricoro prices—even for these rare vintage cigars. And besides—Ricoro is imported duty free, so you save the difference.

Ricoro

Ricoro comes in 10 regular sizes, 2 for 15c up to 15c

Avoid Motor Oils

containing paraffin, asphalt or any other non-lubricating substance. Aristo Oil is refined by the most advanced processes, designed to remove everything in the crude which has no lubricating value.

Fluffy Not Flint-Like "Carbon"

All motor oils deposit some carbonaceous residue called "carbon," as all makers of oils know.

But different oils deposit different kinds of "carbon."

A hard, gritty, flint-like "carbon"—hard enough to score your cylinders and scratch pistons, rings and bearings—causes these four motor troubles which you can eliminate.

Due to the abrasive action of this flint-like "carbon," cylinders and pistons are scratched and worn.

Parts of this hard "carbon" become incandescent and cause premature firing—pre-ignition results in "knocking."

Spark plugs become coated with the hard "carbon." Thus the spark plug is short-circuited and the motor misses.

The gritty accumulation around the valves prevents proper seating, so a loss of compression results.

You avoid such troubles by using an oil which leaves a soft, fluffy residue instead of the flint-like kind.

Fluffy, Light, Non-Clinging

Aristo Motor Oil leaves but a little—half to a third as much of this other kind of residue.

Soft and fluffy, most of it blows out with the exhaust. It has less tendency to cling than hard "carbon."

It is softer than cylinders, pistons, rings and valves so cannot score or wear them.

It doesn't become incandescent. Ends the missing.

No grit around the valves so compression isn't lost.

Motors run thousands of miles farther without cleaning. You save expense.

Made by the lubrication engineers and specialists of the Union Oil Company, equipped with every facility for the most exhaustive research, this oil is a pure, sure lubricant as fine as knowledge and experience can make.

Famous race drivers have tested it under conditions more severe than any that your car will ever know.

End "carbon" troubles with it. Have a smoother-running, longer-lasting car.

ACCEPTS THREE YEAR CONTRACT

New "Old Eli" Coach Holder of World Mark

Great Hurdler Starts Work in the Fall

Gives Up West Virginia Job of Coaching

Earl J. Thomson, holder of the world's record of fourteen and two-fifths seconds for the 120-yard high hurdles, has been signed to a three-year contract to coach the Yale track squad, according to reports received here yesterday. The famous hurdler coached the University of West Virginia cinderpath aggregation the past year, but decided to instruct Bulldog trackmen when he was offered the three-year contract at a greatly increased salary.

Thomson will assume his duties at Old Eli in the fall, and expects to turn out some championship teams within the next few years.

Thomson is a Dartmouth graduate, but spent his first year in college at the University of Southern California. He also starred for Long Beach during his high-school days, and at present is a joint holder of the Southern California interscholastic high-jump record.

Thomson, competing for Canada, won the 110-meter hurdle event at the last Olympics in 1920 at Belgium, and established a new world mark of fourteen and four-fifths seconds for the timber-topping race. It is expected that Thomson will compete for Canada once more in the Olympic games next year at Paris.

Probably one, or perhaps two, of the reasons why Thomson accepted the coaching job at Yale with the increased salary is because he recently became the proud father of twin daughters. Papa Thomson now has four mouths to feed where once there were but two, and from now on he will be kept hustling earning the daily bread. A little over a year ago Thomson married Miss Anne Cookman, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W. W. Cookman of Glendale.

TROPHIES PUT UP BY MRS. FARWELL

Mrs. Flora Howes Farwell of Los Angeles has contributed to the Southland Sailing Club a permanent trophy to be known as the Farwell Trophy, and three handsome cups to be competed for in three successive years in sailing yacht races in Newport Bay. These races are open to all sail boats having an over-all length not exceeding twenty feet, and are to be conducted under the management of the regatta committee of the club. There will be a series of five races in each year and the winner of each annual series will be awarded the prize for that year, and the name of each cup winner will be inscribed upon the main trophy, which will be held by the Southland Sailing Club in permanent ownership.

CANOE REGATTA ON DES PLAINES RIVER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, July 10.—Public initiation of the upper waters of the Des Plaines River will be made at a canoe regatta to be on Sunday, August 5, President Anton J. Cermak of the forest preserve board announced yesterday.

Dams have leveled the river for miles at a stretch, providing admirable facilities for boating, Mr. Cermak said. He explained that the course for the races will be above dam No. 3, north of Des Plaines, on the west river road. Cermak has offered a silver cup for the individual point winner, and winners of races will receive prizes.

HALF MILERS RIGHT OF WAY

Hold Harness Sway Up to the End of June

Fleming Off to Good Start, Wins With Silent T

Geers Makes His Debut With Sanardo in 2:02

BY W. H. GOCHER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 10.—Up to the end of June the half-milers had the right of way on the trotting turf. While McDonald, Cox, Murphy and the other trainers who limit their engagements to the larger ovals were getting their horses in racing condition, the two-lappers were out for the word in Ohio, Michigan and New England, where attractive programs were presented for the horses in trim to race.

The campaign opened at Marion the last week in May. At that point Vic Fleming got off to a flying start by winning with Silent T., Sally Direct and Patrick Pointer. Will Squires also won three events with Baroness Hedgewood, Sister Ruth and Baroness Harvester, while Harry Stokes was credited with two firsts, his representatives being Helen Wilkes and the 3-year-old pacing filly Echo.

ADDS WINNERS

Ben Whitehead dropped in from Tennessee and won with Van H. He also picked up another race the following week with this gelding at the inaugural meeting at Brooklyn Park, which is located in a Cleveland suburb. At this point Vic Fleming added three more winners to his score. His top liners were Barney's Tramp, Patrick Todd and Sally Direct. Harry Stokes also scored at Brooklyn Park with Morgan Dewey and Squires repeated with Sister Ruth.

Kenton was the next stop. At that meeting Henry Thomas appeared and won with Ponywood, A.B.C. and Lady May C. Cassie Abbott and Daisy Pointer also won for Sep Palin, the last named pacing in 2:09 1-4. The showing at this point was, however, cast into the discard by the flight of speed and brilliant racing at Canton.

MAKES DEBUT

Geers made his debut in Stark county with Sanardo. He drove him a mile in 2:02, while he also won a race with My Rosebud, a sister to Rosa Watts and Bogalusa, in 2:10 1-4.

Henry Thomas jumped the number of his winning mounts at his first two meetings in 1923 to six by showing in front at Canton with San Pedro Girl, A.B.C. and Cupid Albingen. The last named reduced his record to 2:07 1-4 in a third heat. This mile was recorded as the fastest ever trotted over a half-mile track in Ohio. It did not remain at the top of the list very long, as when Lammein took the word with Clyde the Great he reduced it to 2:06 1-4. He also made a new world's record for three heats, winning in 2:06 1-4, 2:07 1-4 and 2:07.

CENTER OF STAGE

The Bay State Circuit occupied the center of the stage in New England. At its first three meetings Fred Hyde won eight races. Three of them were placed to the credit of the 3-year-old gelding Sir Etawah, two to Iva Lou, with which he defeated Col. Bidwell at Avon in 2:07 1-4, and one each to Heather, Mauna Loa and Mary O'Conner.

Of the others who are following the Bay State route Bud Murray gathered in three races with Junior Hal and one with Ramco. Joe Johnson, the circuit leader for the past two years, also scored three victories with Anoakia and one with Mr. Hoover. On the trip from Combination Park to Avon the Sunshine stable gathered in two races with Billy Smith, an ex-member of the Murphy stable, and the first 2-year-old event of the year with Vivian Harvester. The filly, as her name implies, is by The Harvester out of the dam of Peter Vonia. In her first race she defeated Don Setzer and Peter Burt in 2:21 1-4.

During the Avon meeting Bill Sharen made his first start on a half-mile track since he was purchased in 1920 for $25,000 in New Brunswick. He won in a jog from Peter Conley and Shawnee, trotting the last half of his second mile in 1:04. If this race was a true bill for him, and it certainly looked like it, the big chestnut will prove a thorn in the side of the fast trotters on the eastern half-mile tracks this year.

MIDDLETON HIT HARD BY PREXY McCARTHY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—Manager Jimmy Middleton, of the Portland Beavers today was fined $100 and suspended for ten days by President W. H. McCarthy of the Pacific Coast league as a result of a heated argument Middleton had with Umpire Edward Finney during the game at Portland last Sunday afternoon.

Fans were threatening the umpire, it is said, when Carl Sawyer, Vernon second baseman, climbed into the stands and placated them.

Changes Under Way at Legion Fistic Arena

The Hollywood American Legion arena will be dark this week. Extensive alterations are now being made on the structure, including the sinking of the ring, and the increasing of the pitch of the ringside seats. According to Roy Marshall, manager of the movie city fistic emporium, the changes will greatly improve the layout, and will insure every fan an excellent view of the fighters.

In hopes of making the reopening of the stadium on the 20th a truly big affair, Matchmaker Frank Crowley has imported Bobby Harper from Portland, and matched him with Sailor Ashmore in the main event. Harper comes from the north heralded as the coast junior welterweight champion, and if his record is to be taken as a fair criterion of his fistic ability, the fight bugs have a rare treat in store. The boys will fight at 140 pounds.

Ashmore has just left for his father's ranch in the mountains, where he will indulge in a week of light training preparatory to the bout and incidentally to take on a few pounds. The ex-gob is in excellent shape and a few light workouts should bring him around into the pink of condition.

LITTLE LESSONS IN Big Sports

What points are most important in getting distance on a drive?

Answered by

BOB MacDONALD

Veteran tournament player, winner of the Metropolitan open championship, 1921, and the Texas open championship, 1922. Famous the world over for his long-distance driving.

By far the most important point is to hit the ball squarely. By this I mean to hit it without trying to help it along as one does with a hockey stick. Hit to the ball, not through it. Observe a wood-chopper—he swings his ax at the tree and is content to get a good-sized chip from every stroke and does not try to knock the tree out of the forest with a single blow. Don't try to knock the ball off of the course on every drive. Transfer the weight to the left leg during the drive and advance the left hip from three to six inches toward the ball.

ANGELS HIT HARDEST, BUT SACS GRAB GAME

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, July 10.—Los Angeles out-hit Sacramento in today's opening tilt staged at Moreing field, but the Solons outran the Angels; that and the fact of a costly error by McAuley in the first inning tells the story of Ken Penner's victory over George Lyons, score 4 to 3. Kopp opened the first period with a safe click infield, was safe at second when McAuley dropped Krug's throw, fielder's choice off Hemingway, went to third on Cochran's sacrifice and Molwitz punched them both in with a double to right. A walk, a wild pitch and a sacrifice fly brought Kopp in with a third count in the third and Brown homed over the left wall in the sixth. McCabe doubled to left in the third, McAuley walked and Twombly scored McCabe with a single to left. Griggs homed in the sixth, and four singles counted Krug in the seventh. The score.

BRAVES PROTEST BALL GAME ON UMP'S ERROR

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BROOKLYN, July 10. — The Boston National League club has protested the second game of a doubleheader with Brooklyn at Ebbetts Field on July 4, it was announced today, on the ground that Umpire Hart erred in allowing Fournier, Dodger first baseman, a home run when his drive hit a flagpole on the right-field wall and bounced back into the field.

The Brooklyn club, however, claims that the flagpole is four inches beyond the limits of the field, which it asserts sustains the arbiter's judgment. The score of the game was 9 to 5 in Brooklyn's favor.

Decision is in the hands of John A. Heydler, president of the National League.

RUBIDOUX AND DONZA IN VENICE MAIN GO

A lively boxing program is expected at Sunset Pier arena in Venice tonight when the American Legion post of that city stages its second weekly show.

Ad Rubidoux, hero of two great draw battles against Teddy Silva, will meet rugged Ashton Donza in the main event. Sailor Martinez and Jack Russo, lightweights, will meet in the semiwind-up. The remainder of Matchmaker "Pop" Nealis' card is as follows: Frankie Smith vs. Ted Frenchie, 125 pounds; Frankie Jones vs. Babe Connors, 130 pounds; Alex Maurice vs. Freddie Ellis, 133 pounds, and Benny Diaz vs. Kid Chili, 116 pounds.

ANGELUS ALLEY HOST TO BOWLERS TONIGHT

A packed gallery is expected at the Angelus Academy tonight when the opening round of the Southern California doubles bowling championship tournament is put on. The E. H. Dyas Company gold medals are at stake in the affair, which will run for eleven weeks under the Petterson Point system of rules.

Twelve of the best two-men teams in Southern California entered the play and some of the best ten pin competition since the Coast title play was held here a year ago is looked for.

DUCKS WALLOP OAKS UNDER NEW MANAGER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OAKLAND, July 10.—Portland defeated Oakland here today, 16 to 5. The Beavers outhit and outfielded the Oaks throughout the game. McCann, Beavers, obtained a home run in the third.

Mails was relieved by Murchio in the fourth, who, in turn, was relieved by Wells in the fifth.

Brazil is piloting the Beavers in the absence of Manager Middleton, who was suspended for ten days by William H. McCarthy, league president. The suspension was the outgrowth of an argument between Middleton and Umpire Ed Finney in Portland last Sunday. Score:

TAMPA WOULD STAR DEMPSEY - GIBBONS GO

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TAMPA (Fla.) July 10.—Prospects that this city will enter the bidding for a return bout between Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, and Tommy Gibbons late next winter developed today when several business men conferred. They propose to promote the bout under the auspices of the 116th Field Artillery which is conducting weekly carda.

An obstacle to immediate offers to the boxers is a State law against the promotion of the sport. It was a matter of speculation as to whether interference might be expected if the bout were held in the artillery reservation in the outskirts of the city.

GMC

Any One of Seven Reasons Suggests Using GMC's

If a motor truck had only one exclusive feature that set it above and apart from other trucks—you would feel obliged to give that truck serious consideration when purchasing motor transportation. GMC trucks own seven exclusive and valuable superiorities not to be found in combination on any other truck.

Merely to list them is to prove conclusively the greater merit of GMC's. Here they are: Two Range transmission—Removable cylinder walls—Radius rods—Pump and thermo-syphon cooling—Removable valve lifter assemblies—Pressure lubrication—Instantaneous governor.

Any GMC dealer will explain the tremendous advantages of any or all of these features. Ask him today.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS

Freddie Rooke, a young English sybarite, takes the welfare of his friend, Bir Derek Underhill, M.P., very much to heart. Bir Derek has lately become engaged to Jill Mariner, but in the angle eye of Lady Underhill, Derek's mother, she fails to fulfil the requirements of the Underhill traditions. Under his mother's influence Derek articulates Jill's actions at a Country party one night, a situation which casts Freddie in the role of peacemaker next day. At this time in one of London's slum districts, Nelly Bryant, an American chorus girl, is starting out in search of work with Bill, her pet parrot, hiding his cage from open scrolls to the outer yard for a breath of air. A passerby, seeking to make friends with Bill, is severely bitten and the injured one is about to start his revenge when Jill and Freddie rush to the rescue. An officer of the law is attracted to the scene and at his request the rescuers journey to jail. Released on bail, they go to Freddie's apartment, where they find Nelly waiting to thank them. Shortly after Mrs. Christopher Bailey, Jill's uncle, joins the party in a discussion of America and Nelly develops an acute case of homesickness. Escorting her home, Freddie learns why she is detained in London.

"Eh? Oh!" Nellie's meaning dawned upon Freddie. He regarded her with deep consternation. Life had treated him so kindly that he had almost forgotten that there existed a class which had not as much money as himself. Sympathy welled up beneath his perfectly fitting waistcoat. It was a purely disinterested sympathy. The fact that Nelly was a girl and in many respects a dashed pretty girl did not affect him. What mattered was that she was hard up. The thought hurt Freddie like a blow. He hated the idea of any one being hard up.

"I say!" he said. "Are you broke?"

Nelly laughed.

"Am I? If dollars were doughnuts I wouldn't even have the hole in the middle!"

Freddie was stirred to his depths. Except for the beggars in the streets, to whom he gave shillings, he had not met anyone for years who had not plenty of money. He had friends at his clubs who frequently claimed to be unable to lay their hands on a bally penny, but the bally penny they wanted to lay their hands on generally turned out to be a couple of thousand pounds for a new car.

"Great God!" he said.

There was a pause. Then, with a sudden impulse, he began to fumble in his breast pocket. Rummy how things worked out for the best, however scaly they might seem at the moment. Only an hour or so ago he had been kicking himself for not having remembered that fifty-pound note tacked onto the lining of his coat, when it would have come in handy at the police station. He now saw that Providence had had the matter well in hand. If he had remembered it and coughed it up to the constabulary then, he wouldn't have had it now. And he needed it now. A mood of quixotic generosity surged upon him. With swift fingers he jerked the note free from its moorings and displayed it like a conjurer exhibiting a rabbit.

"My dear old thing!" he said, "I can't stand it! I absolutely cannot stick it at any price! I really must insist on your trousering this. Positively!"

Nelly Bryant gazed at the note with wide eyes. She was stunned. She took it limply and looked at it under the dim light of the gas lamp over the door.

"I couldn't!" she cried.

"Oh, but really! You must!"

"But this is a fifty-pound!"

"Absolutely! It will take you to New York, what? You asked what line was giving free trips. The Freddie Rooke Line, by Jove, sailings every Wednesday and Saturday! I mean, what?"

"But I can't take two hundred and fifty dollars from you!"

"Oh, rather. Of course you can."

There was another pause.

"You'll think——" Nelly's pale face flushed. "You'll think I told you all about myself just—just because I wanted to . . ."

"To make a touch? Absolutely not! Rid yourself of the jolly old superstition entirely. You see before you, old thing, a chappie who knows more about borrowing money than any man in London. I mean to say, I've had my ear bitten more often than anyone, I should think. There are sixty-four ways of making a touch—I've had them all worked on me by divers blighters here and there—and I can tell any of them with my eyes shut. I know you weren't dreaming of any such thing."

The not crackled musically in Nelly's hand.

"I don't know what to say!"

"That's all right."

"I don't see why . . . Gee! I wish I could tell you what I think of you!"

Freddie laughed amusedly.

"Do you know," he said, "that's exactly what the beaks—the masters, you know—used to say to me at school."

"Are you sure you can spare it?"

"Oh, rather."

Nelly's eyes shone in the light of the lamp.

"I've never met anyone like you before. I don't know how . . ."

Freddie shuffled nervously. Being thanked always made him feel pretty rotten.

"Well, I think I'll be popping," he said. "Gotto get back and dress and all that. Awfully glad to have seen you and all that sort of rot."

Nelly unlocked the door with her latchkey and stood on the step.

"I'll buy a fur wrap," she said, half to herself.

"Great wheeze! I should!"

"And some nuts for Bill."

"Bill?"

"The parrot."

"Oh, the jolly old parrot! Rather! Well, cheerio!"

"Goodbye . . . You've been awfully good to me."

"Oh, no," said Freddie, uncomfortably. Any time you're passing . . .!"

Awfully good . . . Well, goodbye."

"Toodle-oo!"

"Maybe we'll meet again some day."

"I hope so. Absolutely!"

There was a little scurry of feet. Something warm and soft pressed for an instant against Freddie's cheek, and, as he stumbled back, Nelly Bryant skipped up the steps and vanished through the door.

"Good God!"

Freddie felt his cheek. He was aware of an odd mixture of embarrassment and exhilaration.

From the area below a slight cough sounded. Freddie turned sharply. A maid in a soiled cap, worn coquettishly over one ear, was gazing up through the railings. Their eyes met. Freddie turned a warm pink. It seemed to him that the maid had the air of one about to giggle.

"Damn!" said Freddie softly, and hurried off down the street. He wondered whether he had made a frightful ass of himself spraying bank notes all over the place like that to comparative strangers. Then a vision came to him of Nelly's eyes as they looked at him in the lamplight, and he decided—no, absolutely not. Rummy as the gadget might appear, it had been the right thing to do. It was a hinge of which he thoroughly approved. A good egg!

Jill, when Freddie and Nelly left the room, had seated herself on a low stool, and sat, looking thoughtfully into the fire. She was wondering if she had been mistaken in supposing that Uncle Chris was worried about something. This restlessness of his, this desire for movement, was strange in him. Hitherto he had been like a dear old cosy cat, revelling in the comfort which he had just denounced so eliguently. She watched him as he took up his favorite stand in front of the fire.

"Nice girl," said Uncle Chris. "Who was she?"

"Somebody Freddie met," said Jill diplomatically. There was no need to worry Uncle Chris with details of the afternoon's happenings.

"Very nice girl." Uncle Chris took out his cigar case "No need to ask if I may, thank goodness." He lit a cigar. "Do you remember, Jill, years ago, when you were quite small, how I used to blow smoke in your face?"

Jill smiled.

"Of course I do. You said that you were training me for marriage. You said there were no happy marriages except where the wife didn't mind the smell of tobacco. Well, it's lucky, as a matter of fact, for Derek smokes all the time."

Uncle Chris took up his favorite stand against the fireplace.

"You're very fond of Derek, aren't you, Jill?"

"Of course I am. You are, too, aren't you?"

"Fine chap. Very fine chap. Plenty of money, too. It's a great relief," said Uncle Chris, puffing vigorously, "A thundering relief." He looked over Jill's head down the room. "It's fine to think of you happily married, dear, with everything in the world that you want."

Uncle Chris's gaze wandered down to where Jill sat. A slight mist affected his eyesight. Jill had provided a solution for the great problem of his life. Marriage had always appalled him, but there was this to be said for it, that married people had daughters. He had always wanted a daughter, a smart girl he could take out and be proud of; and fate had given him Jill at precisely the right age. A child would have bored Uncle Chris. He was fond of children, but they made the dence of a noise and regarded jam as an external ornament—but a delightful little girl of fourteen was different. Jill and he had been very close to each other since her mother had died. a year after the death of her father, and had left her in his charge. He had watched her grow up with a joy that had a touch of bewilderment in it—she seemed to grow so quickly—and had been fonder and prouder of her at every stage of her tumultuous career.

"You're a dear," said Jill. She stroked the trouser leg that was nearest, "how do you manage to get such a wonderful crease? You really are a credit to me!"

There was a momentary silence. A shade of embarrassment made itself noticeable in Uncle Chris's frank gaze. He gave a little cough and pulled at his moustache.

"I wish I were, my dear," he said soberly. "I wish I were. I'm afraid I'm a poor sort of a fellow, Jill."

Jill looked up.

"What do you mean?"

"A poor sort of a fellow," repeated Uncle Chris. "Your mother was foolish to trust me. Your father had more sense. He always said I was a wrong 'un."

HAY HIDES VICTIM OF GARROTERS

Farmer Discovers Nude Body of Man Strangled With Own Shirt

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

JOLIET (Ill.) July 10.—When a farmer named Lucas ran his pitchfork into a pile of hay by the roadside Sunday evening, he was shocked to discover that the hay covered the body of a man, trussed up with heavy iron rods and whose shirt had been twisted around his neck so tightly that it cut into the flesh.

The body was yesterday identified as that of Frank Muren, 20 years of age, who had been waylaid and garroted by unknown persons as he was returning to his home after calling on Miss Margaret Hagerman, a belle of Rockedale, Ill. Revenge is believed to have been the motive for the crime, as there has been intense rivalry for the hand of Miss Hagerman.

Muren's body had been stripped of a new suit, underclothing, shoes and socks and his hat also had been taken. His captors had bent his legs backward and wired them to his hands, drawn back over his shoulders. Strangulation was the cause of death, the body bearing no other marks.

Carl Bilsland, 30, and his nephey, Charles Wright, who visited the Hagerman home Saturday night and did not return to their home until yesterday are being held as suspects.

CAPLAN QUITS PENITENTIARY

"Times" Dynamiter Served Six and Half Years

"Good Behavior" Cuts Down His Ten-Year Term

Convicted of Part in "Crime of the Century"

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—After serving six and a half years of a ten-year sentence, David Caplan, convicted on a charge of complicity in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times, October 1, 1910, was released from San Quentin prison this morning.

According to Warden James A. Johnston, Caplan has been a model prisoner, his release coming as a result of credits given him while serving his sentence. He was employed for several years as a barber in the penitentiary hospital.

Caplan did not make an announcement as to his future plans, but prison authorities believe he will go to New York, where his wife and daughter live.

Caplan was convicted with James B. McNamara, Matthew A. Schmidt and John J. McNamara, the former two being sentenced to life imprisonment and the latter to fifteen years for complicity in the crime. John McNamara has been released on parole. The other two are still serving their sentences. Twenty persons died in the explosion that razed The Times Building.

BASIS OF CONVICTION

David Caplan was sentenced to ten years in San Quentin prison on a conviction here for voluntary manslaughter after his complicity in the destruction of the Los Angeles Times Building in 1910 was proved along with his suspected activity with numerous other anarchists over the country in the scores of dynamiting cases, made famous at that time.

While the case for which Caplan was convicted occurred in 1910 his arrest and conviction did not take place until 1915, when he was captured in Rolling Bay, Wash., where he was working under an alias as a barber. He was arrested about the same time that M. A. Schmidt was taken in New York on the same charge. Both were brought to Los Angeles, where Schmidt was sentenced to life imprisonment in San Quentin for first degree murder. Schmidt's trial was first. Both trials and convictions came as an aftermath to the confessions of James B. and John J. McNamara, perpetrators of the horrible crime of blowing up The Times Building in which twenty lives were lost. John J. McNamara, while suspected of being closely allied with The Times disaster, confessed to dynamiting the Llewellyn Iron Works in Los Angeles for which he was given fifteen years' imprisonment while his brother, James B. McNamara, received life imprisonment for blowing up The Times Building.

TRAILED ACROSS CONTINENT

Caplan was trailed twice across the continent before he was captured. The evidence was practically the same at the Schmidt and Caplan trials yet the jury in the first Caplan trial disagreed after a deliberation of seventy-six hours and was discharged. The first Caplan trial opened April 5, 1915, and the jury was discharged May 16, 1915. The second trial opened October 23, 1915, and a conviction of voluntary manslaughter was brought in December 15, 1915.

Evidence brought out at the McNamara and Caplan and Schmidt trials showed that Caplan and Schmidt were the purchasers of the 500 pounds of dynamite and nitroglycerin from the Giant Powder Works at Giant, Cal. This they transported across San Francisco Bay and to the vicinity of Los Angeles in a launch named the Pastime, which name they changed to the Peerless. Schmidt and Caplan, evidence showed, were in Los Angeles several times looking over The Times Building and plotting its destruction. Caplan had been with JJ. B. McNamara in Seattle, where they had blown up the Lyons Building and later assisted in a dynamiting in Oakland.

VALLEY MELON HARVEST BIG

Seventy-five Carloads Per Day Coming to Coast Markets

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL CENTRO, July 10.—Imperial Valley watermelons are rolling to the Los Angeles and other coast markets at the rate of seventy-five carloads daily. The melons are selling at an average rate of 1 cent a pound f.o.b. valley shipping points. The supply appears to be unlimited.

Inspectors assert that the valley watermelons are of unusually fine quality this year due to a period of cool weather during which they had opportunity to mature more slowly than usual.

BEAN INDUSTRY SHOWS BIG GAIN

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

OXNARD, July 10.—Handling a larger volume of business, securing a wider distribution, getting good returns for the product, and making earlier payments than ever before, the California Lima Bean Growers' Association closed its seventh year of business Tuesday with a barbecue luncheon at Oxnard, which was attended by hundreds of lima-bean growers and their families from the southern counties of the State.

The total of 1922 California crop limas and baby limas available for sale and shipment after cleaning losses and seed requirements amounted to over a million bags, and had an f.o.b. car value of about $7,500,000.

The association handled approximately 808,000 bags of limas and baby limas of the 1922 crop, according to the statement of C. C. Perkins, president of the association, who said, in summing up the year's activities:

"To the best of my knowledge, lima beans are the only California farm or orchard product of the 1922 crop which showed a production increase of nearly 60 per cent over the tonnage of 1921, and yet which brought the growers an average per pound return 15 per cent greater than the per pound return for the 1921 crop."

During the past year the association, through a new system of payments, was able to distribute to the lima-bean growers 4 cents per pound and 5 cent a on baby limas before Christmas. Payments since then have brought the total up to 6½ cents and 7 cents a pound, respectively. The association has no baby limas and about 20,000 sacks of limas left to sell. It is expected that the market will be bare before the new crop will be ready for shipment; only around 75,000 bags total remaining in California storage on the 1st inst.

R. L. Churchill, general manager, told the growers that the trade is already insisting on booking a certain amount of orders for futures at prices ranging around $6.90 to $7 per hundred pounds for regular limas and $7.40 to $7.50 for baby limas.

Churchill urged the growers to assist in securing more members and a larger acreage. He said that the trade is commencing to see how the business can be better stabilized by having a majority of the tonnage in a co-operative organization. According to his figures, three-fourths of the lima crop goes to points east of the Mississippi River. Last year, because of rates, the association shipped nearly 40 per cent of the crop by water.

He urged the necessity of better harvesting methods.

HALT TYPHOID EPIDEMIC

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WAR BEGUN ON CITRUS PESTS

Million-Dollar Scale Fight in San Bernardino

Redlands District Engaged in Huge Clean-up

Spray Gangs to Wash 25,000 Acres in County

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, July 10. — The greatest fight ever waged in San Bernardino county against enemies of citrus growers will begin this week. It is a battle to exterminate the citricola scale and other citrus-grove pests, the citricola being the greatest.

It is estimated that in San Bernardino county alone during the next two months there will be 25,000 acres of trees either fumigated or sprayed. This is done at an average cost of about $50 an acre or a total cost of $1,250,000.

There will be close to 10,000 acres in the Redlands district treated this year, the greatest clean-up in the history of the district. Fumigation started in some sections several days ago and spray gangs have been at work for more than a week.

Spray men, who worked during the recent hot spell, had bad luck as reports to the citrus bureau of the Chamber of Commerce indicate damage by burned fruit. No reports of burn by fumigation have been received so far.

Both fumigation and spray companies have made arrangements to put a greater number of crews into the field this year. According to John P. Coy, county horticultural commissioner, the recent hot spell hatched out the citricola scale so that very effective kills are to be expected. Because of the advanced condition of the scale it was possible to start fumigation earlier than usual.

In the western part of the county, conditions are different than in the east, so that the crews can work over the east end thoroughly before they will have to be moved to the west end. The county has recently passed a new fumigation ordinance giving the inspectors added power in enforcing safety and other requirements.

SANTA YNEZ MISSION STATUS UNCHANGED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, July 10.—Reports that the Franciscans were to take over Santa Ynez Mission, were replied to today by Right Rev. John Joseph Cantrell, who stated that Father Buckler, the parish priest who has been in charge of the mission for many years, shall have a life charge there if he desires, and even if he does wish to retire there will be no change. At the close of Father Buckler's life charge, the bishop or his successor will decide whether to transfer the mission to the Franciscans as a house of retreat, similar to the old mission here or to the study branch of the Franciscans to be used as a college of the order.

STOCK BUYING CURB SOUGHT

Redlands Realty Board in Drive to Warn Public; Much Money Lost Recently

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, July 10.—The Realty Board of this city is making a drive to curtail the investment by local people and capital in stocks of questionable character. H. P. D. Kingsbuy, president, and Ralph Huntington, secretary, of the board, have ascertained that during the past year more than $100,000 has gone out of the city into stock schemes of a questionable character.

Three instances of stock sales totaling $54,000 in the last sixty days have been recorded by the investigation. The survey shows that most of the money went into oil stock.

The survey further showed that more than 90 per cent of the investments were in stocks now held as absolutely worthless and that chances of getting the money back in the remaining 10 per cent are none too bright.

HERCULEAN GASSER IS BROUGHT IN

Union Oil Company Gets Giant Size Producer at Long Beach

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, July 10.—One of the greatest gassers in the history of California oil fields roared into being at 9:30 a.m. today in the Union Oil Company's Community Well No. 11 on Crescent, between Hoosier and Dakota streets.

Huge chunks of rock and a stream of sand were hurled more than 100 feet into the air, and a gas flow started, estimated at 50,000,000 cubic feet. The gasser was brought in at the 2306-foot level, about the same as that of the famous Black and Drake gasser of January 23, 1931.

The fire crisis of the blow-out occurred a few minutes later, while a big bonfire of rubbish was burning within ten feet of the roaring gas flow. The drilling crews at the risk of their lives put out the bonfire and also extinguished the fires in the pumphouse.

Water which broke into the well after the gasser had flowed half an hour is expected to cause the well to sand up. The flow started while the crew was in the act of bailing out water after drilling through the cement.

The famous "outlaw crew" of ten daredevils, headed by O. P. Yawell, field superintendent of the Shell Oil Company, is expected to be given the job of capping the well.

Church Women Raise Funds to Set Flag Flying

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

BURBANK, July 10.—The Burbank Methodist Church is without a flag. It has been without a flag for some time and every few months the subject is mentioned and regret expressed, but "do it now" has just become the motto of some of the women of the church. They mean to buy one grand big one.

They started the first funds for purchasing it today when they gave an outdoor silver tea in the patio of the church to the women of the town. A program of musical numbers and readings formed the entertainment of the afternoon. A silver offering was made and many silver quarters and dollars were offered.

The ladies say it will not be long before Old Glory will float over the building.

Heroic Work Saves Life and Property in $85,000 Conflagration at Petroleum Field

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, July 10.—Damage was fixed at $85,000 in the Signal Hill explosion and fire which broke out at the Long Beach Gasoline and Refining Company's pump-houses at 1 a.m., today and burned until long after daylight.

The damage was divided as follows: Long Beach Gasoline and Refining Company, $40,000; Roters and Edwards Drilling Company, $15,000; Southwest Gasoline Company, $2000, and $8000 to homes of residents in the neighborhood.

Static electricity was blamed by refining company officials for the fire and explosion. Two men were injured by the blast. They were Frank Nisson, an operator for the refining company, who was badly burned, and Charles Booth, workman for the drilling company, whose back was hurt when the tool-house was blown over.

Booth's life was saved by Frank Ellis, tool pusher for the drilling company, who rushed into the burning wreckage of the tool-house and carried him to safety.

An extraordinary experience befell Mrs. Wallace Long, living in a house across the street from the drilling company. The explosion blew out both the front and rear windows of her bedroom. Mrs. Long, sleeping between the windows, was hurled out of bed onto the floor by the concussion, but was unhurt.

Heroic action by employees of the Southwest Gasoline Company is believed to have averted a disaster of large proportions. In their tanks were stored 500,000 gallons of high-pressure gasoline. The employees, at the risk of their lives, lowered pressure on the tanks, permitting the gas to escape into near-by fields, while the fire was burning only 300 feet away.

The only damage to their property was the partial wrecking of the corrugated-iron laboratory, whole end was blown out by the concussion. Firemen said if a single spark had fallen in this laboratory, the whole plant would have been destroyed.

COTTON MEN ALL SET FOR BIG HARVEST

Calexico Growers Expect Heavy Yield Beginning August 1

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CALEXICO, July 10.—Cotton gins in Calexico and Mexicali are being overhauled and crews assembled for the 1923 cotton ginning season, expected soon to open. Remarkable progress made by the plants on the great acreage in Lower California and in this county has compelled the gin managements to get their machinery ready much earlier than in former years.

A. M. Shenk, proprietor of the Shenk cotton plantation, says he may have cotton ready for ginning by August 1. He has 9000 acres of volunteer cotton that has many bolls already opened. Other cotton growers report their fields showing rapid development and cotton wagons are expected to start rolling toward the gins from practically all directions at least by August 15.

Ranch foremen on the larger places are beginning to prepare for assembling large forces of pickers and some labor will be imported from the mainland if necessary.

The district is bounded by Wardlow Road, Market street, Cherry Boulevard, and the flood-control center, and is said to be one of the largest and most wealthy districts in Los Angeles county. A new grammar-school building was completed last year, but the rapid settlement of new families is declared to have made new space imperative.

KERN MUST REORGANIZE TRADE BODY

County Supervisors Give Chamber of Commerce Three Weeks to Act

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BAKERSFIELD, July 10.—The Board of Supervisors of Kern county has given the directors of the Chamber of Commerce three weeks in which to outline a reorganization plan which will save the chamber from being discontinued. The Supervisors today heard a joint committee from the Civic Commercial Association and the Chamber of Commerce on a plan to combine the two bodies.

The speakers virtually all agreed that the radical change was needed in order to bring the work of the chamber up to the needed efficiency but they could not agree on the necessary changes.

One faction present was in favor of halting the incoming of farmers and ranchers, while the other wished the immigration accelerated. Rev. William Mullen of Shafter, was a champion of the farmer. He spoke of the present situation and the condition of small ranchers and farmers of the county, saying that it is becoming steadily more difficult to find markets for their produce and that when the markets were found the prices were ruinous. On the other side of the question was J. A. Sears, realty man, who advised further colonization of the country districts.

Other speakers were C. Jacks of Shafter, D. M. Herman of Wasco and Harry Hopkins of Taft.

HERE'S ONE HAPPY COUPLE

Upland Police Witness Convincing Demonstration That Two May Be Blissful Though Married

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

UPLAND, July 10.—There is at least one woman in Southern California who has perfect trust in her husband and one man who really loves his wife. This was the verdict today of members of the Upland police force after having been instrumental in reuniting Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kramer of Los Angeles who missed connections through a strange series of misunderstandings.

A few days ago when Mr. Kramer found it impossible to leave his business in the Angel City, Mrs. Kramer decided to take a week's vacation by herself and accordingly went to Camp Baldy, in San Antonio Canyon. But after two days of camp life Mrs. Kramer is reported to have become lonely and home sick so she telephoned to Mr. Kramer to come after her and Friend Husband agreed.

SHE GOES DOWN

Knowing that he could not reach the camp before evening the happy thought of walking down the canyon to meet Mr. Kramer struck the wife and she promptly suited action to thought. Soon after leaving Camp Baldy the lady was overtaken by a kind-hearted motorist who invited her to ride to Upland with him and on arrival at Twelfth street and San Antonio avenue, she alighted there to await the arrival of her husband.

At 9 p.m. a report was telephoned to police headquarters that a woman, accompanied by a satchel and a dog, were acting peculiarly at Twelfth and San Antonio streets, having been there since early afternoon and that the woman was apparently wandering about aimlessly.

Expecting to find a demented woman, Chief of Police J. F. Sawyer and Traffic Officer Louis Kronemeyer, Jr., hurried to the scene but they were promptly set right when Mrs. Kramer explained that she was merely waiting for her husband to come and get her, expressing the belief that he would surely find her no matter where she was.

HE GOES UP

The officers explained that most cars en route to Camp Baldy went north on Mountain avenue, a half mile west from San Antonio street, and as it was 10 o'clock they attempted to persuade the woman to come to town for something to eat. When she steadfastly held to the belief that her husband would come for her, the officers returned to police headquarters.

At the police station where they related their story they were informed by Patrolman M. J. Carter that Mr. Kramer had just departed from the station after a second trip to Camp Baldy looking for his wife.

After a search by the officers the husband was finally located and piloted to the spot where his trusting wife had so long waited. But instead of a calling-to-account, for which the police braced themselves at the meeting of the pair, the husband clasped Friend Wife in his arms and implanted a soul kiss which would have roused Rodolph Valentino to envy, according to the officers, who then and there decided that here was one happy couple.

WILL COLONIZE MOJAVE TRACT

Arrowhead Lake Company Sells 4100 Acres

Property Lies Along Banks of Mojave River

Is High-Grade Land for Farming Purposes

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN BERNARDINO, July 10.—Colonization of 4100 acres of fertile land along the Mojave River between Victorville and Hallock on the desert was announced today with the sale of the acreage by the Arrowhead Lake Company to E. E. Kiggins, Bresee Brothers of Los Angeles and Leon A. Atwood, San Bernardino capitalist.

Although not announced, the property, which is considered the most valuable agricultural land on the desert, was sold for approximately $125,000. It is the third land colonization project announced in San Bernardino county in ten days.

IN LITIGATION

It includes that purchased years ago by the old Arrowhead Reservoir and Power Company from ranchers along the Mojave River to prevent litigation involving the riparian rights effected by the construction of the Arrowhead Reservoir and the contemplated reservoir on the west fork of the Mojave River.

In the recorded deed it is specified that the purchasers will never bring litigation in which the riparian rights are involved. The Lake Arrowhead Company retains the right to impound water in Lake Arrowhead, the west fork or any other place. The water rights of the Mojave River, however, go with the land.

RESERVE OIL RIGHT

Included in the deal are 150 head of cattle, various farm implements and equipment and the ranch houses.

Colonization agents of the railroads will at once investigate the project and determine whether they will recommend the land to Easterners. One of the railroads is reported already to have passed on the land and listed it as proper for exploitation.

The Arrowhead Lake Company reserves one-half of the interest in all oil which may be developed on the property.

IMPERIAL IS PAYING INTEREST

Sixteen Thousand Coupons From Banks for Semi-Annual Period

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, July 10.—Checking up and paying 16,000 interest coupons from Imperial Irrigation District bonds is occupying the attention of Secretary McIver and his assistants this week. The coupons were sent in from banks in various sections of the country and represent the semiannual interest due on $16,000,000 of the district's outstanding indebtedness. More than $440,000 in irrigation district checks will be sent out this week to the owners of the bonds.

Since it was organized the irrigation district has voted $17,500,000 in bonds, most of the money received having been expended in development of the district's diversion and irrigation systems, flood protection works and in purchase of the systems of the mutual water companies. A block of $1,500,000 in bonds of the district remains unsold. This money is to be used in completing the drainage system now being installed by the district engineers.

More than 75 per cent of the money raised by the annual tax levy this year will go toward the paying of interest on indebtedness. The district's total interest bill this year is $337,000. The rest of the district's operation expenses is paid by money received from the sale of water.

NEW MANN CASE SURPRISE

Witness Says He Saw Jacobs Thrust Package Into Kitchen Range at Time of Dancer's Death

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, July 10.—Two more surprise witnesses were placed on the stand this morning by the prosecution in the second trial of Capt. Louis L. Jacobs accused of the murder of the dancing girl, Fritzi Mann, and the Camp Kearny physician's alibi was generally believed to have been given another jolt.

William F. Miller, formerly employed as a fireman at the government hospital at the camp, said he was in charge of several boilers, one of which was of the kitchen. Although the witness was unable definitely to fix the time, he said after cross-examination by Attorney Schenck that he knew that when he saw Dr. Jacobs thrust something in the kitchen range it was before he had read the account of the finding of the girl's body on the beach north of Torrey Pines, and also that he believed it was later that same day that he read the account in the papers.

The witness could not say whether the bundle contained letters or clothing.

One of the cooks in the kitchen, Miller said, jokingly remarked when Jacobs threw the bundle into the range: "Is this the last of that affair?" And Jacobs was said to have repeated "Yes."

The other new witness was H. R. Ascher, of this city, who said he had known the defendant for about eighten months and that during the entire period, when he met the defendant on about fifteen or twenty occasions, he had never seen Jacobs wearing glasses.

His testimony was introduced to assist the prosecution's theory that the defendant had not been regularly wearing glasses until about the time he was arrested and charged with the murder of the dancer.

Testimony dealing with the strength of the ocean current, the heights and times of tides in the vicinity of La Jolla; methods and conditions of measurements and the condition of the beach at the Torrey Pines section on the night of January 14, this year, was given at length during the late afternoon session yesterday by Capt. W. C. Crandall of the Biological Station, north of La Jolla. The witness followed I. N. Inskep, handwriting expert.

EXPLAINS TIDE ACTION

Crandall explained the action of the ground swell, surf, shore currents, tides and the action of the undertow on bodies floating in the water near the beach. His testimony is believed preparatory to a trip that will probably be taken by the court and the jury to the beach north of Torrey Pines, where the body of Fritzi Mann was found cast upon the shore the afternoon of January 15.

Judge Marsh, before whom the trial is being heard, this afternoon refused to direct the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty.

This ruling came when, at the close of the prosecution's case, the defense made a motion for a directed verdict, on the grounds that the corpus delicti had not been established nor proof shown of a criminal agency in the death of Miss Mann.

TELLS OF BATH GIVEN GIRL

Wife of Dr. W. R. Price Names Former Guest in Bill of Divorce as Co-respondent

Naming Miss Helen E. Moore as co-respondent and declaring in her petition that he, husband, Dr. W. R. Price, at one time in their home took Miss Moore in the bathroom and gave her a scrubbing "till she was red as a beet," Mrs. Mary L. Price of 1160 West Twenty-seventh street yesterday filed a bill of complaint for divorce. The couple were married February 17, 1890 and separated March 24 of this year.

Price has been in the public eye at various times as a result of his filing homestead claims on the Irvine Ranch properties, and for his connection with a physical beauty cult at Long Beach, which more or less caused him worry.

"RED AS A BEET"

Mrs. Price asserts that at one time while she was visiting relatives in North Carolina, Price brought Miss Moore to the family home and lived with her there. In 1922, she states, Miss Moore was brought to the house while Mrs. Price was there. It was during this period that Price gave Miss Moore frequent baths, she asserts.

"My husband would lock himself in the bathroom with Miss Moore," Mrs. Price's petition asserts, "and I could hear him giving her the bath. There was no reason for this, because Miss Moore was as well and strong as I was and could have bathed herself had she wanted to. One time he came out from the bathroom declaring he had scrubbed Miss Moore till she was as red as a beet."

Mrs. Price asserts Price often associated with other women and on various occasions brought them to her home while she was there.

OFTEN IN COURT

About a year or so ago the Federal Grand Jury indicated it would take action in connection with the attempted filing of homestead claims in Orange county, although many of the owners claimed land patents dating back for fifty years. The Irvine Ranch is one of the noted properties in the State and comprises about 150,000 acres in Orange county along the highway toward San Diego. Dr. Price contended that the survey of 1873 did not show several thousand acres in the ranch properties and were not included in the maps accepted as official.

There was much legal wrangle over the matter, until last May the Interior Department at Washington held that land in the Irvine Ranch properties was not subject to settlement under homestead laws but was the property of those in possession.

Dr. Price at one time promoted the National Gold Dredging Company, which was not a success and which caused stockholders to enter the courts for a final redress.

HEADED CULT

At Long Beach he was at the head of the so-called physical cult, and the "temple" of the society was on West Second street. Ill fortune also pursued Dr. Price in this, the temple eventually being sold at auction by the trustees.

Dr. Price formerly was a Baptist preacher. On coming here he announced himself as the discoverer of a new psychology and many adherents flocked to his side.

As part of the enterprise a big rubber and development scheme on lands in Mexico was floated, but when dividends failed to materialize and extra assessments were made, investors started to complain. Price soon found himself in hot water and a rift occurred in the physical cult society. Judgment after judgment followed.

ALHAMBRA

Where Community Expression Makes Democracy Dynamic

UNDER normal circumstances, with 99 per cent of our population, democracy is little more than a name, a static condition to be transformed only in times of great emotional stress into a vibrant, dynamic force that can be felt in our intercourse with our fellow men and seen shining out of their faces as it passes like the Fiery Cross of old Scotland, from man to man until the whole country is in arms.

Democracy is but another name for brotherly love, and brotherly love is a term that has been so confused with the sanctimonious associations of a Mediaeval churchdom that its significance has been lost. Call it dynamic democracy and you will recognize it as the motive power of every successful human relation, a force that is being recognized and used today by men of vision in business, in government, in industry, in advertising—in every field where success depends upon the co-operation of two or more human beings, in the performance of their daily duties.

To be vital, and hence dynamic, democracy must be generated by the emotions. An emotion only exists and becomes a force in human relations when it is given expression. In times of peace, brotherly love finds its principal expression in community play and in community worship, both of which in their inception were intimately associated in the religious life of the people, before the rise of the commercial theatre took from the drama its significance as a social force.

In Alhambra to-day, both of these vital agencies for social betterment through the fostering of dynamic democracy are very active, and have been for years.

Situated on El Camino Real, that highway of loving service built by the Mission Padres in 1771, under the shadow of the most prosperous of California Missions, Alhambra has always had a strong and broad religious atmosphere. Its first public land was granted for a church building. Today, in a city of 20,000, there are nine churches all filled to capacity, and four denominations are building in the immediate future, churches to cost $300,000.

For seven years the unity of religious sentiment in Alhambra has been focused and nourished in the community by the celebration on Easter Day of a pageant and twilight service—not unlike, in its social significance, the religious festivals that gave birth to the drama.

As the history of the world repeats itself in individuals, so the history of the drama is repeating itself in Alhambra, where, out of these small religious beginnings has grown a great Pageant Association, including in its personnel the officers of the City's principal civic and social organizations, and leading representatives from neighboring cities.

As the early drama first broadened its scope to include historical subjects, the Pageant Association of Alhambra is now preparing to stage historical and occasional pageants as well as that with which it celebrates Easter Day.

To add still further to its usefulness, it has selected in the centre of the City a site on which to build a huge open-air amphitheatre, where century-old blue-gum pine and cedar trees planted by the Mission Padres form a Druid grove replete with romance of early days, and the natural contour of the land will accommodate vast throngs, such as witnessed the plays of Aeschylus in the Theatre of Dionysius, in an out-of-door climate more constant in its unfailing sunshine than was that of Greece.

Alhambra is truly a city of brotherly love in deed if not in name, a city where democracy is dynamic, a city where unparalleled community development and individual prosperity may be directly traced to this vital force so ably fostered by community expression in its churches and its Pageant Association. Come to Alhambra and see for yourself.

Listings on Stock Exchange Establish New Record

Organize Mortgage Company; World Traders Meet

Los Angeles banks have gained 421 per cent, or $573,466,606 in deposits since 1914, according to the statements of condition as of the 1st inst. showing total deposits of $709,585,369. This is revealed in a statistical compilation of bank stocks prepared by the stock department of Banks, Huntley & Co.

The fourteen leading banks used in the record increased their deposits $89,003,016, or 14.3 per cent, during the six months' period from January 1 to July 1. The Security Trust and Savings Bank is shown to have the largest total deposits with $183,419,201. The Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank is second with $140,727,332, and the First National Bank third with a total of $75,397,607.

The compilation shows that in 1914 the banks were capitalized at $12,394,600, which compares with $32,230,000 as of July 1. The Security Trust and Savings Bank has the largest capital structure with $7,700,000, and the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings is second with a capitalization of $6,830,000. The First National takes third place in this respect with $3,500,000 and the California Bank fourth with $2,200,000. Eleven of the fourteen banks have a capital of $1,000,000 or over.

EXCHANGE LISTINGS

Listings on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange this year are running far ahead of any previous season, according to estimates made by H. H. Lee, assistant secretary and manager. Since the first of the year to the 1st inst., the board of governors has approved the listing of thirty securities, while in the best previous season, the period of the Oatman mining boom in 1916, the exchange listed thirty-two new companies in the entire twelve months.

Securities listed since the first of the year are representative of a broad line of activities in the several western States. Three banks are among the number, while the oils and mines about equal the volume of industrial listings, indicating the soundness of the exchange's expansion.

COOTE REORGANIZATION

Creditors representing claims of approximately $750,000 are reported to have indicated a willingness to proceed with a reorganization of the brokerage firm of A. W. Coote, which was declared involuntarily bankrupt a short time ago. The creditors' committee is said to have secured over 100 names in San Francisco in the first day of their campaign, and when the amounts involved in each of the claims from that office are received, it is expected that the combined total will afford a sufficient basis on which to continue with the work.

No official estimate has been made to date of the liabilities and assets of the firm, which operated branches throughout California, and in Arizona and Colorado.

RAILWAY STOCK

The Los Angeles Junction Railway Company, according to the State Railroad Commission, has applied for permission to issue $1,000,000 par value of its capital stock, and promissory notes to the amount of $250,000. The company was organized for the purpose of operating an industrial railway service in the central manufacturing district.

MORTGAGE COMPANY

The Commonwealth Mortgage Company, with a capitalization of $500,000 has been organized for the purpose of financing the construction of buildings in Los Angeles and vicinity. First mortgages will be taken on buildings in the course of construction from $2500 upward. None of the company's capital stock will be offered to the public.

The organizers are David H. Keene, formerly of Los Angeles, but later of Fort Worth, Tex.; Henry Cahn of Cahn-McCabe Company, Miles Ginsburg, formerly of the Marshall-Spring Company of Chicago, and B. C. McCabe and Albert W. Norton of the Southwest Bond Company. The company's office is located at 716 South Spring street.

WORLD TRADERS

Tomorrow night will be "members' meeting" at the regular gathering of the World Traders of Los Angeles at the City Club. The organization has increased its membership roll of 172 and eighty new members will be introduced at the occasion arranged in their honor. Addresses on practical business questions will be given at the meeting.

MECHANICAL GOODS LEAD RUBBER LINES

WORKERS BEING SHIFTED FROM TIRE TO OTHER DEPARTMENTS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

AKRON (O.) July 10.—Although there has been a noticeable recession in tire sales within the last few weeks, other branches of the rubber industry, particularly the boot and shoe and mechanical goods departments of the larger factories are being operated at capacity, with the demand unslackened.

It has been estimated that 65 per cent of the rubber boots and shoes produced in this country are made in Akron. Local rubber plants also report a large export business in this line during the year.

So far as possible, workers are being shifted from the tire departments into the boot and shoes and mechanical goods line. This method is being pursued to a large extent at the Goodrich Tire and Rubber Company.

There has been a curtailment of production in the tire industry of at least 25 per cent in this district. Prices have been slashed from 7 to 13½ per cent by the large plants, following the example of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, which was the first to announce a reduction. Crude rubber prices have dropped to new low records, and stocks of local companies have sunk to the lowest levels of the year.

Kelly-Springfield Tire and Rubber Company closed its plant in Akron this week, laying off about 500 men. The plant formerly employed several thousand men, but this force has been reduced gradually.

Company officials here say they have no assurance that the plant will reopen. It is believed that the building and equipment will be sold and production centralized at the company's main plant in Cumberland, Md.

Sales for the first four months of the present year amounted to more than $3,500,000, according to the financial statement just issued by the Mason Tire and Rubber Company. Company officials predict a normal season.

A recent inventory places the value of $2,024,153 on raw products, work in progress and sundries. The plant and equipment are valued at $4,775,901. The statement shows a surplus of $377,960.

UNFILLED TONNAGE

DAILY TRADE TALK

California Destined to Be Cotton Empire of the Future; Co-operative Marketing

BY CHAPIN HALL

California, traveling hand-in-hand with destiny, is rapidly assuming a place of large importance in the world's production of cotton, and if some systematic effort can be made to induce the farmers of the San Joaquin Valley to devote a portion of their land regularly to cotton growing the results will be of far-reaching importance, not only to the farmers themselves, but in the development of large manufacturing enterprises in Los Angeles.

The South, the "land o' cotton," is losing its grip upon the industry due to the boll weevil, which the growers have fought so valiantly and so vainly, and which they have found impossible to eradicate, and because the cheap negro labor upon which so much dependence has heretofore been placed is migrating in large numbers to the North and entering industrial pursuits.

In the first six months of this year, for instance, 77,500 negroes and 29,513 whites have quit the farms of Georgia and moved to industrial centers of the North and East, according to a report on the labor exodus to the Georgia Bankers' Association.

In the last three years, the same report shows, 228,938 negroes have migrated from the State, leaving the colored population less than it was in 1890. Some 46,000 farm dwellings have been left vacant, and estimating thirty acres to the plow, there are more than 55,000 idle plows in the State at the present time.

Because of these conditions the South is bound to produce less and less cotton as the years come and go, while on the other hand, California, with its vast areas, heretofore devoted to the growth of barley must seek some profitable crop to take its place, for, with burros out of commission, and with automobiles "nosing" out horses and mules, there is comparatively little demand for the old standby.

In the south end of the San Joaquin Valley it has been demonstrated that cotton can be produced on irrigated lands with better net results to the farmer than he can secure by growing grain, barley, corn or almost any other field crop, and if the situation can be fairly presented to the farmers and land owners of that district, it should result, within the next two or three years, in between 250,000 and 300,000 acres being devoted regularly to the production of cotton, and Southern California will join the list of communities in which this basic crop may be successfully grown, with the chance that in the end it may prove to be the area in the United States where cotton is permanently grown without the drawbacks which now make its production more or less precarious in other quarters.

Cotton marketing has been slow in adopting modern co-operative methods and so late as three years ago the movement existed only in the minds of a few farm leaders in Oklahoma, Texas, Arizona, California and Mississippi. Today more than $100,000,000 worth of cotton is being sold co-operatively annually in the twelve States where the growers are organized, according to the American Cotton Growers Exchange. Approximately 890,000 farmers in the United States have signed the standard co-operative marketing contract used by the cotton associations, and nearly 260,000 cotton growers have so far come into these organizations. It is claimed that members of the exchanges get $25 a bale more for their cotton than nonmembers the last year.

Aaron Sapiro, of California, who has been largely instrumental in perfecting plans for the Cotton Growers' Exchanges, offers three fundamental principles essential for such organizations: First, the organization must be by commodity; second, it must be composed of growers only; third, these growers must be tied together with a binding contract over a period of years. Other principles incorporated by Mr. Sapiro include sufficient volume of business to justify the overhead and insure its being a factor in the market; the commodity delivered to the association must be placed in pools, so that all growers producing similar grades and quality shall receive exactly the same price.

BRITISH COMPETITION

American business interests having trade relations with Canada and other parts of the British Empire should follow with keen interest the approaching imperial economic conference to be held in London this fall. Two assemblages of great importance will be held, at which representatives from the dominions and India will confer with those from the United Kingdom.

One of these, the imperial conference, will deal with matters of a political character, the other with trade and economic subjects generally. Canada evidently considers the latter of more importance, for whereas the expenses of the Canadian delegation to the imperial conference are put at $10,000, those of the delegation to the economic conference are set at $25,000.

The economic conference is the development of a plan to promote trade between the United Kingdom and the other parts of the British Empire. This is no new proposal, for it was the idea behind Joseph Chamberlain proposals of many years ago. It was the hope of Joseph Chamberlain that through a system of preferential tariffs a plan might be worked out whereby the mother country would draw the greater part of her raw materials from within the empire, and that in return the outlying parts would buy the greater part of their manufactured goods from her.

FASTER FREIGHT

William Sproule, president of the of the Southern Pacific, is stressing the fact that every east-bound freight train this fall must go through with the minimum of delay. Shippers are being advised to load cars to absolute capacity if California growers are to have the equipment to move the enormous production now in sight.

REMOVING SNOWSHEDS

Forty miles of snowsheds across the Sierra Nevada Mountains, which have protected the Southern Pacific ever since the road was built will be of the past within the next two years. The road is being double-tracked between Truckee and Summit and between Blue Canyon and Smart. Eighteen miles of the sheds have already been eliminated. Rotary plows will be used in the future to keep the road open through the mountains.

WITH THE TRADE

If you want to sell 1000 to 3000 tons of gypsum to China or 1000 tons of shapes (angles and bulb angles) to Sweden, or 100 motorcycles with side cars to Poland, the Department of Commerce can furnish you the requisite information. Requests from twenty-six countries, ranging from newspaper-selling machines for Syria to blooded chickens for Mexico, have reached the department this week through American commercial attaches, trade commissioners and consuls.

A revival in the cigar trade is reflected in the reports of the sales of stamps for the last year issued by internal revenue officers.

AT A VANTAGE POINT

The small map above illustrates the strategic location of the Class "A" 8-story reinforced concrete store and office building (now under construction) which is the security for a conservative issue of First Mortgage 6½% Bonds recently purchased by us for the account of our clients.

The total security value of land and building will be $878,600, while the bonded indebtedness amounts to less than 60% of this figure. This margin of safety will increase continually as bonds are retired each year. In addition, full insurance will be carried. Annual Net Income, based on long term leases adequately secured, is conservatively estimated at over 5½ times interest requirements.

The building will be devoted to members of the medical profession of the highest standing only, and its proximity to the business center, hospitals and residence districts, just beyond traffic congestion, makes the location ideal for the purpose. In view of the established nature of values in the locality, stability of income and other protective features, we believe these bonds represent a real investment opportunity. Our nearest office will be glad to explain further details.

BOND QUOTATIONS

Listless Trading

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, July 10. — Widespread uncertainty over the ultimate trend of securities and commodity prices was reflected in the irregular and listless trading in today's bond market. United States government bonds held firm. Foreign bonds were mixed, the French governmental and municipal issues showing slight improvement in sympathy with the higher exchange rates, while Mexican 5s and Jurgen 6s each dropped a point.

Further recovery of the New Haven issues was the feature of the railroad list. New Haven franc 7s and New York, Westchester and Boston 4½s each gained about a point, and New Haven convertible 6s advanced ½. Liens of some of the western roads turned heavy on the announcement of a break in wheat prices.

Some good gains were recorded in the public-utilities section. Interborough Rapid Transit 6s and refunding 5s stamped each gained 2 1-4 points, with smaller gains by other local traction-company bonds. Milwaukee Electric Railway 5s also advanced a point.

Indications of a price war in the sugar industry accounted for the heaviness of sugar-company bonds, Punta Alegre 7s dropping a point. Marine 6s and American Agricultural 7½s yielded large fractions.

Total sales, par value, were $9,503,000.

NEW YORK CURB

Apathetic Market

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, July 10.—Trading in today's curb market was extremely dull with prices shaded throughout the list. The total transactions in all no-par shares aggregated only 600 shares as against a daily turnover of 2000 to 3000 normally.

Oils, as a rule, offered good resistance to reports of additional cuts in crude prices, the recessions in most active issues being of a fractional character. On small turnovers, Continental Oil advanced 1 and Cumberland Pipe 4, while Magnolia Petroleum dropped 1 and Pacific Oil and Gas fell 2 points.

Another drop of 4 points in Gillette Safety Razor was the outstanding development in the industrial list. Goodyear Tire and Rubber common was fairly active, running up to 11¾, a new top, on the recovery and a half point gain on the day.

Fluctuations in the mining group were small.

EXEMPT FROM CALIFORNIA PERSONAL PROPERTY TAXES
TRUSTEE—TITLE INSURANCE & TRUST COMPANY, LOS ANGELES

Summarizing a letter from Mr. S. P. Jones, Vice-President of the Company, the following substantial features should be noted in our recommendation of this issue:

1. Bonds constitute a closed first lien in trust deed form on all properties and equipment of the Company now owned or which may be hereafter acquired. These properties have been recently appraised by the American Appraisal Company at a total reproduction value (new) of $601,334.29 and at a sound depreciated value of $467,465.97—over 2¼ TIMES the amount of this issue.
2. The Company manufactures and distributes to the wholesale trade apple cider vinegar, a commodity used in practically every household throughout the country, and other apple products. Some of its customers have been served by the Company continuously for over twenty-five years.
3. The business of the Company was started by the Jones Brothers over twenty-five years ago. It has consistently grown under the same ownership and management to its present volume of over $500,000 annually.
4. The Company's plants are strategically located in Watsonville, Santa Rosa, Santa Clara and Redlands, California, and in Yakima, Washington, near the principal apple-growing sections of the Pacific Coast. Raw material is obtained for the most part through favorable contracts with the growers, canneries and dryers.
5. These bonds have been created and sold for the purpose of acquiring operating properties and to furnish additional working capital.
6. Net earnings of the consolidated companies for the five-year period ended December 31, 1922, averaged well over interest and sinking fund requirements on this issue. For the year 1922 net earnings applicable to interest charges were $89,919.14, nearly SIX TIMES maximum interest requirements for these bonds.
7. Under the terms of the trust indenture safeguards are provided covering operation, property maintenance, issuance, property releases, maintenance of quick assets and restrictions of dividends to fully protect bondholders.
8. A strong sinking fund is provided, the minimum provisions of which will retire the issue by maturity.
9. Bondholders' Policies of Title Insurance, issued by the Title Insurance and Trust Company, Los Angeles, California—Pacific Title Insurance Co., San Francisco, and Yakima Abstract & Title Company, Yakima, Washington, guarantee the validity of this lien in full amount of bonds outstanding.
10. All legalities incident to the issuance of these bonds have been approved by Messrs. Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher, Los Angeles.

Where Demand Exceeds Supply

According to statistics recently compiled, the consumption of staple cotton goods on the Pacific Coast exceeds 150,000,000 yards annually.

To supply this tremendous demand, the IMPERIAL COTTON MILLS COMPANY of Los Angeles manufactures denims, ducks, drills and other staple cloth from Imperial and Salt River Valley cotton. High transcontinental freight rates make possible the distribution of its products practically without competition in the Coast region, and the mill's entire output of about 11,400,000 yards annually is sold out far in advance.

To Be Sold for Taxes

You wouldn't want it said of your estate that it was "sold for taxes." Yet what provision have you made for the Federal Estate Tax?

The Federal Government taxes every estate of $50,000 and over, on the entire net amount. Before your legatees receive their distributive share, this tax must be paid in cash. After it is paid, what will be left?

Life insurance to the amount of $40,000 payable to individual beneficiaries, is exempt from the Federal Estate Tax. Why not then, pay this obligation with Insurance and leave your estate intact?

Our Legal Dept. will advise you in this matter without obligation. Telephone for an appointment.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Traders were unable to discover anything attractive in the stocks and bonds on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday, and dealings were slow and dragging as a result. The oils moved slightly, the mines were active at intervals, while the public utilities at times commanded something of an animated market.

Standard Oil of California sold at 51, and at a closing price of 50 3-4, was off ½ from the final quotation of the previous day. General Petroleum common declined 1-8 of a point to 31 1-8, and Union Oil Associates climbed 1-4 to a closing bid of 44 3-4.

Trading in the mining list was distributed among Oatman United at 6½ cents, Gold Dust at 30 and Simon Silver at 26 cents.

There was a demand for San Joaquin Light and Power prior preferred at around 93½, and Los Angeles Gas preferred was sold at 89½. Los Angeles Investment was quoted at 1.85.

DAILY TALK ON TRADE GIVEN

and are making few commitments over a long period.

Dealers in pianos and other musical instruments are doing a good business in Los Angeles, although it is quiet in most other sections. There are hints of advanced prices in the fall.

Drug sales are fair, with standard drugs in demand. Some lines have recently taken a drop, while others have increased. Prices are firm in nearly all lines.

Office supplies are selling in good volume with no slackening in equipment demand. As new office buildings are completed they are rapidly filled and many new enterprises are constantly being launched, which require outfitting. Stationery and typewriting supplies are active. There is an occasional price reduction for the purpose of stimulation, but for the most part prices are firm.

More plate glass is being distributed in the metropolitan district than in former years. In some instances deliveries are behind.

Electrical dealers and sign manufacturers are busy.

IN BANKRUPTCY COURT

In a creditor's petition filed yesterday in Federal court by Gabriel Chaix against the county, the court is asked to adjudge bankrupt the William B. He further declares that he is unable to get personal service on the corporation, as he can't find no officers. Federal Judge Trippet has ordered that the defendant appear in court July 23 and stand to the charge.

Other petitions in bankruptcy were as follows: Benjamin Bank, no attorney, liabilities, $5,000; assets, $50025; Mirabelle Kohen & Long Beach salesman, liabilities, $58,675; assets, none; Ethel M. Kohen of Long Beach, liabilities $58,675; assets, none.

I am an independent oil salesman.

I find the best for my followers,
That's my business,
To induce you to invest in oil,
I am a success because I do
Induce people to

INVEST IN OIL

I am paid a commission,
All companies pay commissions.
Many companies want my services.
It is my business to select the best.
If any company can show me
A BETTER MONEY-MAKING OPPORTUNITY for my people than the one I am now selling, I WANT IT.
I have been a driller, producer, operator, scout and field man.

I KNOW OIL PROPERTIES

When I was a kid an exceptionally good thing was called a
"HUMDINGER"

Well, I am now selling a
"HUMDINGER"

LET ME TELL YOU OF IT

IT'S IN SANTA FE.
IT JOINS THE BIG ONES.
IT'S "A STONE'S THROW" FROM THREE OF JULIAN'S WELLS.
IT'S NEAR ELLIOT'S 5000-BBL. WELL.
IT'S NEAR BOESKE'S 10,000-BBL. WELL.
IT'S NEAR RUSSEL'S 6000-BBL. WELL.
IT'S ON AN ELEVATION, indicating THE PEAK OF THE DOME, where

A MONSTER WELL IS EXPECTED

IT'S PRACTICALLY FINANCED
IT'S DOWN 2000 FEET
ITS CAPITALIZATION IS LOW
ITS ORGANIZERS DO NOT PARTICIPATE UNTIL UNITHOLDERS HAVE RECEIVED

100% IN CASH DIVIDENDS

The most important thing is THE MANAGEMENT IS RIGHT
If the management was not right I would not touch it.
I HAVE HAD MY EYE TEETH CUT.
I have learned that lo oil.
"WHEN THE RIGHTEOUS ARE IN AUTHORITY, THE PEOPLE REJOICE; BUT WHEN THE WICKED BEARETH RULE THE PEOPLE MOURN."

MINE IS A PECULIAR BUSINESS
HELPING YOU MAKE MONEY
THE MORE YOU PROFIT, THE MORE I MAKE

THE FIELD'S MOST WONDERFUL OPPORTUNITY.

METAL MARKETS

Daily Review

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CLEVELAND, July 10.—Daily Metal Trade today says: "Chicago steel mills are urging mills for quick deliveries since consumption is maintaining steadily; but new business appears slowly. Encouraging volume of new buying of pig iron appears at Buffalo where price is cut $1 a ton to $27 for foundry grades. Holiday shut-downs of Pittsburg and Youngstown sheet mills cut into output badly which tends to firm up market. Copper is stronger at New York at 14½ to 14¾ cents. Zinc is firmer at 6.65 cents but lead is lower at 5¾ cents, St. Louis. Tin is steady at 28¾ cents."

NAPA PYTHIAN IS MISSING

Local authorities have been asked to aid in the search for Charles A. Searcy of Napa, who disappeared from San Francisco on the 2nd inst. and has not been heard from since. Mr. Searcy, who is a Past Commander of the Knights of Pythias Lodge at Napa, was driving a Ford touring car with wire wheels, license number 391504, when he disappeared. He is 40 years of age, five feet four inches in height, has dark hair, gray eyes and moles on the side of his face. He was also wearing a large signet ring and a gold watch chain with Pythian emblem attached.

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

Deputy Sheriff Sweesy has been active in the Santa Fe Springs oil field investigating asserted workings of a band of radicals, who, it is said, have been attempting to forment a strike among the oil workers there. That this strike was to be followed by others in the big fields of Southern California is the statement of the informers.

According to the Sheriff's representative no arrests have been made and no evidence has been disclosed which points to contemplated destruction of property.

Continue Deep Drilling

Drilling has been resumed at the Standard Oil Company's deep test on the Brownrigg-Keller lease at Santa Fe Springs and the hole is now down 6335 feet, according to the drillers. This well has been drilling for several months in an effort to ascertain the formations at the greater depths and to discover, if possible, the mythical Alamitos sand which many geologists believe is to be found at great depths in the Santa Fe Springs field.

Brownrigg-Keller No. 1 drilled by the Standard Oil Company is producing about 1000 barrels of oil per day from the 4700-foot level where, it is stated, the same formation was encountered by the deep test well. The Brownrigg-Keller lease is located in the eastern portion of the field, not far distant from the Fullerton Oil Company's Gum Grove well which is undergoing a production test at this time.

Control Hanford Well

News that the second gas well of the Sagebrush Oil and Gas Company at Hanford is under control created much excitement yesterday in Kings county.

This company brought in a gas well two years ago, but it came in unexpectedly, blew out the casing and buried the machinery beneath mud and shale, churned with seething gas. The pressure of escaping gas in the first well was so strong that it blew mud and rock 200 feet into the air.

A second well has now been drilled not far from the first one and for several weeks the work of cementing and installing a set of controlling valves has been in progress. A telephone message received at Hanford yesterday announced the successful drilling through the concrete and the control of the gas. The new well is in Kings county, thirty-five miles southwest of Hanford and there is a probability that the cities of Kings and adjacent counties may now be supplied wtih natural gas from that section.

Expecting Lamb One

Preparations are being made at the E. A. Lamb lease, being drilled in the Santa Fe Springs field by the Mohawk Oil Company, to place Lamb No. 1 on production.

The well is down more than 4500 feet and is expected to flow within the next five days. The lease is located adjacent to the Parkford Santa Fe Springs No. 3 well which made 5500 barrels during the initial tests.

No. 2 well of the Lamb organization is reported to be drilling out the cement.

Two At Signal Hill

Two oil wells, the flow in each case estimated at 3200 barrels a day, have been plased on production at Signal Hill during the last twenty-four hours.

They are the Lekas No. 2 of the Henderson Petroleum Company, and the Coseboom No. 2 of the Shell Company.

The Lekas No. 2 is on Cherry avenue north of Burnett street, and oil was reached at a depth of 4566 feet. The other well, on the north slope of Signal Hill, was brought in at 5239 feet, with a gravity test of 25.2 degrees Baume.

New Elk Hills Well

The Union also contributed during the week to the excitement prevailing in the San Joaquin Valley oil fields because of extraordinary success attending operations in the Elk Hills territory, a dry range of hills which several years ago were almost as big a sensation in California oil circles as Santa Fe Springs and Long Beach are today.

Elk Hills No. 4, drilled on the Union's tract in Section 26-30-24, came in Saturday, flowing 1100 barrels of 24 gravity oil, from a depth of 3351 feet. On account of the success of the Union and other companies in this district a revival of activity is expected.

GUESSING OF SMALL IMPORT

Speculative Enterprises Are at Buyer's Risk

Analysis of Factors Involved Should Always be Made

Bubbling Decline Predictions Declared Hazardous

BY ARTHUR D. WALTON
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
Director, Bell Public Ledger.]

CHICAGO, July 10. — Current slump in stock market circles is striking evidence of the value of predictions and the folly of following a prophet. Guessing may have its place in speculative and investment enterprises, but on guess is as good as another. Guessing at other people's advantage or disadvantage seems to succeed, or fail, as far succeeded, according to the emotional attire in which the guess is paraded.

Whatever the stock market may be in fact, it is operated on the theory that some open method of determining the value of fixing a price for investment securities is necessary or desirable. For use as collateral for a bank loan the market price of the security is a fair and easy step. The market position of the security may be determined by its activity, which gives an indication of the regard in which it is held by the investing public. Its value the banker will determine for himself by considering its dividend payment, earning power, present and prospective, the plant and inventory, the balance sheet and the character of the management.

If things like these are considered and analyzed, and checked up by the banker who takes stock as collateral, should not the investor consider the same things? The investor is never far removed from the speculator, and in either country he may and does give just as much factor the banker usually ignores or belittles, that is, the trend of the market and the speculative possibilities of a particular stock as determined by the

DAILY MARKET LETTER OF THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 10.—Sales of fruits in the auction markets today included forty-five cars of California late Valencia oranges and five cars of lemons. The market was firm on Valencias, 176s and larger, and slightly easier on 200s and smaller. The selling schedule was as follows: On 100s, $2.60 to $5.75; 126s, $3.07 to $7.95; 150s, $3.51 to $7.05; 176s, $3.85 to $6.70; 200s, $3.95 to $5.40; 216s, $3.50 to $5.10; 252s, $3.25 to $6.00, and 288s, $3.00 to $6.00.

DRIED FRUITS

Advices received in Hudson street from up-State points reported that the New York State crop of evaporated apples would not exceed 60 per cent of normal. An advance of at least 1 cent a pound has been named on the varieties within the past few days, it is learned, and offerings are not being made freely.

California State dried apples are reported as being somewhat easier, in view of which it has been contended that New York State dried apples are now being quoted somewhat out of line.

Offerings of apricots through the California Prune and Apricot Association are finding a ready response from buyers, owing to the foresightedness of the growers' association in placing them on the market at a level which will insure a ready movement into consuming channels.

A fairly good business has been reported in progress in old-crop raisins, and the delay of the Canadian government in making an increase in the import duty on raisins from 2-3 cent a pound to 3 cents a pound is affording an opportunity for business.

CANNED GOODS

The apathetic condition in canned goods which had prevailed here for some weeks is gradually giving way to more seasonal activity, and the strength which had for some time been in evidence in tomatoes and peas is now being extended to pineapples, asparagus and various canned fruit products.

Pea packing in a number of sections in Wisconsin has already come to a close, it is reported, and it is clear that the No. 1 tins as well as No. 10 Alaskas are going to be difficult to obtain.

A marked scarcity is also going to be evident in No. 4 Alaska for early June peas, while strictly fancy quality was at a premium.

All kinds of canned fish seem to be in fair demand. The run of fish on the Pacific Coast appears to be good.

SUGAR MARKET

The overnight sale of some 17,000 bags of Cuban raw sugars to a New York refiner, Federal, at 55-32 cents cost and freight seemed to have lent a little more tone of confidence to conditions in the sugar market but an early break of some 6 to 14 points in the sugar futures market which later developed into a wide open break amounting to 25 to 38 points indicated that confidence was still lacking.

The break enabled operators to offer raw sugars down as low as 5 1-8 cents cost and freight again. In refined sugar there was a fresh general decline of 25 points establishing the new basis for refined at 8.75 cents. Some of the out of town refiners were still listing 9 cents but taking business in 100-pound bags at 8.75 cents.

COFFEE

Few changes of any consequence occurred in the coffee futures market, a steady undertone persisting here despite a generally weaker situation in Brazil where Rio term market was some 50 to 150 reis lower while the Santos market lost some 225 to 275 reis. So far as the immediate future is concerned the market is statistically firm, afloat coffees numbering but 111,800 bags, while the stocks here and afloat are but 627,544 bags as against 928,544 a year ago. The market was an empty featureless affair in the afternoon. Not over 1000 bags exchanged hands on the day and the list closed a good 5 points lower.

BUTTER, EGGS

The butter market shows increased firmness of fancy stock suitable for storage purposes and prices were easily advanced 1 to 2 cents.

Call sales 25 tube extras at 38 cents spot delivery.

Western eggs and northwestern brown eggs incline to firmness with prices easily sustained.

Pacific Coast whites are arriving freely, about 10,000 to 11,000 cases arriving, per steamer Nepenset. Some of the fancy coast whites sold at unusually good prices at the auction and from store.

Pacific Coast white extras 39¼ and 40 cents. White extra firsts 36¼ and 38½ cents. Firsts 35 and 37 cents.

TEA, RICE

The feature of the wholesale tea market is the increasing activity in low grade government standard congos teas in the primary market, the principal buying interest originating from London. There is a fair movement in fermented teas also with all grades of Indian and Java maintained.

Nothing is apparently interrupting the orderly course of trading in the rice market for the time being. Fancy is firm despite lack of heavy buying orders. Buying is mostly conservative in character as might be expected at this season of the year.

COPPER, ZINC

The copper market has hardened at 14¼ cents for electrolytic delivered over the next few months. London reported an advance in standard amounting to 5 shillings, spot closing at £65, 5s, and futures at £65, 17s, 6d, but electrolytic was unchanged at £72, 5s, for spot and £72, 15s, for futures.

A further advance in zinc put the St. Louis price to 6.10c a pound today and this advancing market is bringing out inquiry and some business. The threatened shortage, due to the mine shutdown, is the principal actuating factor.

In London spot advanced 5s to £25, 12s, 6d, and futures 2s, 6d to £29.

BOND MARKET

Trading in bonds was slow.

Easier call money was offset by the unexpected cut in Pennsylvania crude oil to the extent of 25 cents a barrel and by the decline in the steel corporation's unfilled tonnage report.

Liberties were slightly more active the second 4 1-4's vieing with the fourth 4 1-4's for leadership. Last prices were off 1-32 to up 1-16.

Foreign bonds were in better favor. Offerings of French municipals were scarcer today at prices advanced on an average of half a point with the French government issues off 1-4 to up 1-4. British 5 1-2's were up 1-3 to off 3-8 in active trading.

Rail bonds did better than industrials. Traction bonds were dull and little changed.

Sugar issues turned dull and a trifle easier on the decline in raw sugar prices followed by an easing in refined sugar.

Oil bonds held up very well in the face of the drop in Pennsylvania crude; public utilities were in fair call.

OIL, GASOLINE

Pennsylvania crude oil was cut again today by 25 cents a barrel and in the Bradford district is now quoted at $3 and outside of that district $2.75 a barrel. Somerset medium 15 cents to $1.50; Somerset 20 cents to $1.55 and Ragland 15 cents a barrel to 75 cents a barrel. This reduction is not expected to affect the gasoline market, inasmuch as most of the gasoline is refined from California crude, but it was materially weakening influence on the prices for lubricating oils.

plans of individuals or pools.

Such information is, however, difficult to get, and mostly of doubtful authenticity. "They are going to put it up" is common market patter, with "they" standing for gossip or a more vagary. The tipster, known in another realm as a tout, deals in such terms as are closely attuned to human greed and weakness.

NO RULES FOR BUYING

Nothing would be more foolish than a statement of rules for operating in the market. There are no rules. The only rule is "buy them low and sell them high." As high and low are relative terms, they mean nothing. If, however, a stock is low in the relation to dividend yield, and other factors that the banker considers, it may with safety be bought as an investment; that is, the market may be otherwise disregarded. Apparently the market gives no heed to such returns. R. illy it does. It often takes a long time before value asserts itself. Eventually many payers of regular dividends are taken "out of the market." They pass into the hands of investors and are not easy to obtain except in small lots.

The parlous state of the market at this time may be seen in the prices for shares paying the same dividend, and giving, therefore, much larger returns in one case than in the other. It is not merely whimsical or accidental. It is an expression of investment opinion that Anaconda should be worth $40 when the dividend is $3, and Kennecott $33 when paying the same dividend.

MYSTERY REQUIRED

Steel common shows strong resistance to a price below 90. It is probably the best known of stocks issued by the best known of corporations. The public is always well informed of the state of the Steel Corporation's business. Its balance sheet is published regularly. Its unfilled orders are a recognized barometer of business conditions. Its earnings are a matter of common knowledge. Prophets do not profit by soothsaying as to hte price of this stock. They need a subject that has a nimbus of mystery around it. They love generalizations.

A speaker at the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in Cleveland said there would be a decline in the cost of building. Certainly a reason for it was given, to-wit, that the demand for new buildings at the present cost level is about filled.

It is a hazardous prediction. The present cost level for building varies with conditions and localities. Labor is not sold at a uniform price, and the demand is unknown.

Investment returns will eventually influence the stock market and bring it to a condition of what passes in that field for stability. The hope of better returns will send prices there up when the hope becomes sufficiently general. But what will send the price of the components of a building down is a different question. Many things would have to happen before that prediction is realized.

Mrs. Hastings is Granted Decree From Organist

Under a charge of desertion, Mrs. Mabel Hastings, wife of Ray Hastings, organist for the Philharmonic Society and prominent Los Angeles musician, yesterday was granted a divorce by Judge Summerfield. The couple were married in 1913. It was testified that Hastings's income was $500, and he was ordered to support the one child of the marriage.

Mrs. Hastings testified that in February, 1922, her husband said he was tired of her and would not live with her longer.

Sometime ago Mrs. Hastings filed a first bill of complaint, asserting Hastings had taken Miss Virginia C. Cox to a theater. This was vigorously denied by Miss Cox and Hastings and the complaint was dismissed. Later, Mrs. Hastings filed a second bill charging desertion. The divorce was granted on this bill.

Buying Support Declines; Wheat Prices Break

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, July 10.—Cooler weather in the Northwest with less pessimistic crop reports from that section and less aggressive support brought about a break of 5@5¼ in wheat to a new low on the crop with the finish within a fraction of the bottom. Northwestern markets showed relatively more weakness than Chicago. Corn showed strength early but weakened later with wheat and closed ¼@1¼ lower while oats were off ¼ to 1¼ and rye 2 to 2¾.

Hedging sales from the Southwest were apparent in wheat at the start, and while northwestern buying offset the pressure for a while the early buyers later became sellers and found the market poorly supported. Under 1,015,000 for September stop loss orders were uncovered and some of the local traders who have been talking bullish late went out on their holdings.

New wheat is moving more freely in the Southwest and Kansas receipts indicated that the after-threshing run would get started next week. The four leading Southwest Interior markets had 324 cars making around 700 cars in two days. Export demand is slow despite a lowering of premiums at the Gulf. Chicago received its first car of new wheat of the season. It came from Grand Pass, Ill., graded No. 1 hard and sold at 2½c over July. Last year the first arrival June 30.

Both July and September corn acted tight early, but after shorts had covered the market became easily influenced and it took but little pressure to carry prices off. There were further complaints of it being too dry in parts of Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska but the trade paid little attention to anything except the break in corn after values started downward. Cash corn gained fractionally on the July with August sold at 78¼@78⅝, or about 4¼ to 4¾ under the July. A little corn was booked for 5-day shipment from the country. Receipts 67 cars.

September and December oats at the low point were within a fraction of the inside figure of the season. The undertone was heavy in sympathy with corn. Cooler weather will be beneficial for the late grain which was said to be suffering in parts of Iowa. Receipts 36 cars.

Speculative interest in rye was lightest; market declined largely in sympathy with wheat. There was some exchanging of futures for cash grain by houses with seaboard connections but no export sales were claimed. The two northwestern markets reported 25 cars.

FINANCIAL CONDITIONS REVIEWED

Stock Market Following Its Normal Course; Trade Cycles Compared

Moody's Weekly Review of Financial Conditions in its current issue says in part:

"Public opinion places faith in stock quotations, and confidence has been disturbed by the break. The stock market, however, is merely following its normal habit of going down after a long period of profit taking at high levels by wealthy investors. Bear movements have always followed distributing markets in due course; and this market in almost every detail has been exceptionally true to precedent for more than two years.

"Even the sudden reversals of opinion on the part of vendors of stock market advice are but repetitions of the past. Owing to the unpopularity of bearish advice, it takes courage to advise selling around the top; and there will always be those who will place their stakes upon the popularity of bullish advice and trust to apologies when the market breaks. Tips and tipsters, however, have almost no influence upon the course of the market, since the latter responds to the public buying and selling.

"Some of the causes of this bear movement are the rise of operating costs, the cutting of the supply of investment funds, the spread of labor troubles, and the prospect of dangerous railroad, bonus and banking legislation. Until these evils have spent their force, one should remain conservative.

"Trade cycles at present are like those following the Civil War and quite unlike those of the past thirty years, owing of course to the long and trying process of eliminating war inflation. In the normal cycle trade is either depressed or declining only about one-fourth of the time; but in the present and post-war cycles it is depressed or declining about one-half of the time."

WINS DAMAGE SUIT

Victim Was Beaten Up by Street Car Employee

R. O. Meeks, who brought suit against the Los Angeles Railway Company for damages, was awarded $16 and costs by the jury in Judge Hardy's court yesterday. In his testimony on the witness stand Meeks declared that he was on an Eagle Rock car, which failed to stop when he pressed the button. He then pulled the bell rope when he asserted the conductor attacked him and beat him so badly that he was confined to his bed for several days.

LOCAL DRUGGIST JAILED

Irving Moffat, proprietor of a drug store at 355 North Main street was arrested yesterday by prohibition agents under H. H. Dolley and confined in the County Jail, where his bond was placed at $1000. He was accused of having in his possession a quantity of moonshine whisky. W. B. Morgan, Moffat's partner, was notified to furnish bond in the sum of $1000. According to the agents, the drug store has been the scene of illegal transactions in liquor.

PROMOTION PREDICTED FOR DOLLEY

Local Prohibition Agent Considered Eligible for San Francisco Post

The possibility that Harold H. Dolley, local prohibition agent-in-charge, may be ordered to San Francisco to succeed Harry Wheeler as chief field agent under Director Rutter loomed yesterday, when it became known that Wheeler has been relieved from duty at his own request.

For several months it has been rumored that Dolley would go to San Francisco in a higher executive capacity under the director. On each occasion the rumors have been denied by Mr. Rutter and Mr. Dolley after the lapse of a few days.

Wheeler, with Agent Shurtleff, quit the service, it is reported, after an investigation of the mysterious disappearance of 600 cases of whisky from the government warehouse.

Dolley has received much commendation for the work he has done in this district, both from his immediate chief, the director, and from Washington officials. During his term of service he has succeeded in breaking up several large rings of smugglers, bootleggers and fixers and has been successful in co-ordinating the enforcement work between the Federal agents and the police and county officers.

"Sweet Music"

"Number One and Number Four" will pay dividends of $124,127.32 for last month's oil run, and this with the production cut nearly 50% of what they would actually do, could I open them up.

I will bring in Number Two three or four days from now. "Just closed a contract with the Pan-American to take her oil."

With Number One, Two, Three and Four all on production I should pay "better than a quarter of a million dollars in dividends next month."

And thirty days later, with Five, Six, Seven and Eight added to my list of producers, my monthly dividends should at least reach the half million mark, but I'm not going to be satisfied with that, for I have promised myself that "within twelve months from today I will be paying one million dollars a month" or twelve million dollars a year, to the people who believe me when I tell them I know my stuff, and am riding through to the end of the line regardless of any and all conditions.

"I'm going over the top with colors flying" and if you stop to read "my insignia," you'll find it the same "slogan" used by our "Allied Commander," "General Foch," at Amiens,

BANKS SEE CHANCE FOR DRUGGISTS

Scholtz-Mutual Company Said to be Solvent and Will Soon Reopen

Early adjustment of the financial difficulties of the Scholtz-Mutual Drug Company, whose stores here, in San Francisco and in Denver, were closed Friday through a court attachment obtained by creditors, and reopening of the stores within a short time was predicted by bank officials here yesterday. Conferences are being held between representatives of the creditors, G. G. Gregory of Denver, president of the drug company, and others in an effort to work out a plan whereby the stores will be able to continue.

Bank officials state it is their opinion the drug company is solvent and that a plan for appointment of a trustee for the creditors will be decided on, following which the stores will reopen. Definite action in this regard is expected to be determined upon in the next few days, it was stated.

The drug company operates a store in Los Angeles at 742 South Broadway, one in San Francisco and eleven in Denver. It was stated by bank officials that the company issued preferred stock totaling $1,300,000 with the common stock at a nominal figure. The liabilities are said to aggregate approximately $550,000, of which the Bank of Italy holds $53,000, it was stated.

The assets of the company are listed as follows: Furniture, $500,000; stock in the Ko-Fan Company which is in escrow and has not been released by the State Corporation Commission, $600,000, and stock in the drug stores on hand as of June 25, last, $510,000.

Police Sergeant Testifies for Veronica

Philadelphia, Pa.—Police Sergeant Alfred Millington says for the benefit of humanity, he feels it his duty to set his case before you with the hope that if you are troubled as he was you will give Veronica a fair trial.

"I was suffering from a kidney trouble that had laid me up for six months at a time and I would swell considerably. I began the use of Veronica and found this swelling began to reduce rapidly, which somewhat alarmed me, and I sought the advice of my physician, and when I told him what I was taking, he said, continue with the water. This I did, and today am a well man, have no trouble of any kind. I give Veronica Water the entire credit of my cure, as I took no other medicine from the time I commenced its use. I have recommended it to a number of the men in our station house who have been equally benefited by its use."—Alfred Millington, Sergeant, 4th District Police, Philadelphia, Pa.

Veronica Water is bottled exactly as it comes from the Springs, and it has been impossible for chemical experts to reproduce artifically this marvelous water, provided by nature.

Thousands of users of Veronica have found relief from chronic constipation, indigestion, rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles and other stomach disorders. You, too, may find that Veronica is "The Water Way to Health." A big, generous 1¼ quart bottle at your druggist's, only sixty-five cents.

Kills Catarrh Germs In Three Minutes

Wonderful French Discovery Succeeds After Everything Else Has Failed.

Thousands who have suffered from catarrh, head noises, difficult breathing, hawking, etc., and who have tried everything without success, say that the famous new scientific discovery Lavex rid them of their troubles in a few days. Many say they had no further trouble after the first three minutes of treatment.

Lavex is a French discovery, easily used by simply inhaling a pleasant, harmless powder, which tends to kill the catarrh germs almost instantly. The results are astonishing in their rapidity. For instance Rev. J. F. Stephens, a widely known preacher, says, "I had suffered from catarrh for years and my doctor said there was no cure. Had to quit preaching as a Methodist Minister. After using Lavex I can sleep and eat well, voice is clear, can walk or run or work as well as I could twenty years ago and I am now sixty-nine."

So confident is W. R. Smith, 732 Lavex Bldg., Kansas City, Mo., American distributor of Lavex, that it will rid you of all your catarrh troubles, in no time at all, that he generously offers to send a ten-day treatment on free trial. It obligates you in no way and comes to you in plain wrapper, postpaid; therefore, you should accept this introductory offer today by simply sending your name and address to Mr. Smith.—[Advertisement.

AGUIRRE TO BE DEPUTY TO TRAEGER

Picturesque Figure Will be Attached to Office He Formerly Headed

Martin Aguirre.

Martin Aguirre, former Sheriff, former warden of San Quentin prison and veteran of the Sheriff's office, has been designated by Sheriff Traeger as a senior criminal deputy, his duties to begin on Monday. Mr. Aguirre is now bailiff in Judge Shenk's court, where he has been a number of years. Because of his exceptional service to the county as an officer, Mr. Aguirre was named a senior deputy, which includes an increase in salary.

Deputy Aguirre is one of the most picturesque figures in the Sheriff's office. He has been in public life since 1885. While he was jailer the present Sheriff, William I. Traeger, was bookkeeper in the jail. Two former Sheriffs, W. A. Hammel and John C. Cline, got their first training under Deputy Aguirre, who was then Sheriff.

First entering the Sheriff's office in 1885 as a deputy, Aguirre was elected constable in 1887. After being elected Sheriff in 1888 and before taking office, he prevented a jail delivery in which fourteen men tried to fight their way out. At the time Mr. Aguirre was injured and had to lie flat on the ground and cover the fourteen with his revolver. In 1886 he received a medal from the citizens of the county for bravery during a flood.

Being appointed warden of San Quentin in 1899, Deputy Aguirre served until 1903 in that capacity. He then went to San Salvador to open a new prison there. Later the government sent him to Cuba to inspect several jails there, but he was prevented from doing so by an epidemic of yellow fever. The same year he again became a deputy Sheriff and during the administration of ex-Sheriff Hammel was County Jailer.

Former Husband Begins Fight on Ex-Wife's Will

Asking that the will of his wife, which left him nothing, be declared invalid, P. J. O'Connor filed a contest yesterday in the probate court.

Shortly before her death last December, Mrs. Esther O'Connor obtained a divorce from her husband and in her will called attention to this fact as a reason for not leaving him any of her valuable oil and ranch property near Whittier, valued at $50,000.

In his contest O'Connor stated that he believed that his wife was unbalanced mentally when she made her will and cited actions which he declared proved his contentions. He asserted that she was obsessed with the idea that he plotted injury to her and always nailed down the window of her bedroom and kept a dog for protection.

By the terms of the will the bulk of the property was left to a sister, Lucy J. Hartman in Ohio, with special bequests to Charles F. Bailey, Sadie J. Burkett, Mae E. Walker and Mary E. Takles.

TRAFFIC RELIEF PLAN ADVANCED

Development Body Proposes Work on Thoroughfares

Thirty-five Projects Noted in Plea for Estimates

Assessment and Bond Issues Suggested to Council

A comprehensive plan for relief of traffic difficulties by widening, straightening or opening streets in all parts of the city was laid before the City Council yesterday by the Community Development Association. The Council was asked to appropriate funds and cause a survey to be made to determine the approximate cost of each project so that improvement associations can be organized and aided in carrying out the improvements and bond issues where assessment districts are not practicable.

The plan is notable, in that it is a compilation of various projects, numbering thirty-five, which have been surveyed by the City Planning Commission, the Traffic Commission and the Automobile Club.

PLAN IN COMMITTEE

This epitome of street planning needs is now laid before the Council so that it may be realized and the city proceed in an orderly fashion in the task of adjusting the city's pressing traffic requirements. The Council referred the matter to its Public Works Committee.

The Community Development Association six months ago appointed G. G. Young, Edward A. Dickson, Dr. Frank F. Barham, Le Roy Sanders, Harry Chandler, William May Garland, E. D. Lyman and Frank P. Flint on a traffic committee to make a careful study of the city's needs. The plan submitted to the Council is this committee's recommendations, and since it embodies the recommendations of the several other bodies dealing with traffic questions, it carries unusual authority and weight.

TWO PROGRAMS

The plan is divided into two sections — primary and secondary street programs. In some instances the projects in the report already hve received preliminary surveys or the work has been begun.

The primary program is as follows:

Figueroa street—Open and widen from Pico street northerly to its connection with Dayton-avenue bridge and Riverside Drive, paralleling Broadway around Elysian Park, but not adjoining it, subways and viaducts to be installed. We further recommend the opening and improvement of Figueroa street from Manchester avenue to the harbor district, to make a wide, continuous street from the ocean to Pasadena.

Anderson street—Open, widen to 100 feet and improve from Aliso to First street, with overhead crossing at Aliso street, to connect Mission Road with First street.

Santee street—We recommend that South Park avenue be extended from Jefferson street to Los Angeles street, intersecting Santee street; that Santee street be opened, widened and extended from Adams street to San Pedro street, thence along San Pedro street extension northerly, by way of a subway and viaduct, to connect with the extension of San Fernando Road in the vicinity of Avenue 20 and Mosart street.

East Ninth and West Tenth streets—Open and widen on East Ninth street from Telegraph Road to San Pedro street, thence along

THREE HURT IN TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

Crash With Truck Sends Two Youths to Hospital; Motorist Hits Man

Three men were seriously injured in two traffic accidents in different sections of the city at noon yesterday.

Edward Paris, 19 years of age, of 939 South St. Andrews Place, a salesman for the Standard Oil Company, and Dwight Moore, 19, a student at the University of Southern California, are both suffering from basal skull fractures as a result of an automobile collision at the intersection of Eighth and Catalina streets.

The car driven by Paris and in which Moore was riding crashed into a truck driven by Roy Anderson of 119 North Savannah street. The two youths were taken to the Receiving Hospital where they were attended by Police Surgeon Dunsmore. Later Moore was removed to his home in South Pasadena and Paris taken to the French Hospital. Detective Lieutenant White is investigating the accident.

At about the same time another accident was reported to police from Vernon avenue and Main street. Vernon Dicicco, 43 years of age, of 840 Baker street, Bell station, had been struck by an automobile driven by O. C. Patterson of 511 Barnett street, Long Beach, and sustained a fractured skull. He also was removed to the Receiving Hospital, where his condition was reported as serious.

BOWL CONCERTS AGAIN ENTHRALL MULTITUDE

Second Season of Harmony Opens in Outdoor Amphitheater at Hollywood

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Under the canopy of the stars, with an atmospheric spell of summer made perfect for the occasion, the popular thrill of music in the out-of-doors was last night renewed at the Hollywood Bowl. The strains of mellowed orchestral tone, ravishing the silence of the evening air, filled the darkened canyons and echoed against the walls of the hills, while throngs upon throngs of listeners heard with bated breath and revived once again their delight and enthusiasm in this sovereign entertainment which embodies so much of inspirational harmony.

This is the second year of the Hollywood Bowl concerts. They have come to remain, for their spirit is unchanged. Their appeal may be to a wider public than last year; certain slight improvements may be to a different public than last year or the same; certain slight improvements may have been made in the physical aspect of the open-air amphitheater, but the beauty of the California nights, the charm and mystery of the setting of Nature are as they were yesterday.

AWAKENS REMINISCENCES

The talk of Mrs. J. J. Carter during the intermission, filled with exuberancy through the significantly large attendance, reawakened reminiscences.

Her well-known "Now I want you all to tell all your friends about this lovely bowl, and these lovely concerts" was greeted with smiles of recollection.

Again was there the same laughing applause at her references to how F. W. Blanchard had planted shrubbery around the edge of the new concrete stage, how H. Ellis Reed had gotten down on the ground and set out a semicircular row of plants in front of the first row of benches, and how she herself had put out one tree as indicative of the promise for the future. The intimacy of her talk no doubt told as it has on many previous occasions.

NOTE OF FRIENDLINESS

All these things are what gave to the occasion a note of familiarity and friendliness which is after all the supreme resource of the concerts as an institution, and which combined with the freedom from constraint; the big surge of community feeling that has made them possible, brings the heart and mind into the mood for the greatness of that music which Emil Oberhoffer, man and artist, the conductor of the Bowl programs brings to his hearers with a full-fledged sympathy for the undertaking, and perhaps inestimable and deep understanding of his public.

MAESTRO'S INFLUENCE

It is difficult to estimate the sway which Mr. Oberhoffer will exert before the season is over. Popularity at concerts such as these is not to be built up in a moment or an hour. I know only this, and that is among the beautiful experiences that I have enjoyed during my association with things musical I have seldom felt any more keenly entrancing than the Andante Cantabile of Tschaikowsky's E Minor Symphony as Mr. Oberhoffer played it under the stars.

The man and the artist are distantly removed, of course, from Alfred Hertz who led the concerts last season. Mr. Hertz has something of the giant crudity, the bigness about him which causes him to fill the big open spaces with his presence and his unescapable humanness.

ARTISTRY IN DIRECTION

In Oberhoffer's direction there is a background of this same humanness, and a foreground of the fine broad artistry. The isolated false notes of which there are always bound to be many at concerts such as these, are nothing in his scheme of thought. He sees only the finer essence of the composition that he is interpreting.

Sometimes as I listened to his interpretation of the Tschaikowsky symphony last night I was not conscious so much of the music itself, as what seemed to lie behind the music, and that seemed to come through the music. In the Andante Cantabile it was more than the patent emotionalism that we associate with Tschiakowsky. It

PARK FIRE ENDANGERS HUGE AREA

Two City Companies Have Hard Fight With Blaze in Griffith Park

Putting up a vigorous fight for the greater part of the day yesterday, two city fire companies and 200 volunteer fire-fighters extinguished a brisk brush fire which burned over an area of about 1000 acres and for a time threatened all of Griffith Park.

The fire started from a spark thrown out by a traction engine climbing Los Feliz hill, near the Riverside Drive entrance to the park. Fanned by a lively breeze, the blaze soon got beyond control and spread over a large area in the park. When Battalion Chief George Walker of the city fire department arrived on the scene at noon, he sent a hurry call for additional equipment and men to fight the blaze. An emergency crew of firemen and 200 city employees in the labor department were rushed to the aid of the two fire companies on the ground.

Fast work on the part of the firefighters headed the fire off from the park zoo. Some of the picnic ground was reported burned over. Of the 1000 acres covered by the fire, about half lay within the park confines.

ANNEXATION IS LOST AT VENICE

Final Returns Show Defeat by 346 Votes

Antis Celebrate Victory With Parade

Opponents Not to Contest, but Will Try Again

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, July 10.—By a vote of 1849 to 1503, voters of Venice today defeated the proposition providing for annexation to Los Angeles.

When the announcement was made following the final count late tonight that annexation was defeated by 346 votes, the anti-annexationists celebrated their hard-won victory with a street parade, blowing of whistles and automobile horns. The streets and beach front were lined with cars filled with joyful persons who had worked to defeat the proposition. The minority of the voters, whose pet idea had been trampled in the dust, were on hand for the celebration, but were extremely quiet. Only a few random cries "We are not downhearted" and "We'll try it again," contrasted with the celebration of the victors.

RECORD VOTE CAST

The total vote cast, subtracting twelve ballots that were thrown out by the judges, was 3364, the largest by several hundred of any vote in a municipal election.

Post-election statements by campaign managers for both sides follow:

J. O. Stevenson, anti-annexationists: "I am glad the people as a community, voted to allow Venice to continue its growth as the principal amusement center of the beaches. Efforts will be started at once to bring together the persons who favored annexation because of the mistaken idea that they would secure municipal improvements and the other citizens and all enlisted to work for needed improvements for Venice."

Thomas Aisbitt, annexationists: "Although we have positive evidence of a number of illegal votes cast we do not intend to contest the election. It would take too long to obtain results from procedure of that character. Those in favor of annexation will organize and prepare to submit the question again as soon as permissible under the law."

SOME PRECINCTS FOR IT

Annexationists carried three out of seven voting precincts. Districts 4 and 7 with one voting precinct on Rose avenue gave a majority of 71 in favor of joining Los Angeles. The South Beach section, including Districts 11 and 13, favored annexation by a majority of 22 votes, while the Brooks avenue precinct, Districts 8 and 9, went for annexation by a majority of one vote.

The largest majority in any one voting precinct was received by the anti-annexationists in Districts 2 and 3, with 166 votes more than the other side.

During the hotly contested election, from the opening of the polls until the close at night, those for and against annexation demonstrated their feelings in vigorous manner. The anti-annexationists used a visible means of stressing their beliefs, painting sidewalks in the city with six-feet letters "No." Those favoring annexation were on hand early and late in their automobiles, offering to drive voters to the polls.

No disorders of a violent sort featured the election, nor the announcement of the result late tonight. The crowd was noisy and peaceful or quiet and peaceful, depending, it is believed, on how they voted.

Stanley Mason, who was arrested last night at Neptune Pier for creating a disturbance during the meeting, is still held at the City Jail under $500 bail. It is understood that a complaint charging possession of concealed weapons will be lodged against him. Mason is said to have threatened the speaker at the meeting with a revolver, but was overpowered and later arrested.

URGE BOULEVARD STOP PLAN

Public Safety Approval Sends Program to Halt Autos on Arterial Highways to City Council

The proposal to establish the boulevard-stop system in Los Angeles will come before the City Council today, having met with approval yesterday by the Council's Public Safety Committee upon recommendation of the City Planning Commission.

The boulevard-stop system requires automobiles entering the thoroughfares designated as boulevards to come to a full stop at the intersection just as street cars come to full stops before passing fire houses. This system is in vogue in several eastern cities. It is designed to prevent collisions between automobiles and to increase the mobility of the traffic on the boulevards.

WILSHIRE ADDED

The Public Safety Committee of the Council yesterday recommended that the City Attorney be instructed to prepare an ordinance designating twelve arterial highways as "boulevards" under the meaning of the system. The plan for local application was recommended by Assistant City Attorney Whitehead and Assistant Engineer Prince after a survey of its operation in eastern cities.

To the list of "boulevards" published a few days ago, Wilshire Boulevard has been added, making twelve. Should the City Council approve of the plan as formulated, there should be slight delay in putting it into effect.

The twelve highways designated are as follows:

Wilshire Boulevard from Westlake Park to the west city limits.

Sunset Boulevard from North Broadway to the west city limits.

Glendale Boulevard from First street to the north city limits.

San Fernando Boulevard from Pasadena avenue to the north city limits.

Pasadena avenue from the North Broadway bridge to Avenue 65.

Huntington Drive, north to the east city limits.

Seventh street-Boyle avenue-Whittier Boulevard from San Pedro street to the east city limits.

San Pedro street and South Park avenue from Ninth street to the south city limits.

Figueroa street from Pico street to the south city limits.

Western avenue and Los Feliz

MUSIC LOVERS FILL BOWL

Fully 13,000 Persons Gather in Hollywood for First of Concerts Directed by Oberhoffer

Fully 13,000 music lovers made their pilgrimage to the Hollywood haunts of Pan at the first of a series of the 1923 summer concerts at the Hollywood Bowl last night. It was one of the most successful presentations of a remarkable musical program in Nature's own concert hall.

In the language of the motion-picture producers, it was a personal appearance of Pan under the direction of Emil Oberhoffer, conductor. Mr. Oberhoffer's entree before his wonderful orchestra was the occasion of an unusual outburst of applause on the part of the great assemblage, spread out, tier upon tier, up the sides of the canyon which forms the bowl.

The opening concert was more than a great gathering of music lovers to hear an orchestra of artists. It was in the nature of a gathering of the musical clan from miles around Los Angeles. The innumerable meetings of friends which occurred as the great throng trooped up the gentle incline leading into the bowl, attested the occasion as an out-and-out homecoming of lovers of good music.

EVERYBODY THERE

To one who stood at the portal to the bowl the frequent exchange of greetings gave the affair a personal touch that was nothing sort of remarkable. Everybody and his friend was there, it seemed.

Here was F. W. Blanchard, chairman of the advisory board, shaking hands and greeting people who appeared to know him by his first, middle and last name, until it seemed that everybody was there at the personal invitation of the genial chairman. The same was true of Mrs. J. J. Carter, secretary of the organization.

The crowd was unusual for its cosmopolitan aspect. Rich man, poor man, beggarman was there. The rich man may have occupied his box and the poor man his seat, but they were both there to hear the music. And it was the kind that was easy to listen to. When Maestro Oberhoffer's baton tamed the wild music down to barely a tremor of the strings, despite the fact that 13,000 people were seated out there under the stars you could hear the crickets and the night insects singing their own obbligato.

The audience that was so noisy you could hear the proverbial pin drop was a boiler factory compared to this crowd. That's the way the music hit them and carried them away.

APPROVE ARRANGEMENTS

Did they like the way they've fixed up the bowl this year? Stand for a moment or two at the entrance and listen to the exclamations of approval and the "cracks" made spontaneously by the people as they reach the top of the dirt path and stand on the threshold of the bowl. To the right is the beautiful stage, beautifully lit, flanked by rows of great pillars abruptly cut off and giving the effect of supporting the starry roof overhead.

Great urns at each side of the

PICTURES OLD NORSE SAGAS

Scandinavian Dancer Portrays Myths of Her Country in Her Act at Exposition

The outstanding feature of yesterday's program at the Motion Picture Exposition and Monroe Centennial was the appearance of the well-known Danish dancer, Eileen Glane, in a group of dances picturing the ancient Norse Sagas, given at the Little Community Theater. Miss Glane, owing to her Scandinavian ancestry, stands alone in her interpretation of the mood of the ancient Vikings.

The dances included the "Nymph Dancing of Pan," "The Cavewoman," and "Bacchante at the Last Feast of Pompeii." "The Cavewoman" was particularly well received, bringing out vividly pictures from the days when mankind lived in caves and the woman was the slave of the household. The costuming in this production was especially effective.

The crowds yesterday as on preceding days, devoted themselves with special interest to the work of the motion picture producers. The largest groups were congregated about the buildings where these demonstrations were taking place.

PAINTINGS POPULAR

Among the exhibits at the Exposition which are attracting an increasing number of sightseers daily are those of the art department. The marvelous paintings of western scenes by Russell constantly form the center of interested groups, in animated discussion regarding the pictured scenes.

Among the noteworthy exhibits of sculpture in this department are the "Sun Dial" by Frank Wamsley, "Soul of a Dancer" by Harry Winnebrenner and "Desert Indian Boy" by Gruenfeld. "The Sphinx," a typical Egyptian head in black marble, by David Edstrom, gives one all the impression of mystery conveyed by the figure's age-old prototype on the banks of the Nile.

WOOD CARVINGS

Among the objects of art of unusual merit in the Exposition collection are a number of wood carvings by Andrew Bjurman. One of these, a statuette in oak, representing a soldier going over the top, is particularly striking.

One of the popular features of the Exposition, at least so far as the mothers are concerned, is the baby-checking stand. It is under the direction of Mrs. Ellen Hammersley, who receives the infants from their mothers, giving in return a check which redeems the child when the mother has seen the show. The place is fitted out with cribs, toys, sandpiles and other objects to gladden the heart of childhood.

The installation of a number of carnival features yesterday added to the festive appearance of the grounds. These include a number of popular devices of the kind usually found at fairs calculated to induce those who attend to forget their every-day worries and make a holiday of it. The most conspicuous of the lot is a Ferris wheel, which seemed to be doing a rushing business yesterday.

This meant that 2,000,000 gallons of liquid refreshment were consumed during the month of May, not counting moonshine.

The tax on admissions and dues was $268,206.50, an increase of 27 per cent over the same month last year, when the collections were $211,022.96. This means that during May more than $2,690,000 was paid in for admissions to theaters and for club dues.

But the jewelry tax produced the largest rate of increase. The Collector's report indicates that Southern California jewelers boosted their business approximately 42 per cent in May and took in more than $1,250,000. The tax on insurance policies brought $5141.19 into the treasury in June, last, while telephone and telegraph messages produced $12,... $75.39 in taxes during the month.

COURT TAKES JULIAN CASE

Prosecution and Defense to Submit Briefs

Extended Argument is Made Before Justice

Thirty Days Will Elapse Before Decision

The case of C. C. Julian, prominent oil promoter, who is charged with violation of the Corporate Securities Act, was taken under advisement yesterday by Justice Scott for a period of thirty days during which time both the prosecution and the defense are to file briefs covering the case.

Justice Scott took the case after extended argument by opposing counsel on legal points involved. It was agreed by both the State and the defense that initial briefs on the case should be submitted within ten days.

MORE BRIEFS PROPOSED

This is to be followed within another ten days by other briefs wherein the attorneys will answer the arguments incorporated in the first briefs. The final arguments will be submitted in the last briefs, which are to be in the hands of the court ten days after the second briefs are in.

The sale of portions of the stock in the Julian Petroleum Company of Delaware before permission for such sale was granted by the Corporation Commissioner will not be one of the points argued in the case it was agreed by the opposing attorneys yesterday.

NEVADA DEAD ADMITTED

This agreement was made after the prosecution had stipulated that it would not question the fact that Julian had subscribed to 100,000 shares of the preferred stock and 50,000 shares of common stock of the new company at a meeting of its directors at Los Vegas. Portions of the stock which Julian purchased were later sold by him to investors and the prosecution charges that this was an evasion of the law, although the right of a stockholder to sell his holdings is not questioned.

The case is being prosecuted by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Jordan and Attorneys H. L. Geisler and Clair Woolwine are acting for the defense.

Wife of St. John, Film Comedian, Seeking Divorce

Declaring her husband had developed a habit of staying away from home all night and returning intoxicated, Mrs. Mary Lillian St. John filed suit yesterday for divorce against Al St. John.

At the home of the famous Fox comedian, whose trick bicycle riding has amused thousands of motion-picture fans, it was declared that St. John and his wife had been separated for several weeks.

It is charged in the complaint that St. John's love grew cold, starting in 1914 during the honeymoon trip. The pair have one child, Mary June, 5 years of age.

FUGITIVE IS NABBED

Roy M. Bailey, declared by his captors to be wanted in Seattle for forgery and in the East on suspicion of murder, was arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriffs Bell and Comly and Inspector Peoples of the State Board of Pharmacy. The officers, who were looking for dope peddlers, say they found Bailey accidentally, in the 2100 block on West Eighth street, and will hold him for the Seattle authorities.

BOWL CONCERTS AGAIN ENTHRALL

had something of the religious fervor of a prayer.

It was for Alfred Hertz, perhaps, to start this great community movement of music in the Hollywood Bowl, but I believe it is for Oberhoffer to carry on.

TRIUMPH PREDICTED

Critical reserve dictates suspended judgment, of course, in such large undertakings, but I am inclined to throw critical reserve aside and say that this summer's music project with Mr. Oberhoffer as its leader will promise a thrill and a triumph that will carry our open-air artistic endeavors on and on, to ever greater accomplishment.

The orchestra which Mr. Oberhoffer has assembled plays with a singular unity. It is a delight to see how they respond to his beat, to the ever-meaningful motion, in fact, of his baton, or of that sweeping wide open hand of his, or that dramatic downward movement of his flexed arm. These things are all worth watching when he is leading because they lend so much of clarity to the themes and the motivation of the work which he is interpreting.

INSTINCTIVE LEADER

More than that he gives himself wholeheartedly to that interpretation. There was no music on his desk for the Tschaikowsky symphony, nor as a matter of fact for the other compositions. He directed from memory, and with a precision and surety that left no doubt as to the melodic inflexion, other than that which might at times be attributed to the effect on the pitch of the night air. This was hardly noticeable except toward the close of the symphonic work.

In addition to the Tschaikowsky composition with its magnificent climaxes, its ever free and individual rhythmic shadings, the orchestra played the March from "Tannhauser," as an opening number; Bach's Air for G String; Wolf-Ferrari's intermezzo from "The Jewels of the Madonna," and Wagner's overture to "Tannhauser." The Wagner works were dramatically and vividly played, and the Air for G String and Wolf-Ferrari intermezzo evidenced exquisite taste.

MUSIC CARRIES BETTER

If anything, the music seems to carry better this year because of the soldier sounding-board, which has been installed. The tones seemed to come forth vibrantly in the climaxes, yet with a serene velvety quality that cannot perhaps be duplicated except under the open-air circumstances, particularly found in the Bowl.

The audience throughout seemed caught by the magic appeal of the concert. The applause indicated the warm response, and there were cheers and bravos at the close of the symphony.

The crowd was so tremendous that difficulty was had in getting the people seated, and the necessity for more ushers was somewhat obvious.

Seldom though has a night seemingly been made more perfect for an occasion, in temperature and atmosphere, than that which marked the opening of the Hollywood Bowl concerts.

GOETHALS TO SPEAK

Problems of Harbor Will be Dwelt Upon

Two men who have had to do in the past with the development of Los Angeles Harbor and who are expected to touch on its problems in their speeches will be guests today of the Chamber of Commerce at its luncheon in the Alexandria. They are Gen. Goethals, builder of the Panama Canal, and Gen. Amos A. Fries, present chief of the department of chemical warfare, and government engineer at the harbor here from 1906 to 1909. Gen. Goethals is just returning from an inspection trip of the Colorado River projects.

stage, and a hedge of feathery bushes were lit up by footlights. On each side a miniature statue, perhaps of Pan, added to the decorations. Out in front the great natural amphitheater is lined with thousands upon thousands of persons ranged row on row.

Well, here come the people up the incline.

"Oh! Isn't it it wonderful! Remarkable! Say, look, Beatrice, how much prettier they have fixed it up since last year. Yes, isn't it beautiful! Gee, oh, Gee! (This from a young woman who clutched at her escort's arm in a manner that told you immediately he was not her hubsand) isn't it just perfectly entrancing, Wilbur?" And Wilbur just stood and gaped in open-mouthed admiration.

"Gosh!" exclaimed one elderly man with a cap and a cane, as he stood for a moment and looked. He bent a bewildered eye at the thousands who were already seated up the hillsides, and moved in.

WILDLY ENTHUSIASTIC

Here comes a very pretty young woman dressed in a snowy, feathery coat, topped with a red hat. "Say, dearie, will you just look?" she squealed with joy at the sight before her.

And in between handshaking, Mr. Blanchard looked on and smiled. A big fat foreign-looking woman with a knit shawl over her shoulders shut off his view for a few minutes in passing. But there was another, and another, and hundreds more who took the place of the "snow-queen" and her admiration.

An attractive woman in a pretty cape and a hat with red feathers in it bustles through the crowd. She has a few official looking appears in her hand and she can hardly make progress because of the number of friends who greet her and congratulate her. She is Mrs. J. J. Carter, the secretary.

"Isn't this response just wonderful?" she greets the reporter. "It is what I call just a crystalized outpouring of a wonderful community spirit. It is a wonderful coming together of friends with a single purpose. Just look at the cosmopolitan crowd that is pouring in here—rich and poor alike. No other city in the country could do this. New York, itself, couldn't do it! Look at the people! Why, up there are knowns and unknowns. There is Elinor Glynn, Rupert Hughes, Nazimova—writers, players, artists—and clerks and laborers. It is simply wonderful, that's all!"

The musicians are through tuning up their instruments. A hush falls over the place. Out steps Oberhoffer himself and a thunderous applause breaks loose. They whistle and cheer. The great Scorpion in the southern skies, himself, seems agog. The audience takes seats. Quiet again. The baton is poised. And the 1923 summer concert season at the bowl is started with the Star Spangled Banner.

COUPLE HELD ON DRY CHARGE

Louise Galton and Candia Montes, the latter a woman, were arrested yesterday by prohibition agents from H. H. Dolley's office, and booked at the County Jail, charged with running an illicit liquor still. The woman was arrested at 811 Lookout Drive, where the still was asserted to have been located. Galton was taken into custody later. It is asserted that the liquor was made at the residence and distributed from a grocery store on New High street.

FILE FOR RUM PERMITS

Individuals who apply for permits under the provisions of the National Prohibition Act must file their applications for the year 1924 during July and August of this year, according to regulations received by Internal Revenue Collector Goodcell yesterday. Formerly the applications for permits and for renewals were received later in the year. The permits apply to persons who are legally allowed to possess, transport or manufacture alcohol and spirits.

GUARDSMEN ARE GETTING STRIDE

Becoming Hardened to Work Ahead of Them

Camp Instructor Praises Their Efficiency

Training Monotony Broken by Sport Events

BY MAJ. JOSEPH P. McQUAIDE

Training eight hours every day on the hills adjacent to Point Fermin is leaving mute evidence on the bronzed faces of the men of the Coast Artillery, California National Guard, who are filling a fourteen-day camp engagement. Yesterday was the fourth one of intensive training.

Every day sees the men more hardened and better fitted for the work ahead of them. Col. Clyne was on the hill observing with Capt. Carl Doney, U.S.A., chief instructor of the encampment, at his side. The men were put through subcalibre practice at imaginary targets off the land. The visibility was not the best, a haze hanging over the sea. Capt. Doney said the men did excellent work.

CRACK COMPANY

Capt. Reed M. Clarke's company from San Francisco filled my eye yesterday. I happened to be near them and watched them work on one of the disappearing guns. It would be difficult to find a better company; a better-balanced unit in the National Guard anywhere. It is a regular machine, built up through the tireless energy of Capt. Clark.

It is interesting to note that Capt. Clark served in the Sixty-fourth Field Artillery during the World War under Col. George Ruhlen, Jr., now the major commanding Fort MacArthur.

Aside from its general efficiency, Capt. Clark's company is conspicuous because of the fact that there are more gold-chevroned men on its roll now in camp than in any other company in this command.

FOUR FISTIC BOUTS

Monday night four good bouts of boxing were put on in the outdoor arena. Mansfield of Long Beach, at 115 pounds, was pitted against Evans of the 465th Company from San Francisco; Newsome of the 465th against Harper of the 463rd from San Diego; White of the 459th from San Francisco against Gauch of the 460th from San Francisco. Prizes were awarded both to the winners and losers in all cases.

After the bouts, the men repaired to the big tent, where the Huntington Four, well-known singers from Huntington Beach, gave entertainment. These shows nightly break up with improvised songs and vaudeville stunts on the part of the men; there is a wealth of talent among them, and, before the camp is over, a minstrel show is to be put on by the boys from San Diego.

This afternoon will be given over to the physical tests as ordered by the War Department. To perfect arrangements for the same a meeting of all the company athletic officers was called. At this meeting the program was completed for an interesting series of tests, as regards the agility and speed of the men. Sprint races, high and broad jumping and vaulting will constitute the main features of the program.

CITY TO COLLECT $50,000

The City Council yesterday by unanimous vote instructed the City Attorney to collect the $50,000 the Fifth Street Improvement Association promised to pay as a part of the project for the opening of Fifth street through Normal Hill. It is the Council's stand that the city has done its part in this project and that the Fifth-street property owners should now pay their share.

DREAM CASTLES OF NG FALL

Tears and Booze Run in Gutter as Magic "Linisent" is Found With Opium in Chinatown Raid

There was many an aching heart and muscle in Chinatown yesterday. In fact, it was nothing short of a community catastrophy, for tears and booze ran in the gutters of Apablasa street and much of the stuff that dreams and jags are made of mingled with the dust.

In dreamy, phlegmatic Chinatown the house of Kuong, Yee and Company is synonymous with the House of Magic. There, surrounded by a dusty maze of sacked rice and jars of herbs, the two Ngs—Ng Sung and Ng Gin—made their far-famed and much-cherished "Magic Linisent." And it was there that the hand of Fate led the police to conduct a raid yesterday morning.

Now the two Ngs are in jail, hundreds of gallons of the "linisent" have winged their spirituous way down such sewers as Chinatown may or may not have, and many an aching muscle of a Celestial, or perchance some white man, must seek other relief.

MAGIC LIQUOR

"Linisent," which, according to the Chinatown police, is meant to read liniment, was what Kuong, Yee and Company had nothing else but. Every nook and corner in the establishment was filled with it. There was "linisent" in bottles, "linisent" in jugs, in barrels and in cans. Also, the officers say, there were a few stills. And in the back of the store—in a narrow alley under a pile of boxes reposed seven 5-teal cans of opium, in original brass cans.

The raid was conducted by Lieut. Lyons, in charge of the Chinatown squad, and Lieut. Detective Mailhue, head of the police narcotic squad. With Detectives Watson, Stevens, Armstrong, Seager, Littlejohn, Stewart and Jones, and Lieut. Detectives Yarrow, Steckel and Hamilton, they entered the House of Ng and proceeded to look around.

MODEST LABELS

More than 500 gallons of "liniment" was found in the place. The officers say it is nothing but Chinese "unkape," or rice whisky, flavored with a few herbs and that a flourishing business was conducted in the stuff, labeled with modest labels full of Chinese characters.

Most of the liquor, the officers say, "was high proof. The big barrels in which the "liniment" was being "aged" were emptied in the sink and the gutters. Most of the bottled goods was brought in for evidence.

The value of the opium, according to the officers, is more than $700 at the prevailing prices. "Many a castle in Canton will crumble tonight when the house of Ngs will be dark and deserted," remarked an old-time Chinatown officer as he fingered the seven cans of opium.

Ng Sung and Ng Gin were taken to the Central Station and charged with violations of the Harrison Antinarcotic and Volstead acts.

Over the store, which is at 319 Apablasa street, the officers found and confiscated a printing plant for the production of lottery tickets. These, the officers say, belonged to the Tia Wah Company. In the store below were found hundreds of thousands of lottery tickets, ready for distribution to the different lotteries, the police say.

Tenth street to Crenshaw Boulevard, thence via Country Club Drive to the city limits.

San Fernando Road—Extension easterly along Avenue 20 by the widening and improvement of Avenue 20 to a connection with Santee-San Pedro-street improvement in the vicinity of Avenue 20 and Mozart.

Second street—Open, widen, extend and improve from Hill street easterly via Traction avenue and cutting through private property to a direct connection with Whittier Boulevard at Boyle avenue.

Beverly Boulevard—Open, widen and improve from the east portal of Second street tunnel to the west city limits.

Boyle avenue—Open and widen northerly to connect with the Mission Road at Alhambra avenue, and improve southerly via Soto street to San Antonio street.

Slauson avenue—Widen and improve from Pacific Boulevard westerly six miles to Redondo Boulevard.

Normandie avenue—We recommend the establishment of set-back lines for a 100-foot street between Los Feliz Boulevard and the south city limits, or set-back lines for such portions as may be thought advisable.

Broadway—Extend by opening south to a junction with Moneta, with change of name from Moneta to Broadway.

Adams street—Open, widen and improve Adams street from Grand avenue easterly to a connection with San Antonio street to the Downey Road viaducts over or subways under railway crossings.

Highland avenue — Open and widen from Sunset Boulevard to the south city limits.

Alvarado street—Improve Alvarado street northerly from Sixth street to its connection with Glendale Boulevard. Open, widen and improve Alessandro street northerly from Glendale Boulevard in Edendale to a connection with Verdugo Boulevard via Hallet avenue, providing necessary bridge over Los Angeles River and if possible viaduct over Southern Pacific tracks.

Fremont avenue—Open and improve through private property from Sixth street south to Francisco street, then widen and improve Francisco street to Tenth street.

Open alleys in congested district. Open, widen and improve alleys through the center of all blocks in the business district. Alleys can be opened through the present blocks without loss of any except first-floor space, as they can be arcaded and the present frontage retained.

Hyperion avenue — Construct boulevard from Santa Monica Boulevard to Ivanhoe-Glendale bridge, this to be known as Hyperion avenue.

Opening of Fifth street—Open Fifth street from the congested district westerly to a connection with Sixth street in the vicinity of Bixel.

Viaducts over Los Angeles River. Construct viaducts over the Los Angeles River on the following streets: Ninth, Seventh, Fourth, Second, First, Macy, North Main and San Pedro.

Soto street—We recommend that Soto street be opened and improved from Lincoln Park to Vernon-Downey Road. (This project is not included in the Los Angeles plan.)

The secondary street program is as follows:

We recommend that as a secondary street improvement program the following streets be considered, together with any additional improvements which may be decided upon:

Spring street—From First street northerly to Sunset. This project is essential not only from a traffic standpoint, but affords also an essential step in the development of the administrative center. Damages can be entirely eliminated from this project in that remnants of parcels of land required for street opening can be acquired concurrently for public building uses. The present diagonal Spring street should not be vacated until frontage on same is acquired.

Cahuenga Pass—The lowering of the grade on this thoroughfare is obviously essential.

Hoover street—The strategic position of this street from Exposition Park north is found in its position dividing the diagonal street layout from the north and south street layout.

Exposition Boulevard—Not only does this highway afford a needed thoroughfare from the southwest to the west, but the right of way is also required for outfall sewer purposes. The line for this reason should follow a course due west instead of paralleling the railroad.

Riverside Drive — Should be opened from Glendale Boulevard north. This will afford a by-pass for traffic during alteration on Cahuenga Pass.

Silver Lake Boulevard—Affording a crosstown thoroughfare to the north, and largely now in existence, should be completed over the links shown.

Hope street—Widen to 100 feet from library site south to Sixth street, with cross street at base of library between Grand and Flower.

Arroyo Seco Boulevard—Extending from Pasadena-avenue bridge to South Pasadena line.

Yucca street—As an important connection from Cahuenga to Vine, warrants it being included in a primary program.

Vermont avenue—From Manchester south is an important requisite for the harbor district. The divided jurisdiction between city and county calls for the project being included in this program so far as the city has jurisdiction. The fact that a double roadway is possible and desirable permits the width of this portion of the project to be less than 100 feet wide.

Anaheim Road—In the harbor district, is endangered by rapid frontage improvements that will complicate a future widening. Immediate improvement of this thoroughfare is not required, but its importance by reason of its position to the water front and Long Beach requires an exceptional width. Nothing less than 150 feet will care for future traffic in this backbone of the harbor industrial district.

Gaffey street — Offers one of the few remaining entrances to the San Pedro district, being the logical continuation of Vermont avenue, and possibly accommodating some of the traffic from Western avenue and the Redondo district. This project calls for attention for much the same reason as Anaheim Road, and should be not less than 100 feet wide. This will largely permit the separation of passenger traffic entering the San Pedro district.

Wilmington Boulevard—Is of utmost importance to both San Pedro and Wilmington. Though immediate improvement is not called for, the likelihood of major improvements in the district require immediate acquisition of right of way not less than 100 feet wide.

Lorena street — Extension from easterly city limits to Downey Road as an important link in by-pass from Pasadena.

Downey Road—Extension north to Ninth street.

CROSSING STOPS BEFORE COUNCIL

Road from Manchester avenue to Glendale Boulevard.

Washington street from Alameda street to the west city limits.

Slauson avenue from the east city limits to the west city limits.

Children Find Body of Infant Lost in Sewer

The body of a baby believed to have died at birth was found in a sewer catch basin under the Fourth street bridge west of South Lorena street by children who explored the vicinity while playing. Deputy Sheriffs Shafer and Large were called to investigate.

The officers found the body had been wrapped in a newspaper. It was thought the baby was placed in the hiding place some time last night. No marks of identification were found that would aid in determining the parents of the infant, officers reported.

ORGAN RECITAL RADIO FEATURE

Soprano, Pianist and Tenor on Night Program

Long Beach Church Soloist Gives Matinee Songs

Girl Whistler and Children Engage Attention

BY BEN A. MARKSON

The atmosphere of a drawing-room prevailed in The Times studio during the programs yesterday. Accomplished singers and musicians acquitted themselves excellently in offerings. There was no fuss or flurry about the broadcast; rather a charming, social state of affairs.

An organ recital was the musical feature of the day.

A night listeners-in were entertained by Mme. Alisar, dramatic soprano-soprano; Rita Mae Mitchell, pianist, and William Pilcher, tenor.

SINGER'S TONES LOVELY

Mme. Alisar is something of a mystery to us. We know that she has been schooling herself for opera for a debut concert tour, other than that her manager recently is discreet. That her tour is to be a success we can safely predict.

She is an imposing singer, stately in appearance and with a voice of classic beauty. She has some emotionalism in her delivery when it is required. She can interpret splendidly and her voice is round, lovely and capable of great power. Radioland was thrilled to her selections last night, "Salvation," by Strauss, and a German number.

Miss Mae Mitchell favored with her excellence, her solo numbers being well received. She is technically gifted and knows music from a student's standpoint. She accompanied Mme. Alisar last night. Her solos were "Juba Dance," by Dett, and "In a Mission Garden," by Louis Curtis.

William Pilcher, tenor, gave his hearers a series of songs including "California June," by Mrs. Paige, a California composer, "Star Vicino," by Rosen, and "Group of Children's Songs," by Mana Zucca. His voice has a rich, melodious timbre that made the selections all worth hearing.

The matinee program was arranged by Mrs. Ralph Eaton Oliver, soprano soloist of the First Congregational Church of Long Beach, formerly of the First M. E. Church, Pasadena.

She returned just recently from the East where she made recordings for phonograph companies. One of her appearances lately has been as soloist with the California Concert Troupe. She sang yesterday "Come Out in the Sweet Spring Night," by Gilberte and "The Hand of You," by Carrie Jacobs Bond. Her voice has a lyric quality, clear and bell-like. She is organizing her own company for Lyceum work in the Middle West for the winter season.

Artist Pupils of Christiaan Timmner Tonight

Frances Ulric Cole, Pupil of Homer Grunn, on Matinee Program

READINGS PLEASE

Enjoyable whistling solos were given by Ruth Daugherty, member of the Oliver-Wicks-Daugherty Concert Party, and a church and club entertainer. She appeared recently at Grauman's Theater. Among her selections were "Gianina Mia," by Frimi, "Twilight Star," by Rogers, and "Manzilla," by Robyn.

Mrs. Bruce Evans, organist of the Grace Methodist Church, Long Beach, and writer of musical song poems, whose specialties are children's stories, humorous anecdotes and love tales, favored with musical readings. Her efforts found appreciation from listeners-in.

The children's program featured Evangeline O'Rourke, pianist and reader, 12 years of age.

Evangeline's piano solos were "Gavotte," by Bach, "By Moonshine," by Hagesey, and "Dance of the Dolls," by Poldini. She recited "The Delusion of Ghosts."

Boyd's songs were popular numbers, such as "Who's Sorry Now," "After Every Party," and "Why Should I Cry Over You?"

The organ recital was received in the KHJ monitor room by special line telephony and was broadcast from The Times station. A control panel was installed in the First Methodist Episcopal Church a few days ago in order that listeners-in might hear the great Ewart Watchorn Memorial Organ.

ORGAN AND CHOIR

Arthur Blakeley, noted organist, gave the evening recital, which preceded the regular night program of KHJ. His musicianship made noteworthy the renditions of such famous selections as "Prelude in C Sharp Minor," by Rachmaninoff, with its resounding notes, expressive of the Kremlin bells; March, "Crown of India," by Elgar; "Clock Movement," by Haydn; "Song of the Shepherd Lehl," by Rimsky-Korsakow; "The Siege of Kazan," by Mousseorgsky, and "Sextetta," by Donizetti.

The singing of the fine church choir was also heard by listeners-in, as well as addresses by Los Angeles ministers, and portions of the "Service of Congratulation" of the First M. E. Church.

DEPORTEES LEAVE CITY

The regular trip of the Klein party, the government's special carload of deportees, left Los Angeles yesterday on its swing around the circle with twenty-one persons aboard. Two were Italians who were smuggled into the country, one was a Spaniard suffering from a malady and the others were Mexicans who for several reasons were adjudged to be public charges.

KEEPS HIS FIGURE

All that Dempsey needs in his training, according to his manager, is a cash register and an adding machine. The multiplication table does the rest.

MUCH SICKNESS

The woman of the house explained to the judge that she had to have whisky for her sick baby, but the court thought that 1300 gallons of sour mash was carrying preparedness to excess.

NATURAL RICHES

One-third of all the oil now being produced in America is flowing from the wells of Los Angeles county and we are not making very much fuss about it, at that. Instead, we have been gloating over the fact that we have three-fifths of the nation's climate and three-eighths of the scenery.

FEELING THE SLUMP

John D. Rockefeller, who usually distributes dimes to all the boys he meets on his birthday, cut the allotment down to nickels on his 84th anniversary. With gasoline down and a report out that Henry Ford now has more money than he has the oil pioneer is preparing for a quiet trip to the poorhouse.

THE BIG MONEY

The New York Central Road figures up that the system has in its time paid more than $1.50 in taxes for every dollar used in dividends. The average man would roar if his taxes had always been 50 per cent more than his net income, but people who think the railroads have been running the country will revise their opinions.

HIGH FINANCE

Dempsey couldn't disable Tom Gibbons in that Montana mix-up, but he seems to have knocked out a bank at Great Falls. It was a narrow escape for Dempsey, but he got his share of the money in advance—even if it wrecked a bank in the doing. Next time he won't take any chances. It is understood that Kearns will insist that future meetings of his protege must be financed by the United States mint.

PATERNAL GOVERNMENT

The farmers want the government to finance a credit corporation to the extent of $200,000,000 to hold a wheat surplus of 200,000,000 bushels and maintain a minimum price on their grain of $1.50 a bushel. If there was any hint of doing anything like this for the coal or steel industry there would be a roar that could be heard for 1000 miles. The government may help the farmers all it can, but any system of holding prices for any industry is not practical.

THE REFORMER

If Alice Robertson has her way women will once more wear corsets and high-necked dresses, while bobbed hair will be no more seen. The former Congresswoman is now welfare chief in Federal hospitals and she is getting the nurses back into a uniform that will help to reduce the temperature of the patients. But she still has a long ways to go, nor is it certain that she will have the thanks of either the nurses or soldiers when she completes the round-up.

HOW TO LIVE

The head of the American Institute of Homeopathy says that it is a crime for anybody to die under 75 years of age. He also says that it is mainly Americans who die of cancer, pneumonia and some other ailments. People who live next to nature and eat simple foods do not fall under these diseases. We are the victims of overwork or overrest; of unbalanced exercise, of unintelligent dieting and careless living. Deaths from preventable causes are greater than those of war. It is time that the rank and file should be fully informed of the achievements of science and what it can do for their ills. That is what the president of the institute says. Possibly the homeopathic doctors will arrange to do this much for us. Maybe we can begin by arresting as a criminal every man who dies under the age of 75 years.

EXTREMES

James H. Scarr, New York's crack weather forecaster, says California harbors the hottest spot on earth (Death Valley,) the region of heaviest snowfalls (High Sierras) and a region wherein perpetual springtime prevails (locality unnecessary to mention.)

Greenland Ranch, Death Valley, holds the record for heat—134 in the shade. Insure your cars before motoring into Death Valley, for gasoline boils at 122 degrees Fahrenheit. Last winter, in the Huntington Lake region, High Sierras, thirty-eight feet of snow fell.

Mr. Scarr says that among the great cities of the country the average monthly temperature during a year is lowest in San Francisco, the monthly average for winter being 50 degrees and for summer 80 degrees.

He names Los Angeles as the driest big city in the United States. One should remember, however, that the subject under consideration is weather, not prohibition.

THE FRENCH RESERVATIONS

While the slightly tense relations between the American and French governments will doubtlessly be relaxed somewhat by the ratification of the first of the treaties of Washington, that relating to limitation of armaments, the effect of this action on the British government has apparently been to give new causes for disagreements.

France is not ratifying the treaties of Washington without reservation. According to the press dispatches, the reservation relating to the use of submarines to attack merchant vessels in time of war is so sweeping that it reserves to France the right to unlimited use of submarines. America is not personally interested, perhaps, in the French reservations; for a war between this country and France is less probable than between any of the other great powers. There are powerful traditions which make the peoples of the two countries comrades rather than antagonists.

But England and France have been traditional enemies rather than friends. They have fought as allies, but oftener and perhaps more bitterly as enemies; and both the English government and people are gravely concerned over what use the French might make of submarines in case of another war between the two nations.

By reason of her insular position England has much to fear from a submarine attack; for England must import foodstuffs or starve. Germany's dream of conquest was based on the belief that her submarines could starve the English to submission. It would seem that the French realize the importance submarines might play in case of a war with the English and that they are not inclined to relinquish that advantage.

No explicit statement has yet been made concerning the reservations of the French in relation to the limitation of the use of noxious gases. But, according to the French press, the government will not pledge itself to refrain from the use of gas in warfare. The French attitude is that "war is war," and that, once the conflict begins, the winning is of more consequence than the means used to secure the advantage.

According to London dispatches, the British are more dissatisfied with the ratification of the treaty with such reservations than they would have been if the French had not ratified at all.

One evidence of English displeasure is the rather sharp notes that have been sent to the French government during the last two weeks concerning reparations and the French occupation of the Ruhr. England is also beginning to ask some pointed questions about the repayment of her French loan. The visit of Secretary Mellon to London has been made the occasion of reopening the question of war loans. While no statement has been made by our government concerning these war debts, the London dispatches intimate that the visit of the American Secretary of the Treasury is something else than a vacation excursion.

While it is not probable that the President would have left Washington if any important change in policy was contemplated, still dispatches from London and Paris are to the effect that the American government is pressing for some kind of an economic settlement.

PHILIPPINES AND RUBBER

Under its own flag the United States is raising but a fraction of 1 per cent of the world's rubber supply. At the same time, American manufacturers use over 70 per cent of the crude rubber raised by other nations. And among other nations the British have a practical monopoly of the raw material.

Such a state of affairs leaves one of our greatest American industries dependent for its raw material on a foreign power. How immense is the amount of raw rubber required by automobile tire and other manufactures in the United States, and how the demand is increasing the following authenticated figures amply demonstrate.

In the year 1910 the amount of rubber consumed in the United States was 42,000 tons. In 1920 the amount had risen to 248,790 tons. It is estimated that in 1923 we shall use all of 325,000 tons. The rapid development of our highway transportation points an ever-increasing demand for raw rubber.

In 1921 the price of rubber slumped to 15 cents a pound, which was less than the cost of production. Naturally, there was thus little encouragement offered American capital to invest in rubber plantations. Nor were American manufacturers worrying while they could buy in so cheap a market.

But in the fall of 1922 the British government put into effect a sliding export tax on rubber which the Department of Commerce estimated would cost American consumers about $600,000,000 annually. This entirely changed the trade aspect. Our manufacturers discovered the disdavantage of having no American supply of raw rubber. Since then a lively campaign has been carried on to free our automobile makers from this heavy tribute.

Of course the rubber tree, being a native of the tropics, cannot be grown in the United States proper. But we have tropical possessions where rubber plantations would be as profitable as any grown under the British flag. And of all tropical countries, according to the opinion of experts, there is none so well adapted to raising rubber as the Philippine Islands.

Harvy S. Firestone, president of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, after a thorough investigation, has reached the following important conclusion:

"We have found in the Philippines," he says, "millions of acres of the most suitable land for the growing of rubber. In fact, the available area is fully twice as much as the available area in the Malay Peninsula. There is being spread a report by propaganda that rubber cannot be produced in the Philippines on account of typhoons, labor and land conditions. Propagandists are also saying that we promised the Filipinos their independence and therefore American capital will not seek investment there.

"The fact of the matter is that the Philippines offer exceptional opportunities for the growing of rubber. This statement is substantiated by government officials who have made a close study of the situation and by others interested in seeing the proper development of the islands.

"The Rio Grande Valley, above and adjacent to the Cotabato, covers more than 3000 square miles. The Davao country to the east offers another 1000 square miles for the growing of rubber. The total of areas in Mindanao covers less than a fourth of one island. Adjacent islands add an area of about 2,000,000 acres suitable to rubber development."

From this it will be seen that it is not necessary for the United States automobile industry to have to rely on a foreign source for that essential of modern life, raw rubber. Here is one case where we allowed a foreign competitor to get into a big game ahead of us. But we have the capital and we have the location and we know the demand for more rubber promises to make the venture a paying one.

Los Angeles and Southern California are especially interested in this development because we have here the best harbor for handling a rubber trade with the Philippines. Also with rubber at our front door and cotton at our back door, Southern California becomes at once the logical center of the automobile tire industry.

ROCKEFELLER'S NICKELS

John D. Rockefeller has just celebrated his 84th birthday. This year he departed from his usual custom of presenting a dime to every child he met in honor of the occasion. He gave each of his little friends a new buffalo nickel.

A few days previous Herbert Hoover had told the United States Chamber of Commerce, "The primary safeguard for continued prosperity will be continued willingness of our people to save their enlarged earnings, to resist extravagance and waste."

These two prominent Americans were preaching the same gospel. The Secretary of Commerce was driving the idea of thrift into the brain of the business world. The oil magnate was telling it to children in childhood symbols.

No doubt in both cases the seed will fall upon fertile ground. But Rockefeller has the better brand of seed and the more productive garden. He is dealing with children and planting coins instead of words.

From the parable of the dimes and nickels the youngsters will draw a moral that will stay. Hoover saw the necessity of saving while the saving's good that the present prosperity may endure. Last year and the year before business was somewhat dull and it wasn't so easy to build up a savings account. They were years of poor harvests and the sower sowed dimes in the children's gardens. This has been a year of great prosperity—the savings have passed the rainy-day period. Nickels in the children's gardens will fill the odd waste places with financial flowers.

Lots of the children will not save their nickels, just as many business men will pay little heed to Hoover's words of wisdom. If nobody practices thrift the present wave of prosperity will pass. But the example of John D. set to the children and the precepts uttered by Herbert Hoover are influences for the national good.

The surprise element in the Rockefeller act makes it more impressive. What!—will cry the good fellow—the richest man in the world cuts down his birthday gift to the kiddies from a meager dime to a paltry nickel!

He does, and by so doing proves he is a true friend of the child. Thus he teaches the need for thrift, especially while fate is smiling and the extra dimes come easy. To each according to his needs. When it comes to large public beneficences he deals out millions as readily as nickels—because he understands relative values.

SOCIAL JEALOUSIES

About half of the embroilments of society are inspired by small jealousies. Questions of social precedence have wrecked not only individual careers, but whole kingdoms. Vanity has prompted many a tragedy. Old-timers will remember the scandal at King Arthur's Christmas dinner, when knights and ladies quarreled for the high seats. They got to hurling harpoons at one another until the place looked like the operating room at the Chicago stockyards. It was a regular shambles and the best blood of the kingdom was wasted. Arthur himself got so hot about it that he started a reprisal. He sent most of the survivors and their kinsmen to the block. Not only that, but he cut off the noses of the dames and damsels who were mixed up in the affair. This is where the expression to "cut off the nose to spite the face" had its origin, for some of the beakless dowagers certainly found that spite had been visited upon their faces. As a further result of this bloody entanglement Arthur telephoned for the best cabinet-maker in London and had a huge dining-table built in the form of a circle. This became famous in history as King Arthur's round table at which his knights assembled night after night. The table being round there could be no place of honor and the only precedence shown would be in favor of the one who happened to sit at the right of the chair in which His Majesty bulked himself. After that there were no quarrels over precedence in King Arthur's court, except that Sir Launcelot appeared to have something of a crush on Queen Guinevere. But social jealousies should be avoided. They leave a sting that is entirely out of proportion to their importance.

AIN'T IT JUST SO?

Professor Dink Beeson says when
You were a kid, if you were Brought up in a flat country you
Got the idea that all mountains
Were like the picture you saw
Of Cotopaxi in the geography, a
Towering cone with a nice point
Of snow at the top, and you felt
Mountain climbing was just a mat-
Ter of continually climbing up-
Ward. Later, when you knew moun-
Tains and really climbed one,
Didn't it make you mad when the Trail made a dip downward for Several hundred yards, maybe,
And you knew that you were losing altitude won with so much
Toil and effort. The prof says
When you were a kid and read the Books of Oliver Optic or Trow-
Bridge you decided that a suc-Cessful life was just a matter
Of progress onward and upward.
But did you ever know a soul who Hadn't to go through some rever-
Ses and disappointments before
The winning of any accolade
Known to man?
The prof never did.

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE HAY

When I was toiling on the farm, a long, long time ago, I wielded with my strong right arm the trenchant spade and hoe; though toil for me had little charm, I made the squashes grow. My turnips took the highest prize at Hayseed county's fair; my pumpkins reached so great a size they made my rivals swear; you simply cannot realize their anguish and despair. And yet I labored in disgust, and as I toiled I said, "I'll quit this farming graft or bust, it keeps me seeing red;" all day I tilled the brown earth's crust, at night I went to bed. The bed was cheap and hard and small, the tick was stuffed with hay, the pillow harder than the ball with which the Giants play; this didn't worry me at all; I slept the night away. It seemed two minutes from the time when I began to snore till the alarm clock's raucous chime proclaimed that night was o'er, and I'd have coughed up half a dime to sleep for nine hours more. No idle dreams disturbed my rest when I was in the hay; no nightmare came, a grisly guest, to drive my peace away; I slept like Tut, whose mummy-chest has been dug up, they say. And now that I am rich and old the night hours slowly slide; my bed's a wonder to behold, the mattress maker's pride, the coverlets are striped with gold, in kingly purple dyed. And sometimes, when I'm tired and sick of watching slow hours crawl, I sigh, "I'd give the bed and tick, the chromo on the wall if I could be once more the hick who thought the night too small!"

CLOSE-UPS OF EUROPE

British Liberals and Conservatives Unite Against Labor Party.

French Threat to March Upon Berlin Brings Quick Results.

Ruhr Regulations Now Permit Feeding of Starving Women and Children.

Inside History of Ratification of Limitation of Armaments Treaty.

Two new parties are slowly but visibly forming in Great Britain out of the wreck of the Union and Liberal organizations. It is the old division, but more definitely aligned. The Liberal party of Gladstone and the Union party of the Cecils have outlived their usefulness.

From Gladstone's time forward the Liberals were always dallying with the labor unions. For a brief time before the war the unions and the Liberals worked in harmony and controlled the government. But the advent of Bolshevism turned the labor unions into purely radical channels. They wanted to destroy the present form of government and set up Communism in its place. The Liberals who were loyal to their present government could not accept such a policy. The Labor branch proved the stronger, with the result that Liberalism as a political issue is dead.

The Unionist party fared no better. It has been slowly but almost completely absorbed by the Conservatives, who are the old Tories under another name. It is now becoming apparent that the greater part of the Liberals are passing over to the Conservatives. Party conferences are now taking place which have for their end bringing Lloyd George and his Liberals into the Conservative fold. The ex-Premier is holding out, but his lieutenants and the rank and file are going over.

As the alignment becomes clearer the support of the Labor party grows weaker. Labor has come to stand for radicalism. All those who seek to overthrow the present governmental forms are enlisted under the banner of Labor; and every new recruit drives loyal Britons out of the party.

How it would pain the "Great Commoner" if he could see some of his favorite policies as they are now warped and twisted by the radicals! Gladstone was loyal to the heart's core; but those who profess still to follow his counsel are little more than masked Bolsheviists.

Over the tomb of dead Liberalism might well be placed the inscription, "Victim of the World War." Its demise was probably due to the fact that the party contained too many theorists and idealists and not enough practical minds.

It is one thing to heat the passions of two peoples to a boiling point and a vastly different thing to cool them off again. This lesson has apparently been brought home to both the French and German governments.

Reading between the lines of the recent dispatches, I am convinced that both governments regret that they have permitted things to come to so tragic an impasse.

The French people are worked up to a point where they will not consent to the removal of the French army in the Ruhr until Germany has paid in gold the last franc of the indemnity which the French claim under the Versailles Treaty.

At the same time, the German people have become so thoroughly incensed at the starvation of millions in the Ruhr, which they blame wholly on the French, that they will not consent to pay another mark, even in the present depleted currency, to France. They will starve, they will die, but they have paid their last pfennig in tribute to the hated enemy.

Premier Poincare and his government have apparently reached a frame of mind where they are ready to accept a compromise which will permit the French troops to be brought home.

From the Paris Temps, the official organ of the government, I take the following:

"If the Reich took steps to end passive resistance and restore the situation existing before January 11, then the Franco-Belgian occupation could assume the form originally intended—that of a civilian mission with military protection."

Similarly, the Berlin government has taken steps to formally denounce sabotage in the Ruhr. It has even punished the saboteurs who had fled from the Ruhr and were caught on German soil.

It looks as though the two governments would like to find a way to put an end to the present impossible condition, which is so plainly injuring both. But a French government that would order the withdrawal of the troops before Germany pays would not live forty-eight hours; and a Berlin government that proposed to pay additional indemnities, under any conditions, would be overthrown and probably lynched.

English sympathy continues to veer away from France and toward Germany. This is due in a large part to the industrial conditions in Europe. So hostile has the sentiment in Parliament become to the French that the Premier was forced last week to make a formal disavowal of sympathy with the Ruhr occupation.

The government's formal reply to a written query was, "The government did not contemplate making any declaration which would imply approval of the Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr."

For twenty-four hours last week a crisis loomed in Franco-British-German relations. The conference between the French and British ministers in London over the query which the British Foreign Office had submitted to the French government resulted in recriminations and a sharp misunderstanding. It was hinted in English governmental circles that the government would enter into direct negotiations with Germany. From Paris came the answering challenge that such a conference would be a signal for French troops to [illegible] Berlin.

There was a [illegible] foreign exchange fell [illegible] there was an [illegible] tense expectancy.

Then something caused those mysterious [illegible] that caused the [illegible] to pass. Temporarily [illegible] from Paris, Berlin and [illegible] is evident that neither of the governments hungers for a European war.

Probably the most [illegible] of the week from the [illegible] point of view was the [illegible] by the French Chamber of [illegible] of the limitation of [illegible] treaty negotiated during the [illegible] ington conference.

So many Frenchmen of [illegible] sition had declared the treaty would be ratified that [illegible] tion was anticipated in [illegible] ton, London and Tokio. In the conference between the American and Japanese [illegible] ments was planned to [illegible] France and make a [illegible] agreement.

At the last moment the [illegible] government suddenly changed mind and the lower house [illegible] the treaty after but a few [illegible] discussion. It is reported [illegible] Paris that the Senate will [illegible] ify the limitation of [illegible] ment and that it will be in force by August 1.

What caused the sudden change of heart in the French [illegible] is another of those [illegible] teries; but it is possible that pending three-power [illegible] something to do with it.

I am pleased to note from dispatches that the French [illegible] ment is inclined to modify [illegible] restrictions to a point that will not interfere with the shipment of [illegible] into the territory from the [illegible] Germany.

In this action there is a [illegible] human sympathy that [illegible] rigor of the French military measures. The world was [illegible] get the impression that the [illegible] were, with intent, making [illegible] women and children.

Compound Help Y[illegible]

Thousands of girls have to work [illegible] homes, offices, stores, mills or [illegible] factories who are physically unfit [illegible] for work, with often an aged or [illegible] ailing father or mother dependent [illegible] upon them for support. Standing [illegible] all day week in and week out, or [illegible] sitting in cramped positions a girl [illegible] contracts some deranged con[illegible] dition of her organic system which [illegible] spells a halt to her progress and de[illegible] mands restoration to health before [illegible] she can be of use to herself or [illegible] others also.

For those distressing weaknesses [illegible] and derangements these girls have [illegible] found health to do their work in [illegible] Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable [illegible] Compound.

Another man lost $80,000 because a notice offering the right to subscribe at $100 a share to new stock, which had a market value of $325 a share, was not called to the owner's attention during his absence from America.

Another lost interest amounting to $300 because certain bonds, maturing during his absence, were in a private safe and were not presented for payment. As a result, his funds lay idle for two months.

HEALTH FOR WORKING WOMEN

Let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Help You to Become Well.

Thousands of girls have to work in factories, offices, stores, mills or shops who are physically unfit for work, with often an aged or invalid father or mother dependent upon them for support. Standing long hours week in and week out, or working in cramped positions a girl who suffers from deranged conditions of her organic system which tend to lead to her progress and development is bound to health before she can be of use to herself or others.

For those distressing weaknesses and ailments these girls have found health to do their work in, in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Hamilton, N. Y.—"Like many girls, I had troubles every month. I followed with my work as I could but often suffered that I take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but I never did until lately, and have very good results, and now a private secretary and do my work without missing a day. I shall recommend your medicine to every one who speaks of having troubles like I have had."—CAROLYNE MANGELS, 407 14th St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

My mother also has taken the Vegetable Compound and we recommend it to our friends. I am working in an office now and can always do my work as I do not have the troubles I had at first. I read of your Vegetable Compound in the newspaper and you may use my letter in that way if you wish to do so."—ELEANOR SHESLAK, 537 36th St., Milwaukee, Wis.

SCREEN MEN TO TELL OF PARTY

Glass and Gasnier Placed on Trial

Women, Young and Old, Crowd Courtroom

Much of Testimony Offered Unprintable

Gaston Glass, motion-picture star, and Louis Gasnier, motion-picture director, will take the witness stand in Police Court today to tell their own versions of the asserted "wild party" which led to their arrests as dissolute persons on June 2, last, according to their attorney, Ray Chesebro, yesterday.

The trial of Glass opened yesterday in Police Judge Frederickson's court. Though Gasnier's trial is scheduled for a later date, he is to becalled as a witness by the defense. Mrs. Helen McCloskey, one of the two women with whom the two men were arrested, will also be called as a defense witness.

The case opened before a jury of nine women and three men. After half a day devoted to selecting a jury to hear the testimony, two of the prosecution's witnesses had told their stories at last night's court adjournment.

MANY WOMEN PRESENT

The testimony was of such a nature that it cannot be published, but it was heard by a crowded courtroom filled with young and fashionably dressed women and elderly women, many of whom hid their faces beneath the brims of their hats, but none of whom left the courtroom throughout the session. Standing in the aisles and wedged in the passageway around the wall were scores of men, young and old, who occasionally interrupted the proceedings by outbursts of chuckling.

Glass remained hidden in the crowds in the back of the courtroom during the selecting of the jury. Later, he was summoned to the counsel table, where he remained—his head bowed and his face concealed in his cuped hands—with his attorneys, Ray Chesebro and Milton Cohen.

Officer Harold K. Freeman, one of the three policemen who conducted the raid on Mrs. McCloskey's bungalow at 6527 Fountain avenue on the night of June 2, was the first witness called by the prosecution. The others were Sergt. Leroy Nelson and Officer William S. Haas.

MANY TILTS OCCUR

Many bitter tilts between the defense and prosecuting attorneys occurred during the examination of the witnesses. The defense objected to the introduction of any testimony that did not directly refer to Gaston Glass. Judge Frederickson overruled these repeated objections.

Officer Freeman testified he had found a liquor bottle with a small quantity of liquor in it. Attorney Chesebro asked him if he had ever made a signed statement in the City Prosecutor's office to the effect that he had found no liquor. Officer Freeman could not remember.

ATTORNEYS WRANGLE

For the next half hour a battle between the opposing lawyers was waged. Attorney Chesebro declared he had evidence that such a report had been made. He demanded that Deputy City Prosecutor Crowl produce it.

"I ask that the report be produced so that we may impeach the witness," declared Attorney Chesebro. "We have reason to believe he is making statements here that are contrary to a previous signed statement made by him."

The prosecuting attorney refused to produce it. The argument was continued until this morning.

Officer Haas testified that Gasnier was intoxicated. He modified his statement later by stating that Gasnier had been drinking, that he could smell it on his breath. Again the report was demanded. Again it was laid over until today.

HARDING IS LIKENED TO JEFFERSON

Speaker Says Armament Conference Also Puts Him With Washington, Lincoln

In his address on "The Race Between Education and Catastrophe," yesterday morning before the summer-session students of the University of Southern California, Dr. William Baxton Burris, dean of the College of Teachers of the University of Cincinnati, declared that the act of President Harding in calling the armament conference in Washington was an event of first magnitude in the history of this country. He said it would take its place with the winning of Independence by George Washington, the extension of public domain by Thomas Jefferson and the saving of the Union by Abraham Lincoln.

Dr. Burris was introduced by Dr. R. B. Von KleinSmid, head of the university. He is one of the leading educators of the United States.

In his talk, Dr. Burris emphasized a responsibility which he said rested heavily upon college students—that of combatting all forms of pernicious, political propaganda.

"If we permit the propagandist," he said, "to continue to poison the stream of public thought, education will be false; and not only popular government but civilization, as well, is doomed to collapse."

PROF. SAYRE TO SPEAK

At the City Club luncheon today, Francis B. Sayre, professor of Harvard University Law School, will be the principal speaker, Prof. Sayre will talk on "The Living Wage." He is a son-in-law of former President Wilson, and is giving a course of lectures in the University of Southern California. While here he is a guest of William G. McAdoo, another son-in-law of the former President.

In My Garden

By Josse A. Currey

For several years I have been using about the garden and window boxes a watering can. It has seen better days but I had hopes that it would last me through this summer, but recently it sprang a leak. The can was so old that it was not worth taking to the tinsmith or the plumber to be soldered. I remembered that an old gardener friend of mine had once told me that with a wooden garden bucket, which had shrunk he had managed to stop it leaking by first putting in it some stable manure and then filling the bucket with water. I tried this plan on the leaking watering can, with the result that the leak was stopped at once and so effectively that the watering can will see me through the summer. Try this the next time on a leaky bucket or can and you will find it works.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

For Juicy Meat

Use a long spoon to turn the roast instead of a fork, as the fork pierces the meat and lets the juices escape.

It Will be With You Longer

It is wise to put a quantity of sand in the bottom of the valuable vase when it is used for table decoration. Then it is less likely to be knocked over.

When Knitting

Be careful not to split the wool or silk when putting the needles into the ball.

Will Stay Soft

Icing will keep soft if a pinch of baking powder is added to the whites of the eggs before they are beaten.

Makes Them Tempting

It will keep cookies crisp and add to their daintiness if a little sugar is sprinkled on each one before baking.

Something from Nothing

for melting paraffin. As it is used, wash the pan and place it in the cupboard for future use. When paraffin is put on the storeroom shelves it should be melted to cover the jelly completed.

Homely Fruit

Clean the oil painting cloth moistened with oil.

Fine ashes mixed with vinegar are splendid for cleaning brass and steel.

Honey and cream make a tempting spread for hot gluten muffins.

A little gasoline is a help when scrubbing floors to eradicate grease spots.

Tears and holes should be mended before laundering to prevent the rubbing being larger.

Adds a Softer Tint

Try frosted bulbs in your lamps or bridge lamps and see if you do not like the glow better than brighter bulbs.

Will Not Turn Rancid

Olive oil will not turn rancid after the can or bottle has been opened if two lumps of sugar are dissolved in each can.

Save the Spools

Cover the nails used in mending up the kitchen chairs with empty spools. They will cover holes and rust in your floor and, if painted white, are very attractive.

Before the Party

Place candles in the chandelier for a couple of hours before lighting and they will not drip as long. It will also prevent the trickling down over the candlestick.

Those Sticky Irons

When an article is ready for ironing, plunge it into cold water and let it stay until the iron is prepared. The mark will then disappear.

Those Tell-tale Hands

Hard water contains mineral salts which dissolve the oil in the skin—leaving it dry, harsh and "crackable." That is why so many housewives have red, coarsened hands—"gossipy" hands that tell so many kitchen tales. But—

Why let your hands get that way? No matter how often you have to put them into water, you can keep them firm, white and shapely. Simply soften the water with Hydro-Pura. Hydro-Pura removes the harsh mineral salts from hard water—and makes it possible to use less, and milder, soap for housework.

Take this word of friendly caution: use Hydro-Pura and your hands won't ever tell your kitchen secrets. Your grocer has it—the package with the green band. Made by the Schalk Chemical Co., Los Angeles, California.

Diet and Health

DIET FOR CHILDREN—AND ADULTS

Cereal Grains

All of the grains resemble each other in their dietary properties. They are good energy foods and have variable amounts of protein which is splendid for the body if it is combined with complete proteins, such as in milk and eggs. When the bran and germ are removed they lose the valuable elements, minerals and vitamins.

Wheat—

Wheat is the most important food grain in America and Europe. Most of it is made into bread. The valuable minerals and vitamins are contained in the bran and the germ, as they are in all grains. When they are left in the flour it spoils quickly and weevils and other insects realize they are valuable foods for their babies. Thus the commercial value is affected. So modern processes of milling have been perfected to remove the bran and the germ.

But this, of course, makes a demineralized and devitaminized food. The kernel of wheat that is left, while still a good food for energy, cannot be depended upon for minerals nor vitamins. Even the whole wheat with the bran or germ, while it contains every food element, is not, alone, a perfect food for man or animal. Mainly because its protein is not a complete protein. All cereals are alike in this.

Animals fed solely upon cereals will not thrive. But if some of the live part of the plant, the leafy part, and some food like milk for the complete protein, are added to the cereals, then the animal will thrive.

However, this does not mean that the grains are not good foods. They are especially good energy foods and when combined with the elements necessary to supplement their deficiency they are a valuable part of the diet.

Until there is a greater demand for whole wheat bread, so that the whole wheat flour is used up before it has time to spoil, the demineralized and devitalized flour will continue to be [illegible] large scale.

For children [illegible] grain bread should be [illegible] possible. If you cannot [illegible] whole wheat flour, [illegible] get a small home mill [illegible] yourself. I understand [illegible] can be purchased for [illegible] Two or three families [illegible] together and get a [illegible] better one. (Even a [illegible] mill will do.)

Baking powder and [illegible] kill the vitamins in bread [illegible] which contains [illegible] anti-neuritic vitamin [illegible] wholesome bread. [illegible] powder or soda. [illegible] not so wholesome as [illegible] is a day old, [illegible] soft and is not [illegible] masticated and [illegible] fermentation.

For this reason [illegible] never advisable to [illegible] ing bread making it [illegible] digested because [illegible] starch is cooked [illegible] which is the same [illegible] pens in the first [illegible] so the toasted bread [illegible] predigested.

This of course [illegible] the part that is [illegible] which is only [illegible] side and left out [illegible] little value [illegible] To be thoroughly [illegible] should be cooked [illegible] slowly dried and [illegible] out in the oven [illegible] very wholesome [illegible] it is easily digested [illegible] has to be thoroughly [illegible] order to be [illegible] gives the needed [illegible] teeth and jaws. [illegible] we advise this [illegible] our children.

A slice of bread [illegible] same calorie value [illegible] it was toasted [illegible] weight to [illegible] understand [illegible] never eat [illegible]

We shall quite frankly prefer fortune tellers and sword swallowers, very much alive, to inferior nude statues in patios. We shall quite frankly prefer the Ferris wheel to watching a little wheel advertise United forthcoming releases. We shall infinitely prefer a live shooting gallery, with prizes, to a mere handsome "interior," peopled only by tired nightseers—which we appreciate better with the animated story attached.

And they will bemoan our lowbrow tastes and point to the hopelessness of trying to appeal to our better natures. They had to be low-brow to win our interest.

But I maintain they did not appeal to our better natures, or our better intelligence, or to any but the very slightest cultural interest. They just took a mediocre middle course which was neither here nor there—and they are going to be infinitely more at home "there" —with the Great White Way, thoroughly alive, thoroughly human, really entertaining, and not pretending to be anything but just exactly what it is. And that anyway, will be pleasantly "international."

"International Exposition" are such very large words. It takes a lot of living up to. If we had called it the City Fair, and made it a City Fair, it could have been a first-class City Fair. But it is second-rate national, third-rate international. And the women and the motion-picture industry are to blame. All the same it is a delightful "lot," a charming "set"—and hip-hip-hurrah for the Great White Way. It's the law of gravitation and Einstein relativity at work.

City Manager of Glendale Heard by Grand Jurors

City Manager Reeves of Glendale was a witness for two hours yesterday before the county grand jury investigating the annexation election of the Lake-street district to Glendale last December 22.

The investigation has occupied some of the jury's attention during the past three sessions, and was continued yesterday until next Tuesday.

The election, which resulted in approval of annexation, was declared null and void by a Superior Court judge after an investigation by the Attorney-General. The grand jury is studying charges that twenty-five persons were persuaded to move into the district and live in tent houses before the election, receiving a stipend for their vote in favor of annexation.

PASADENA ESTATE BEQUEATHED WIDOW

PROPERTY VALUED AT $138,000 IS LEFT BY EASTERN MANUFACTURER

The estate left by George A. Weber, wealthy eastern manufacturer, who died in Pasadena last March, contains property in Pasadena valued at more than $138,000, according to a petition for admission of his will in the Los Angeles courts after it had been probated in Connecticut.

The widow, Annie H. Weber, was given the use of the real estate in Pasadena during her lifetime, and the rest of the estate was placed in trust for her benefit. At her death the fund is to go to the children, according to the terms of the will.

Charges Mate is Addict; Wife Seeks Divorce

Before marriage her husband told her that he was the owner of a clothes-cleaning business and two real estate offices, all doing a fine business, and it was not until after the nuptial knot had been tied that she discovered that he had no business at all, declared Hilda E. Sylvain in a divorce complaint, filed yesterday against Eugene Sylvain.

Her husband also painted himself as a perfect man without a bad habit of any kind, but after she had paid expenses of a honeymoon, she learned that he was a dope addict, Mrs. Sylvain asserted.

The complaint also declares that the wife has been paying expenses from the marriage day, April 9, last, up to the day of separation, June 5.

BRIDE FILES SUIT

Asserts Mate Locked Her in Home When He Went to Work

Before going to work in the morning Clifton C. Phillips would pull down the shades and lock the doors, and threatened his bride with a whipping if she went out of the house, according to the complaint for divorce filed yesterday by Elsie E. Phillips. Her nights were hardly as pleasant, Mrs. Phillips assert, for when her husband came home from work and unlocked the doors he would, she said, abuse her verbally, and on several occasions slapped her and hit her with his fists. She also declared that one time he beat her across the shoulders with a curtain rod until her flesh became discolored. The couple were married April 4, 1923, and separated June 18, the complaint states.

WIFE CHARGES CRUELTY

Declaring that during the three years of their married life she had been forced to live with her parents, Mrs. Amy Clark Peppenger filed suit for divorce against Martin C. Peppenger. The wife also asserts that her husband threw a cup of coffee in her face which burned her severely and that on another occasion when she could otn grant his request for money he became angry, and tearing off her necklace, choked her.

NEW PLANT IS ASSURED LONG BEACH

City Officials and Banker Sign Contract Bringing Huge Concern to City

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, July 10.—A formal contract has been signed by city officials and D. M. Reynolds, Los Angeles banker, which assures construction of the proposed $15,000,000 steel plant in Long Beach, it was announced today.

The contract was signed by Mayor Buffum and City Manager Windham for the city. The steel combine, which Mr. Reynolds represents, agreed to deposit within seventy-five days a bond of $250,000 to guarantee spending $5,000,000 within the next two years on the initial unit of the plant. The first work will include construction of the bulkheads and erection of blast furnaces, and provision for terminal facilities by rail, ship and highway.

The city of Long Beach undertakes to dredge a portion of the harbor, in conjunction with the steel combine and the harbor board of Los Angeles.

DEFENSE OF DOG DREW BLOWS, ASSERTS WIFE

Interrupted by her in his efforts to chastise a pet dog that refused to eat from his hand, William Roy Lindsay gave his wife a good beating, Darrell Lindsay asserted yesterday in a suit for divorce filed in Superior Court. This was in February, 1922, she said. In May last Mrs. Lindsay suffered another chastisement, she asserted, this time as the result of a dance. It was a private affair at their apartment house, she said, with only inmates of the house present.

"I don't want you dancing with this class of people," she declared Lindsay said. The couple were married July 10, 1921, and separated the 4th inst. They have one child. Mrs. Lindsay asks its custody.

This New Treatment Never Fails to End Piles

Many sufferers from Piles or Hemorrhoids have become despondent because they have been led to believe that their case was hopeless and that there was nothing in the world to help them.

To these people we say, "Go to your druggist and get an original box of MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES." One of these inserted into the rectum according to directions will be found to give immediate relief. They reach the source of the trouble and by their soothing, healing, antiseptic action first allay the pain and soreness and then by direct contact with the ulcers and piles cause them to heal up and disappear forever.

It's simply wonderful how speedily they act. Blessed relief often comes in two days. Even in cases that have steadily resisted all known treatments, marvelous results have been obtained.

All druggists dispense MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES in the original box or can get it for you on short notice. Surely it is worth the little trouble to obtain even if you have to write the MOAVA Products Co., of Rochester, N. Y., for a 60 cent box, to be rid of Piles forever.—[Advertisement.

WORK STARTED ON SKYSCRAPER

Two Height-Limit Edifices to be Erected

Cost $1,500,000 Exclusive of Site Value

One on Los Angeles Street, Other on Spring

Two height-limit buildings for the downtown district were announced yesterday by two local real estate firms. They will be an attractive edifice at Ninth and Spring streets and an office structure at Seventh and Los Angeles streets. The deals represent a total consideration of $1,500,000 exclusive of property valuations.

Announcement was made yesterday by William May Garland, local realtor and capitalist, that negotiations have been completed for the erection of an office skyscraper on the northwest corner of Ninth and Spring streets at a cost of $1,000,000. Evacuation work has already been started and it is planned to have the building ready for occupancy next July.

ONE OF FINEST

Managers of the project state that the edifice will be one of the finest in the city and will be complete in all its appointments, being twelve stories in height, class-A construction featuring steel for frame, granite texture terra cotta for exterior decorations and brick materials for walls. According to Curlett & Beelman, architects, the building will be the best constructed in the West and will introduce many new ideas in office architecture.

Property on the corner has a frontage of fifty-eight feet on Spring street and 155 feet on Ninth street and is located in the immediate vicinity of proposed sites for four height-limit structures in the financial center where the permanency of the field has been assured. The first floor will be divided into commercial shops and allotted to various concerns desiring to locate in that district and space on the remaining twelve stories will be arranged into twenty-three offices for each floor.

NEWER FEATURES

Among the new features will be costly elevator equipment which will consist of three high-speed multi-voltage electric elevators and freight conveyors. The terra cotta to be used in the facing of the outside walls will be the same as that used in the larger buildings of the East, which will be introduced here for the first time in the Garland Building.

All stairways, halls and wainscoting, including a spacious lobby on Ninth street, will be finished in marble with the offices fitted with quarter-sawed oak trim. Several floors will be built to suit the needs of doctors and dentists with special appliances for their use, including coat and lavatory cabinets.

CONTRACT AWARDED

The general contract for the work has been awarded to P. J. Walker of Los Angeles and San Francisco, who has been directed to have the operations rushed through to completion within the time specified. When completed the structure will be known as the Garland Building and will contain the main offices of the local Garland realty organization.

Plans were also made public yesterday by Metcalf & Ryan, realtors, for the erection of a modern class-A height-limit office building at the southwest corner of Seventh and Los Angeles streets by F. W. Johnston, local capitalist, who has obtained a long-term lease on the site.

The building, to be designed especially for occupation by the Transportation Club, now located in the Stowell Hotel, and by allied transportation interests, will be known as the Transportation Building.

RUSHING PLANS

The structure, which will cost, according to present estimates, about $500,000, exclusive of the site, will cover the entire property, 90 by 110 feet. Plans are now being prepared by Architects Walker and Eisen, who will rush them to completion as rapidly as possible, so that construction work can be started within the next sixty days. It is hoped to have the building ready for occupancy early next year.

Considerable space in the building, probably an entire floor or more, will be taken over by the Transportation Club, which has for some time been considering the matter of obtaining larger and more adequate quarters. The portion of the building taken over by the club will be especially designed for its needs, and will be among the best of any similar organization in the city. All realty negotiations were handled by the firm of Metcalf & Ryan.

AUTO BANDITS LURE AND BEAT BUILDER

While B. D. Zaith, a sewer contractor, of 220 West Fifty-sixth street, was suffering yesterday from severe head injuries, Constable Way of Whittier, and other county officers were searching for two bandits who attacked him. The bandits lured Zaith into their automobile Monday night and drove him to Santa Fe Springs, where they demanded money, and beat him and threw him out when he said he had none. Dr. A. T. Charlton at Whittier dressed his hurts.

WILL PLAY LEAD IN HUGHES FILM

Helene Chadwick

That Helene Chadwick will play the leading feminine role in Rupert Hughes's new production, "Law Against Law," is the announcement from the Goldwyn studios.

The news is the more interesting in view of the recent differences and law suits between Miss Chadwick and Goldwyn.

Miss Chadwick won her greatest success in previous Hughes productions, including "Dangerous Curves Ahead," "Gimme," "From the Ground Up" and "The Old Nest."

Miss Chadwick is the first player to be cast in "Law Against Law."

CLUB TAKES CHARGE OF LAST RITES

Funeral Services for R. W. Burnham Were Conducted Yesterday

Funeral services for R. W. Burnham, prominent Los Angeles business man, for many years manager of the local office of R. G. Dun & Co., were conducted at 2 p.m. yesterday at the Fitch funeral parlors.

The services were conducted by the Sunset Club, of which Mr. Burnham was a former president. Music was furnished by Harry Lott and the Zoellner Quartet. The sermon was by Dr. Remsen D. Bird, president of Occidental College. Clinton E. Miller, R. W. Pridham, E. W. Murphy, Joseph Scott, E. D. Lyman and Sam T. Clover acted as honorary pallbearers.

The following resolutions were adopted by the board of the Pilgrimage Play Association on the death of Mr. Burnham:

Whereas, our highly respected and dearly loved friend and associate, Rufus W. Burnham, has been removed from his activities by death; and,

Whereas, Mr. Burnham was closely associated with the Pilgrimage Play from its inception, and its perpetuity as a civic asset of great value was very near his heart, and,

Whereas, due to the vision and clear spiritual insight of Mr. Burnham, the beauty of the Pilgrimage Play and the importance of its spiritual message to the world was first brought to the attention of our various civic organizations and other persons of prestige and influence in this city; and,

Whereas, Mr. Burnham was instrumental in interesting many persons in the play, and with tireless zeal was engaged in a financial campaign for its benefit when stricken by illness; and,

Whereas, Mr. Burnham has always stood in this community for all that was highest and best, a man of impeccable honor and integrity, of the greatest nobility of character and purity of life; therefore be it

Resolved, that in the passing of Mr. Burnham, Los Angeles has lost one of her most highly honored and valued citizens; one who labored unceasingly and with tireless energy for the development of this sunny Southland; and be it further

Resolved, that as we, the board of directors of the Pilgrimage Play Association, have suffered an irreparable loss in Mr. Burnham's death, we convey to his dearly beloved daughter, Mrs. R. H. Oakley, our most sincere condolences, assuring her that her grief is our grief, her loss our loss and that although our hearts are saddened and heavy by the passing on of our loved colleague, we pledge ourselves to carry forward the work, our hands strengthened and our hearts uplifted by the memory of his undaunted courage and his unfailing faith.

SCOUT SHANGHAI IDEA

Police at the harbor last night discounted the theory that Norman Broaddus, 22-year-old Texan, had been shanghaied on board an offshore vessel following an exhaustive investigation of all available information. There is a strong possibility, they declare, that the young man may have shipped out on a vessel under an assumed name. Employment agencies at the harbor have no man listed under the name or description of the missing man.

INSURANCE BODY ELECTS

Life Underwriters in Final Session of Year Hear Frank Davis of New York Company

Frank H. Davis, second vice-president of the Equitable Life Assurance Company of New York, who is on a tour of the agencies of his company, was guest of honor and principal speaker at yesterday's monthly luncheon meeting of the Life Underwriters' Association of Los Angeles at the City Club.

This was the last of the associations' meetings until September and included the annual election of officers.

AYRES RE-ELECTED

George Ayres of the New York Life was re-elected president; A. M. Anderson, Lincoln National Life, first vice-president; Walter G. Hudson, Mutual Life of New York, second vice-president; the office of secretary-treasurer was declared vacant until meetings are resumed, by which time the executive committee expects to reorganize the methods by which the association is financed and perhaps increase the dues.

The new executive committee includes A. A. Dewar, R. Z. Allen, Fred C. Hathaway, Jesse Vance, V. H. Jenkins, Charles Lewin, W. K. Murphy and R. S. Babcock.

Mr. Davis's talk was of a general nature and stressed the proper attitude of the agent, both practically and in the abstract, toward the insurance business in general, his particular company and his own employment as an individual. He decried hard and fast rules for efficiency and success, declaring that all these reduced themselves to a few simple traits of character which everyone knows, but only the elect have the intelligence and will power to carry out.

PAYS TRIBUTE

These he summarized as being a first-rate human being first and an insurance man afterward, the prime purpose being to teach the public how to "make better terms with life." The competition to be fought, he said, is not that of other companies, but the innumerable opportunities for people to fritter away money that might better be invested in insurance. The speaker paid a tribute to Los Angeles and to the personnel of the Los Angeles association.

President George Ayres presided, and the election was conducted by Retiring First Vice-President W. H. Porter of the Missouri State Life Insurance Company.

MOVE TO CURB FIRE HAZARD

Chief Scott Calls for Automatic Sprinklers in Three-storied Garages to Cut Risk

On recommendation of Chief Scott of the Fire Department, the Public Safety Committee of the City Council yesterday recommended the drafting of an ordinance that would require all public garages of three stories or more in height to install automatic sprinkling systems on each floor. At present such garages are only required to have sprinkling systems in their basements.

The automatic sprinkling systems, as soon as fire of any proportion breaks out, start a flow of water on the floor and also give the alarm. Chief Scott declared that if some of the large garages caught fire the combustion would be so great that his men would have to stand off and watch the building burn, with subsequent menace to the whole neighborhood. He said the sprinkling systems on each floor would reduce the scope of the fire to such an extent that the firemen could get at work.

Because the proposed ordinance is far reaching and would be retroaction in its application the committee decided to hold a public hearing before final action is taken. This will give the garage owners a chance to present their side.

Assistant City Attorney Whitehead will draft the ordinance. The matter will not be presented to the Council as a whole until after the public hearing; this, however, will not be held until the proposed ordinance is drafted.

Chief Scott also suggested that owners of vacant lots be required to pay the cost of operating fire apparatus to put out grass, brush and rubbish fires on their premises where the lot owners had failed to keep their lots clean, as is required by ordinance. Mr. Whitehead, however, said that this would not be legal, and the matter was dropped.

Speedy Action is Recorded in Murder Trial

A new record for speed in a murder trial is believed to have been established in Judge Cole's court yesterday during the second trial of W. A. Cornelius, former policeman, charged with killing Gilbert Greenwell on January 14, last.

The jurors were selected, and the prosecution virtually completed its testimony, during the morning and afternoon sessions.

Cornelius admits fatally shooting Greenwell in a downtown street while he was off duty, during a dispute whether he should give him a match. He declares that Greenwell made a move toward his hip pocket and that he shot in self defense.

The jury in the first trial a few weeks ago was unable to agree.

Great Number of Dogs Killed Here Last Year

Nearly 28,000 dogs and 1239 cats were destroyed; 33,337 dogs licensed and 507 head of livestock impounded in Los Angeles from July 1922 to July 1923, according to a report of statistics just made by the Humane Animal Commission.

Of the dogs impounded, some must have been beloved by owners for $03 were redeemed. Nobody seemed to care much about the cats, the report shows. None was redeemed. In the large-animal cases, there were 4356 examinations, 30 arrests, 132 destroyed and $530 in fines imposed for violations under the law.

NEW CLUB FORMED

Former Philadelphians Banded Together Here

Former residents of Philadelphia now living in Los Angeles and Hollywood have formed The Philadelphians' Club and from now on will have regular monthly meetings. The club members on the 4th inst. enjoyed a picnic at Los Turras Lake. Some of the charter members are Mr. and Mrs. William Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. William Crooks, Mr. and Mrs. J. Neilson, and Miss Evelyn Neilson, Hollywood; Howard Crooks, Maywood; Mr. and Mrs. Sauer, Glendale, and Howard Carey, Mr. and Mrs. C. Q. McVaugh, Norton McNaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Sandiford and Miss Evelyn Sandiford, Los Angeles.

HUSBAND WINS DIVORCE

Benjamin J. Rowan was granted a divorce from Emita Rowan by Judge Hewitt of Superior Court yesterday. The husband testified that he came home one evening and discovered that his wife had fled with another man. The couple were married at Westport, N. Y., and have two adopted children.

ASSERTED BIGAMIST RETURNED FOR TRIAL

One year after a charge of bigamy and grand larceny had been brought against him, Richard G. Francois was brought back to Los Angeles yesterday by Detective Lieutenant Cato. Francois was arrested in New York several weeks ago. The complaining witness against him is Blanche Uniack of 722 South Alvarado street, who asserts that Francois married her on July 1, 1922, while he was the husband of Lillian B. Francois. Miss Uniack also charges that Francois took with him $2500 worth of jewelry belonging to her, which he had persuaded her to deposit with a company for which he said he worked. She declares that she later went to the place and discovered that he had not worked there, and that the envelope which she had deposited was empty.

STARTS OWN COMPANY

CHARLES RUGGLES TO MAKE COMEDY SERIES

By Grace Kingsley

After several false stars and coy advances and retreats toward picture stardom, Charles Ruggles, noted stage comedian, has at last decided to burn his bridges behind him, and plunge into a picture career.

The debonair Charlie arrived in town yesterday, along with his manager, Larry Weingarten, who also will be the producer of the star's film comedies in company with Wesley Ruggles, Charlie's brother and a well-known director. The comedian has been appearing on the stage in San Francisco following his New York engagement.

It seems that Charlie Ruggles has been rather uncertain as to going in for pictures until the great success of his work in Agnes Ayres's starring picture, "The Heart Raiders," gave him courage to believe that he really could make good in the celluloid drama. Also A. H. Woods and Sam Harris just wouldn't let him leave the stage.

The New York Times said of Charlie Ruggles's appearance in "The Heart Raiders;" Charles Ruggles is a new and pleasing type of screen funster, and if he chooses to remain in pictures, he is to be watched closely," while the New York Herald declared: "Ruggles is one of the funniest men we have ever seen."

Weingarten said yesterday that the new Ruggles company is to be organized within a few weeks, but that in the meantime the comedian will play a role or two in a couple of other film productions.

Ruggles was formerly a Morosco find, in the old Burbank days. The young comedian left the Morosco management to appear in star roles on Broadway, where he has been playing during the past several years.

Gaston's Come-Back

B. P. Schulberg gave one of those nice little informal dinner parties for which he is famous, out at the Montmartre Cafe at the Exposition, the other night, with all his stars and some other fortunate people as guests.

"You're going to do 'Maytime' aren't you?" somebody asked Gaston Glass.

"Don't know," said Gaston, "I may do some kind of time. Don't know whether it's going to be Maytime' or not!"

Wellington Cross Is Wed

Wellington Cross, playing the Orpheum, is married again, following his divorce from Lois Josephine, his former stage partner. Cross married his present wife shortly after his divorce from Miss Josephine, a few months ago. The present Mrs. Cross was Catherine Greer, of Chicago. She is traveling with the star on his vaudeville tour.

"Sensible woman," Lew Brice pointed out. "Look at all those beautiful dames in Cross's act!"

Irene Franklin in Concert

Irene Franklin is going to invade the concert field! Yep, the hoary old high-brows are going to have a treat! You know there are so many wonderful artists in the concert field—but not to listen to! Miss Franklin is going to get them out of their rut, or I miss my guess.

Miss Franklin is going to carry her art into the rarified air of the concert stage next season, under direction of William Morris. Already she is gathering material for it. She confides to me that Irvin Cobb, George Ade, Dorothy Parker and other well known humorists are to contribute bits to her act—or should we call it "act" when it reaches the heights of concert? But she isn't going to quite give the go-by to her old friends the shop girl and the waitress and the chamber maid. Some of these personages, perhaps modified a little, are going to be introduced to high society. Her recitals are to occupy something like an hour and a half.

It's not that the Orpheum star has anything against vaudeville. Far from it. But she is anxious to try a new and different field.

Jerry Jarnagin, her pianist on her Orpheum tour, may accompany Miss Franklin into concert work. Jarnagin composed many of John Steel's and Dorothy Jardon's songs, and is besides possessed of rare personality and stage talent. He is writing the music for a number of the star's new songs.

Miss Franklin will close her vaudeville tour within a few weeks. Then she expects to take a trip to England, where she will put her two little girls in school for a year at least.

"Yes, I have just two children," explained Miss Franklin. "Some of the newspapers give the idea that I have as many children as Eddie Foy, or that I gave birth to the Fioradora sextet."

Then Miss Franklin handed a bouquet or two to western vaudeville audiences and crowds in general.

"You meet with whole-hearted enthusiasm in the West," she said. "And with courtesy, too. Why, when a clerk in one of your stores spoke kindly to me, the other day, I burst into tears and fell on his bosom. Yet all he said was, 'No madam, we haven't got the article you mention. I'm sorry.'"

Dorothy Reid Is Feted

Mrs. Wallace Reid, who we cast with her picture, "Huma Wreckage," is being made much in New York, according to telegraphic word just received.

She was the guest of honor at dinner, last Friday night, of the League of Professional and Business Women, of which Elizabeth Sears is president, the affair being held in the clubhouse at 33 East Thirty-ninth street. Mrs. Reid spoke on the evils of narcotics.

Earlier in the day Mrs. Reid spoke at the luncheon of the Association of Motion-Picture Advertisers, and on Saturday she visited Sing Sing prison, where "Human Wreckage" will be shown members of the welfare league. On Monday night she visited the Manhattan Hospital, Ward's Island, at the invitation of Dr. Hyman, superintendent.

"Human Wreckage" is now drawing crowds to Grauman's Rialto. It appears to be in for a run.

MAINTAINS MERRY PACE

Sparkling with brilliant dialogue, surprise situations and good wholesome humor, "Dulcy" is maintaining its merry pace in the third week at the Morosco. Besides the unusual fun of the efforts of a dumbbell wife to run everyone's affairs, there is a wealth of wholesome human nature in the George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly story. Making "Dulcy" duplicate its New York hit are Adda Gleason, Harland Tucker, Bessie Eyton, Gayne Whitman, Joseph Eggenton, Lillian Elliott, Lloyd Corrigan, Joseph Bell, Arthur MacDonald, William Rogers and Harry Garrity.

SOLOIST SINGS ON AD CLUB PROGRAM

Marjorie Dodge

Appearing on the program of the Advertising Club at their noonday luncheon yesterday in the ballroom of the Hotel Alexandria, Miss Marjorie Dodge of Chicago, soprano soloist, took her audience by storm. An unusual ovation was given her upon the conclusion of her first number, encore after encore being demanded.

She is one of America's youngest artists and a decided favorite, who will be vocal soloist with the Hollywood Bowl Summer Concerts. Miss Dodge sang, as a special number, the new composition, "The Bowl Refrain."

OFFERING IS PLEASING

"Ruffles," New Burbank Show, Runs along at Fast Clip

In their latest musical comedy entertainment the Hi-Jinks organization at the Burbank Theater presents not only a pleasing line-up of special numbers, but one of the most attractively gotten-up combinations of musical numbers and travesty bits ever assembled.

"Ruffles," which is the name of the new production, features Lee "Bud" Harrison, supported by George Clark and other members of the Burbank company. Those who shine in the cast are Grace Hutchinson, Gene Darby and William McKee, while the beauty chorus is a charming aggregation to look upon. The show moves along at a lively tempo.

The theater has undergone a complete renovation and represents a picture of absolute comfort and charm.

COMPETE FOR CUPS

'Robin Hood' is in Fourth Week Today

The fourth week of Douglas Fairbanks in "Robin Hood," which is now showing at the Mission Theater begins today. While the present rate of patronage insures the production an extended run, this is postively the last time the production will be shown in Los Angeles until next year. There are many sections of the country where the production has never been shown, and following the close of the local engagement, this outside territory will be served.

Fairbanks has given the screen a "Robin Hood," that lives up to the famous old legend in every respect. The supporting cast includes Enid Bennett, Sam DeGrasse, Wallace Beery, Alan Hale and others. DeKoven's "Robin Hood," overture is presented at every showing by Gino Ceveri and the Mission orchestra.

"GERTIE'S GARTER" CAUSING LAUGHTER

Avery Hopwood's farce of love and laughter, "Getting Gertie's Garter," goes into its fourth week at the Egan Theater Monday night.

"Getting Gertie's Garter" was originally produced at the Republic Theater, New York City, with Hazel Dawn featured. It laughed itself into the hearts of jaded Broadway theatergoers and became a success overnight.

The cast includes William Burress, Marjorie Bennett, Herbert Heyes, Frank Dale, Harry Hayden, Agnes Sanford, Brady Kline, Lela Bliss and Robert Fellows.

LOCAL GIRL SIGNS FOR ORPHEUM TOUR

Dorothy Dilley, protegee of Ernest Belcher, of the Celeste School of Dancing, has embarked upon a stage career which will carry her direct to New York's famous Broadway.

Miss Dilley, for whom Belcher predicts a brilliant career, has signed a contract to appear with the act of Snow and Columbus. She began her first theatrical engagement Sunday at the Hillstreet Theater. Following this engagement the act will return to New York, playing Orpheum houses en route.

"SHEIK" AND "SHRIEK" FIGHT FOR HONORS

"The Sheik" and "The Shriek," are fighting for honors at the Symphony this week. The former is George Melford's screen production of Edith M. Hull's novel, "The Sheik," and stars the ardent Rodolph Valentino, while the latter is Mack Sennett's "Shriek of Araby," a five-reel burlesque on "The Sheik," featuring Ben Turpin at his cross-eyed best.

"The Shriek of Araby,"—every foot of it—is a burlesque on "The Sheik," even to the ardent love making of the famous Valentino, with the gallant Romeo, Ben Turpin, being ably assisted by charming Kathryn McGuire.

"BAD MAN" GIVES WAY TO "MAN OF ACTION"

Holbrook Blinn, who has given his famous characterization of "Pancho Lopez," the bandit, in "The Bad Man," for the past fourteen weeks at the Majestic Theater, will be seen the last times Saturday matinee and night.

The satirical comedy from the pen of Porter Emerson Brown will give way to Ivan Miller, star in "A Man of Action," a new play from the pens of Ernest Wilkes and Bradley King. "A Man of Action" has never before been presented on any stage.

OFFER ANOTHER TERMINAL PLAN

Experts See Glaring Blunder in Espee Idea

Only Improvement Replaces Concrete for Timber

Hearing Before Commission May End Today

Another substitute union terminal plan was offered by the Southern Pacific Railway yesterday in its fight to defeat the Plaza terminal plan, which is now being heard by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Generally speaking, the only way the Espee has improved its old terminal plan in the new is by offering to substitute concrete for timber in the construction of one-story and two-story viaducts.

It appears to the engineers favoring the Plaza plan that the present offering is the old "Titcomb plan" disguised. One of the most glaring blunders it presents, in the opinion of experts who examined it yesterday, is a concrete span 140 feet long, without arch or support of any sort.

The double-decked viaducts begin a short distance south of the Arcade station, according to the plan offered, and begin to rise from grade at a point near Sixth street, growing in height until they straddle Sixth street, which is slightly depressed to help the trestle get easy grade. From there the trestle passes on to a point beyond Seventh street, where it turns and runs toward the river.

CROSSES RIVER

It is calculated to pass over the river at a height sufficient to eliminate the present river crossings in that neighborhood, and pass on to the tracks running along the east bank of the river, over which the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific would come into the substation.

The second deck of the trestles starts between Sixth and Seventh street, somewhere east of the present Pacific Electric station at Sixth and Main streets, and passes east to Sixth and Central, where it passes over the top of the proposed Southern Pacific-Union Pacific trestle, forming a sort of "Y" as it passes over the steam lines, one leg of the "Y" swinging southeast toward Long Beach and San Pedro, while the other swings northeast and crosses the river in the direction of Pasadena and San Gabriel.

State Railroad Commission engineers who have reviewed the plan offered by the Southern Pacific are of the opinion that, to meet the legal requirements of such a structure, the bannister or guard rail of the upper trestle probably would have to be at least forty-five or fifty feet above the ground.

Under the new plan, the Southern Pacific suggests that it move its coach yards from their present location to a plot of ground east of the river and north of Mission street, which area was recently purchased from the Union Pacific, it is reported.

William Jaekle, assistant engineer of the Southern Pacific, said yesterday that, according to his estimates, the Plaza terminal would cost $14,000,000 more than the Arcade terminal. W. H. Comstock, general manager of the Salt Lake branch of the Union Pacific, discussed the terminal problem and agreed with Mr. Jaekle that the grade crossing problem can be solved without the construction of any sort of union terminal.

T. W. Williams, assistant general manager of the Southern Pacific, completed his illuminating discussion of the union terminals of the United States.

After Mr. Jaekle completes his testimony today, the defense will introduce as its last witness Paul Shoup, vice-president of the Southern Pacific Railway. Mr. Shoup arrived late yesterday and sat through a short session of the hearing.

It is probable that F. P. Gregson, representing the Associated Jobbers, will take the witness stand today. There is a bare possibility that the hearing will be finished this afternoon.

PROMISE IS FULFILLED

San Diego Youth Pays Fine in Time Allowed by Court

Lee Spalding, a San Diego youth, came into Federal Judge Bledsoe's court yesterday and kept the promise he made the judge a year and a half ago. In January, 1922, he was fined $750 after pleading guilty to an offense against the Federal banking laws and the judge gave him until July of this year to pay it, which he did. Spalding tampered with some checks in the First National Bank of San Diego, in September, 1919, according to the charge. He was indicted the following year.

SUES CAR COMPANY

Woman Asks $11,550 For Asserted Negligence

What promises to be a hotly contested suit, started in Judge Monroe's court yesterday. The case of Mrs. Stella B. Kuhnle, who is suing the Los Angeles Railway Corporation for $11,550 damages for injuries said to have been received when she was thrown against the controller box, went before the jury yesterday. According to the Mrs. Kuhnle complaint, she boarded a street car at First street and Vermont avenue and the car started suddenly, throwing her against the controller box. The company contended that the plaintiff failed to excise due caution in keeping her balance.

NAMED DELEGATE TO RELIGIOUS GATHERING

Mrs. Fisher has just returned from a similar conference at Mount Hermon in the Santa Cruz Mountains, where she delivered two courses of lectures. She is the author of several religious texts and has been active in missionary work for many years.

EDEN GARDENS.

One week ago I offered these small tracts near Del Mar, San Diego County, for the first time. I got results, because buyers found that the land was rich, well situated for homes, ideal for fruits and vegetables, chicken ranches and everything else, and because there is plenty of good irrigating water at a reasonable price. Where can you buy land like this, with a beautiful beach and the Los Angeles-San Diego Coast Boulevard at $500 and $600 an acre? San Diego County cannot irrigate like the Lake Hodges Irrigation System offer the best buy for homeseekers in California today.

H. C. BATCHELDER, Agt., Del Mar, Calif.

IMPORTANT NOTICE!
We are subdividing 900 acres in ten-acre tracts near Vista, San Diego Co., Calif. We will give $50 per acre discount to a few purchasers before placing the rest of the tracts on record. We are anxious to have people living on the tract who are willing to give their services at good wages to help build the highways and streets. LID CLAMPED ON FAKE CHARITIES

Social Service Starts Drive to Protect Public

Citizens Asked to Withhold Chance Gifts

Credentials Provided Those Working Honestly

An intensive campaign in the interests of civic protection against the importunities of fake solicitors for mythical charities is being undertaken at the present time by the Los Angeles Social Service Commission.

The commission, which acts as a clearing-house for municipal philanthropy, is vested by city ordinance with the final word of authority in granting or withholding permission to individuals or organizations desiring to collect funds for charities. The body's seal of approval, in the form of a yearly card, certified by all members is issued to the solicitor only after the latter's credentials, history and aims have undergone protracted investigation, and are adjudged sound.

At the end of the year the authorization to function as a charitable medium is renewed if reports submitted in the meantime to the commission are satisfactory. There are at this time eighty-two accredited philanthropic associations listed on the commission's books. Copies of this list have been printed and are being distributed as a guide in the matter of judicious generosity on the part of the public.

Need of co-operation on the part of Los Angeles citizens with the efforts of the commission to put a stop to the operation of unauthorized fund gatherers was stressed at a session of the social service body yesterday, at which representatives of the city press were asked to be present.

As stated by a member, "If the busy man or woman who, approached with a plea for a contribution, tosses a coin to the solicitor for a home for the aged of which he has never heard or a children's hospital the name of which has an unfamiliar sound, would, before giving, ask to see the agent's credential card, a great many dollars would be saved for giving to legitimate purposes.

"The Social Service Commission desires to do two things: Assist worth-while philanthropic associations and make it distinctly uncomfortable for the other class.

"The commission does not seek to discourage public generosity but to foster intelligent giving. Any organization or individual furnishing unimpeachable evidence of honesty of purpose and worthiness of aim and the objects of which do not overlap those of a body already functioning will be granted authority to collect funds."

CITY WILL BUY WATER LANDS

Service Body to Acquire 2140 Owens River Acres

Engineer Asserts Shortage Now Impossible

Total Outlay in Six Months Near $1,000,000

Purchase of 2400 acres of water land in the Owens River Valley, consisting of seven separate tracts, for a consideration of $163,200 was voted by the Public Service Commission yesterday, in ordering exercise of options held on the property. This brings the total spent for water lands in the last six months to approximately $1,000,000, it was stated.

This land will guarantee an adequate supply of water for Los Angeles and will prevent a shortage that might occur if measures to increase the reserve water land had not been decided upon, according to Chief Engineer Mulholland, of the public service department.

ALL DEMANDS MET

He expressed the belief that the period of distress due to lack of water has passed and that the additional water land will enable the water department to supply all foreseen demands for the remainder of the year.

The land ordered purchased consists of the following tracts: 320 acres for $22,500; 1200 acres for $67,500; 160 acres for $11,000; 160 acres for $16,000; 120 acres for $1200; 160 acres for $5000 and 320 acres for $40,000. All of the tracts had been recommended by the engineering department and options obtained at the above figures.

ACTION ON RESERVOIR

The commission also adopted a resolution authorizing the president and secretary to sign necessary instruments required by the United States Department of Agriculture preparatory to granting the City of Los Angeles a permit to construct a reservoir in the San Francisquito Canyon. This reservoir will be for storage of water and will be situated on government land, it was said.

The action of the commission in requesting the Playground Commission to vacate property known as the Slauson playground, which is declared to be needed for storage of materials from the Compton pumping station of the water bureau, was brought up again yesterday with the reading of a letter from President Del Valle to the playground commission setting forth the recent action of the commission. Reading of the comwas for the purpose of acquainting the commissioners with the fact that the request has been made of the playground commission.

ADVERTISING VALUE SEEN FOR SALES

New Pacific Coast Clubs' Head Says Governments Will Resort to Medium

"We have been playing with this force we call advertising. We know quite accurately what it can do in selling merchandise. But as to its potential influence for good, we know as little as Benjamin Franklin did about electricity when he and his son had their experiment with the little silk kite," said Don Francisco, president-elect of the Pacific Coast Advertising Clubs Association, in his address yesterday at the luncheon of the Advertising Club of Los Angeles at the Alexandria.

Mr. Francisco predicted that soon governments would have advertising departments just as chambers of commerce and industries do now. Advertising managers of countries, he said, would utilize this power to rekindle patriotism, teach millions the duties of citizenship, and meet radicalism with the "sobering influence of truth and reason merchandised to the public through advertising."

He praised also the vigilance work of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, declaring that its war on fraudulent and misleading advertising was extremely valuable to the public. Others on the program were Tom H. Shore of San Diego and Clare McCord of Long Beach. Miss Marjorie Dodge, soprano, accompanied by Miss Louise Francis, gave vocal numbers.

The newly elected officers and directors were installed as follows: A. Carman Smith, president; Ross Welch, Irving S. Smith, vice-presidents; Glen W. Duncan, secretary-treasurer; directors, Elliott C. Hensel, E. J. LaFon, Ray E. Nimmo, James G. Sprecher, W. A. Holt and Lonnie G. Feagans.

SAKI BURSTS INTO FLAME; AUTO BURNS

Fresno Fire Department Discovers Oriental Drink After Extinguishing Blaze

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, July 10.—Occidentals who heretofore have imbibed of the Japanese liquor known as saki, probably will in the future look askance at such concoctions before drinking, as the result of the destruction late yesterday of an automobile from combustion of a quantity of the high-powered liquor.

The fire department extinguished a fire in a coupe parked at the edge of the downtown district, and when the police investigated they found more than six gallons of the liquor in the car. Investigation revealed that the fire was caused by the liquor, the police say.

H. Kawanuma owner, said he had lent the car to a friend. Influential Japanese of Fresno told the police they would have the friend in court to explain the presence of the liquor in the car.
